GRIFFITH PARK TOO SMALL FOR FANS EAGER TO CHEER RIVALS

World's Championship Stake in Seventh Baseball Contest.

CAPITAL HAPPY

Washington and New York Teams in Decisive Battle.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

GRIFFITH STADIUM, WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—In the presence of the greatest and wildest crowd that ever witnessed a ball game in Washington, the New York Giants and the Washington Senators met this afternoon in the seventh and final game of the world's series. As the clubs went into action, each had won three games and needed another victory to clinch the title. The prospectus was so interesting to Washington fandom that 38,000 crowded within the narrow confines of Griffith Stadium, 10,000 were turned away at the gates and only an all-night vigil at the sickened box offices gained admittance for the 2500 sun-gods who occupied the limited spaces of the unreserved sections.

Perfect Day for Battle.

Another perfect day graced the occasion and the clubs went into action with neither favor nor hindrance. They were absolutely even in the important matter of pitchers,

THRONG SEEKS GAME TICKETS

Baseball Frenzy in National Capital Reaches Climax.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The baseball frenzy that has ripped the National Capital for weeks and in the last 10 days has almost stopped the wheels of government reached its climax last night and early today when thousands of fans engaged in all-night scramble for tickets for the seventh game of the world's series.

Nothing like it ever was seen in Washington, and it is doubtful if anything approaching it was ever seen in any city.

At 4 o'clock this morning there were lines that wound for blocks around the ball park and there were representatives of every walk of life in the capital, congressmen and government officials in quest of boxes and grand stand seats rubbed elbows with urchins whose ambition and purses went no further than the bleachers. The affulent ones hired boys to undergo the weary waiting in line and then stuck around to watch the boys. The unprecedented confusion of the ticket situation was caused largely by the fact that no tickets had been printed or sold for a seventh game in Washington. The club management rushed the printers and then undertook to dispose of the last game tickets on the basis of the first three games, far as possible. This put the business of getting a ticket for the seventh game down to hours of standing in line and presentation of stubs at the box office.

20,000 General Admissions.

Child Drowns as Flood Waters Sweep New Smyrna, Fla.

NEW SMYRNA, Fla., Oct. 10.—This section today was under several inches of water after one of the heaviest rainfalls in history. Homes were flooded, railroad and highway traffic retarded—and in several places blocked, and untold damage done to crops.

One death, that of a small child living here, has been reported. The baby fell from a couch into the water which flooded its home and was drowned. Rescue parties are working frantically to save several families who are marooned in flooded homes. At noon the rain was still falling.

Red Cross Moves Speedily to Aid Sufferers.

MANILA, Oct. 10. — Fragmentary reports of last week's typhoon in northern Luzon which began trickling in today revealed that 30 are known dead, 15 sail boats sunk and the steamer Macaria ashore and believed a total loss.

In many towns, all of the Nipa huts were destroyed and the more substantial government buildings damaged. In Amulung municipality, only four houses were left standing.

All telegraph lines are down and no reports have been received from the villages in the interior.

Memorial Window For Rev. E. P. Wise Will be Unveiled

A memorial window, in honor of Rev. E. P. Wise, for 10 years pastor of the church, had his wife, will be unveiled at a joint Rally Day and Homecoming service in the First Church of Christ, Sunday morning.

The window, of a beautiful art design is located in one of the inside doors of the church. The service, which will be a union meeting of the Bible school and congregation, will start at 9:30 a. m.

Rev. Wise left here in 1915. He is now in charge of the rural churches and missions in Summit county, maintaining his residence in Akron. Mrs. Wise is deceased.

13-year-old Preacher And Father to Fill Pulpit Here Sunday

Rev. J. Edward Hill, Cleveland, missionary evangelist for the Northeast Ohio district of the Methodist Episcopal church, and his son Harold C. Hill, 13-year-old boy preacher, will be in charge of the Sunday services at the Anderson Methodist Episcopal church, West Ninth street, of which Jay H. Smith is pastor.

Dr. Hill was once a drunkard, gambler, criminal and drug fiend. His son has been preaching since the age of four years. Both will take part in the Sunday school at 9:30 and also preach at 11 a. m., 2: 30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. If they arrive here Saturday evening, a street meeting probably will be held down town.

Corydon Palmer Dental Society Will Meet Here in May

The Corydon Palmer Dental Society, made up of dentists of Columbiana, Mahoning and Trumbull counties will hold its annual meeting here on the second Thursday in May, East Liverpool having been selected at a meeting of the organization held at Salem, Thursday.

Dr. L. T. Canfield, famous dental surgeon of Toledo, addressed the dentists at the Salem meeting. His subject was "Root Canal Surgery." About 50 dentists from the tri-county area were in attendance.

DEFER THIRD STREET SCHOOL CLOSING UNTIL DISTRICT ACTS

Board of Education Awaits Expression of People.

PROTEST HEARD

Attorney Ben L. Bennett Cites Traffic Perils for Children.

As the result of objections made by residents of the district, the board of education, at a special meeting, held in the high school building, Thursday evening, deferred action looking toward the abandonment of the Third street building, in order to ascertain public sentiment.

This action was taken after a delegation of 30 residents of the district appeared before the board in behalf of a petition, said to contain the names of almost every resident of the territory affected, asking that the board reconsider its contemplated plan.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett, representing the delegation, was a spokesman. He pointed out that the Third street school was established 33 years ago, being one of the oldest buildings in the district. He cited traffic perils in the event children were compelled to attend the Sixth street or Central building, as suggested by the school board.

Terms it "Class Legislation."

"There has been no changes in this district," said Mr. Bennett. "New houses and apartment buildings have been erected and if anything the district is larger now than when it was formed. It would be false economy for the board to abandon this school just for the sake of establishing a course in manual training in the high school. It would be setting a bad precedence for other boards.

"We are not asking for additional schools but are praying that you let us keep that which we already have. This step would be class legislation and the Third street district would be penalized in order to establish a course in the high school.

"Children, attending the Third street school are those of tender age—those in the first, second, third and fourth

Mekka Sanctorium To Initiate Large Class on Oct. 21

Mekka Sanctorium No. 231, Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection will initiate a large class of candidates at a meeting in the I. O. O. F. temple, Tuesday evening, October 21.

The ceremonies will be preceded by a parade through the down town district, the procession being headed by the Ceramic City Band. Following the parade a banquet will be served, the initiation being the concluding event of the celebration.

Members of the order will go to Lisbon, Thursday, October 16 to stage an outdoor ceremonial. The affair will be featured by a burlesque initiation with the patrol and jazz band taking part.

The organization also is planning visits to all nearby towns during the winter months.

$7,000 Damage Suit At Cleveland Echo Of Lorain Tornado

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10. — An echo of the Lorain tornado will be heard in federal court, following the filing today of a suit for $7,000 damages by W. J. Peer, owner of the tug Buckeye, against the American Ship Building company.

In the suit Peer claims the largest freighter of the lakes, Henry Ford II., which had just been built by the ship company, was allowed to drift in the Black river following the storm, and sank his tug.

F. M. CROFT, 65, IS DEAD HERE

Former Standard Pottery Auditor Dies Thursday.

Francis M. Croft, 65 years old, lifelong resident of East Liverpool, died Thursday afternoon in his home in Fenton street after a brief illness. He had been in ill health for several years.

He was born in what is now Pleasant Heights and was auditor for the Standard Pottery company for 35 years.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth; four sons, George E. of Canton; A. E. of East Liverpool, and J. M. and J. C. residing on the Lincoln highway, and one sister, Mrs. Philip McBane of the Campground road.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the First United Presbyterian church. Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be made in Spring Grove cemetery.

FATHER JAILS ILLINOIS LAD AS SLAYER OF 13-DAY BRIDE

Feeling Runs High Following Gruesome Crime.

LYNCHING FEARED

Lester Kahl, 24, is Suspect; Victim Was 21.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10—Arrested by his own father, Lester Kahl, 24-year-old son of Deputy Sheriff E. A. Kahl of Shipman, 16 miles south of here, today was being held in jail with a net of gruesome evidence tightly drawn about him as the slayer of his pretty 13-day bride, Margaret, 21. While Sheriff John H. Russell was preparing for an emergency in case the high feeling might lead to an attempt to lynch young Kahl, a coroner's jury was being sworn in to hold an inquest over the bullet-riddled body of the bride.

The body was found last night in a shallow grave near Shipman, where Kahl led the Sheriff after he had confessed he shot his young bride. It had been buried three weeks.

Cold-blooded Murder.

"We had quarreled over a girl I had kept company with," Young Kahl explained to the men who dug at the spot he had indicated. "Also she wanted new clothes which I felt I could not afford. I dicided to shoot her.

"That same evening I asked her to help me shoot some doves. I told her to go around a hedge and scare the birds toward me. I planned, however, to plug her when she came around the hedge.

"The first shot bowled her over and she exclaimed, 'You have done a good job of it.' I reloaded and shot her again. Then I hauled the body in a wagon to a spot a half mile away and dug a grave a couple of feet deep and covering the body with an army blanket, I buried her there."

The young girl's puzzling disappearance led to Kahl's arrest by his own father. She had been missing since Sept. 15. The Kahls were married Sept. 2.

Railroad Agents Authorized to Sell Ocean Line Tickets

Ticket Agent James Hodgkinson of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad, announced Friday that all Pennsylvania railroad stations are now authorized to sell through tickets to all parts of the world, as a result of arrangements for the sale of trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific steamer passage.

Auto Claims Three More Victims.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10. — Automobiles today had added three boys to their death toll in Cincinnati and vicinity. Troy Brewer, 6, was killed last night when playing in front of his home. Morris Woodmon, 5, was killed an hour later by a machine driven by a girl. Early in the evening Clarence Davis, 7, of Newport, Ky., was killed near his home. The Hamilton county toll for the year stands at 66.

ABOUT 1,700 WOMEN'S NAMES RECORDED; TWO MORE DAYS TO ENROLL

Approximately One-half of City's Voting Strength is Qualified for Presidential, State, District and County Election, According to Reports From Precinct Registrars on Second Enrollment Day.

LAST-MINUTE RUSH IS EXPECTED HERE NEXT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Election Supervisors Warn Men and Women That no Registration Previous to October 2 Counts for November 4 Balloting as Republicans and Democrats Draft Plans for Campaign Rallies.

With 4,218 electors enrolled, registration work in East Liverpool was believed to be approximately 50 per cent complete, Friday, according to estimates of the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections.

The registration on Thursday, the second of the four days set apart for electors to qualify in order to vote at the general election on Tuesday, November 4, showed an increase over the initial day. Reports at the election board headquarters, Market street, Friday morning, showed that 2,204 voters had signed the registry Thursday as compared to 2,014 who qualified on October 2.

While official reports are not available, approximately 40 per cent, or about 1,700, of those who have quality are women. Women failed to heed the advice of the Women's Republican club that they enroll on the first two of the four registration days in order to relieve congestion on the last two days when the big rush is expected to develop.

Thompson Hill Sets Pace

The largest enrollment in the city is at Precinct B of the Second Ward, known as the Thompson Hill polling place, where 310 voters have enrolled. Precinct D of the First Ward and C of the Second Ward reported 291 and 282 voters, respectively, at the close of the books Thursday night. The smallest registration is in Precinct F of the Fourth Ward, where but 140 qualified on the first two days.

John W. Moore, clerk of the election board, Friday, called attention to the fact that voters are not required to tell their ages when registering, but must state whether they are 21 years old or over. Many women, it was stated, are loathe to visit the registration places, believing that they must give their ages.

The registration work will be completed on Friday and Saturday, October 17 and 18. Registrars will meet at the polling places between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. and from 5 to 10 p. m. on each day.

Voting under the provisions of the absent voters' law is now in progress, 69 ballots having been issued by Election Board Clerk J. W. Moore. Applications for absent voters' supplies will be received up to and including October 31.

Both Parties Active.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties plan campaign rallies here during October. Harry L. Davis, Republican nominee for governor, will speak here October 28, while William B. Wilson, secretary of labor in the late Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, will make an address at a Democratic rally on October 22.

The Republican Service league, headquarters of which are in Chicago, and of which Hanford MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion, is the head, through the district chairman, Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Hanley, has appointed Louis Capehart, Jr. of East Liverpool, chairman for the organization in Columbiana county.

Hanley is at the head of the service league in the Eighteenth congressional district, and is now selecting

Lodgemen, headed by Prof. Alexander's band, will form in the Diamond, march south on Market street to East Fourth street, east on Fourth to Broadway, north on Broadway to Sixth street, east on Sixth to Monroe, south on Monroe to Fifth street, east on Fifth to Market, thence to the Diamond, where the parade will disband.

The band will give a street concert in the Diamond, following the parade. Members of the Sons of Italy lodge of Wellsville also have been invited to participate in the celebration.

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah passed over Sentinew, Arizona, 94 miles east of Yuma, at 10:24 a. m., (Mountain time), the Southern Pacific railroad announced.

500-VOICE CHOIR FOR DR. W. E. BIEDERWOLF REVIVAL, WHICH BEGINS SUNDAY, OCTOBER 19, RAPIDLY FILLING UP

McCune, Gipsy Smith's Old Leader, Will Direct Singing in Second and Washington Street Tabernacle.

Rapid filling up of the personnel of the big choir of 500 voices for the Dr. W. E. Biederwolf revival, which will open in the Second and Washington street tabernacle one week from next Sunday, was announced at the meeting of the evangelistic music committee at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening.

"The seats are being rapidly taken" asserted James Heaton, who is in charge of the advance work for the series of meetings here. "At this stage the music situation is well in hand. There will be fine aggregation of folks to greet Mr. McCune, Gipsy Smith's old leader when he comes to East Liverpool. I know 'Mac' well enough to know how pleased he will be. Yes, I predict this will be a singing revival. We are going to have lots of fine singing and you know how far that goes towards making any religious awakening successful"

Build Choir Platform.

In keeping with the choral preparation is the rapid progress that Thursday and Friday was made on the large platform within the tabernacle on which the choir will be seated. It will be rapidly rushed to completion.

Another volunteer work day will be observed on Saturday. With what was accomplished on Friday by similar labor the sheathing and roof, it is expected, will be completed.

Benjamin Hall, electrician, who put in the lights for the Bob Jones meeting in 1920, has assumed a similar contract for the Biederwolf tabernacle and will install the necessary wiring on Monday. As a result night work will be a possible feature of next week when the seats will be placed in position and the sawdust strewn on the ground.

Two Committee Meetings.

Two other committees will meet at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday night and confer with Mr. Heaton. That on women's work will assemble at 8 o'clock and the other, made up of revival ushers, one-half hour earlier.

Increased attendance at the cottage prayer services is being generally noted. "The prayer services are better than I have ever before noted," declared one minister at the ministerial conference on Thursday morning. "I am sure this tendency will have a marked effect on the revival when it begins."

Crowd Greets Famed Violinist; Benefit Concert Tonight

A large audience of school students greeted Mme. Estelle Gray-Lhevinne, famed violinist, in a recital in the High school auditorium Friday afternoon.

Mme. Gray-Lhevinne will render another program, open to the public, at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening. The violinist's accompanist will be James Gray.

The concerts are under the auspices of the department of music in the East Liverpool public schools.

"We had quarreled over a girl I had kept company with," Young Kahl explained to the men who dug at the spot he had indicated. "Also she wanted new clothes which I felt I could not afford. I dicided to shoot her.

"That same evening I asked her to help me shoot some doves. I told her to go around a hedge and scare the birds toward me. I planned, however, to plug her when she came around the hedge.

"The first shot bowled her over and she exclaimed, 'You have done a good job of it.' I reloaded and shot her again. Then I hauled the body in a wagon to a spot a half mile away and dug a grave a couple of feet deep and covering the body with an army blanket, I buried her there."

The young girl's puzzling disappearance led to Kahl's arrest by his own father. She had been missing since Sept. 15. The Kahls were married Sept. 2.

Railroad Agents Authorized to Sell Ocean Line Tickets

Ticket Agent James Hodgkinson of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad, announced Friday that all Pennsylvania railroad stations are now authorized to sell through tickets to all parts of the world, as a result of arrangements for the sale of trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific steamer passage.

Auto Claims Three More Victims.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10. — Automobiles today had added three boys to their death toll in Cincinnati and vicinity. Troy Brewer, 6, was killed last night when playing in front of his home. Morris Woodmon, 5, was killed an hour later by a machine driven by a girl. Early in the evening Clarence Davis, 7, of Newport, Ky., was killed near his home. The Hamilton county toll for the year stands at 66.

ABOUT 1,700 WOMEN'S NAMES RECORDED; TWO MORE DAYS TO ENROLL

Approximately One-half of City's Voting Strength is Qualified for Presidential, State, District and County Election, According to Reports From Precinct Registrars on Second Enrollment Day.

LAST-MINUTE RUSH IS EXPECTED HERE NEXT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Election Supervisors Warn Men and Women That no Registration Previous to October 2 Counts for November 4 Balloting as Republicans and Democrats Draft Plans for Campaign Rallies.

With 4,218 electors enrolled, registration work in East Liverpool was believed to be approximately 50 per cent complete, Friday, according to estimates of the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections.

The registration on Thursday, the second of the four days set apart for electors to qualify in order to vote at the general election on Tuesday, November 4, showed an increase over the initial day. Reports at the election board headquarters, Market street, Friday morning, showed that 2,204 voters had signed the registry Thursday as compared to 2,014 who qualified on October 2.

While official reports are not available, approximately 40 per cent, or about 1,700, of those who have quality are women. Women failed to heed the advice of the Women's Republican club that they enroll on the first two of the four registration days in order to relieve congestion on the last two days when the big rush is expected to develop.

Thompson Hill Sets Pace

The largest enrollment in the city is at Precinct B of the Second Ward, known as the Thompson Hill polling place, where 310 voters have enrolled. Precinct D of the First Ward and C of the Second Ward reported 291 and 282 voters, respectively, at the close of the books Thursday night. The smallest registration is in Precinct F of the Fourth Ward, where but 140 qualified on the first two days.

John W. Moore, clerk of the election board, Friday, called attention to the fact that voters are not required to tell their ages when registering, but must state whether they are 21 years old or over. Many women, it was stated, are loathe to visit the registration places, believing that they must give their ages.

The registration work will be completed on Friday and Saturday, October 17 and 18. Registrars will meet at the polling places between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. and from 5 to 10 p. m. on each day.

Voting under the provisions of the absent voters' law is now in progress, 69 ballots having been issued by Election Board Clerk J. W. Moore. Applications for absent voters' supplies will be received up to and including October 31.

Both Parties Active.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties plan campaign rallies here during October. Harry L. Davis, Republican nominee for governor, will speak here October 28, while William B. Wilson, secretary of labor in the late Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, will make an address at a Democratic rally on October 22.

The Republican Service league, headquarters of which are in Chicago, and of which Hanford MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion, is the head, through the district chairman, Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Hanley, has appointed Louis Capehart, Jr. of East Liverpool, chairman for the organization in Columbiana county.

Hanley is at the head of the service league in the Eighteenth congressional district, and is now selecting

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah passed over Sentinew, Arizona, 94 miles east of Yuma, at 10:24 a. m., (Mountain time), the Southern Pacific railroad announced.

500-VOICE CHOIR FOR DR. W. E. BIEDERWOLF REVIVAL, WHICH BEGINS SUNDAY, OCTOBER 19, RAPIDLY FILLING UP

McCune, Gipsy Smith's Old Leader, Will Direct Singing in Second and Washington Street Tabernacle.

Rapid filling up of the personnel of the big choir of 500 voices for the Dr. W. E. Biederwolf revival, which will open in the Second and Washington street tabernacle one week from next Sunday, was announced at the meeting of the evangelistic music committee at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening.

"The seats are being rapidly taken" asserted James Heaton, who is in charge of the advance work for the series of meetings here. "At this stage the music situation is well in hand. There will be fine aggregation of folks to greet Mr. McCune, Gipsy Smith's old leader when he comes to East Liverpool. I know 'Mac' well enough to know how pleased he will be. Yes, I predict this will be a singing revival. We are going to have lots of fine singing and you know how far that goes towards making any religious awakening successful"

Build Choir Platform.

In keeping with the choral preparation is the rapid progress that Thursday and Friday was made on the large platform within the tabernacle on which the choir will be seated. It will be rapidly rushed to completion.

Another volunteer work day will be observed on Saturday. With what was accomplished on Friday by similar labor the sheathing and roof, it is expected, will be completed.

Benjamin Hall, electrician, who put in the lights for the Bob Jones meeting in 1920, has assumed a similar contract for the Biederwolf tabernacle and will install the necessary wiring on Monday. As a result night work will be a possible feature of next week when the seats will be placed in position and the sawdust strewn on the ground.

Two Committee Meetings.

Two other committees will meet at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday night and confer with Mr. Heaton. That on women's work will assemble at 8 o'clock and the other, made up of revival ushers, one-half hour earlier.

Increased attendance at the cottage prayer services is being generally noted. "The prayer services are better than I have ever before noted," declared one minister at the ministerial conference on Thursday morning. "I am sure this tendency will have a marked effect on the revival when it begins."

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

Betty Blythe appears in the vastly entertaining comedy picture adapted from Montague Glass' "Potash and Perlmutter" stage success, "Business Before Pleasure." Betty, in the character of a vamp, nearly succeeds in breaking up the homes of the worthy partners. It is all said to be very funny and entertaining and quite a change from Betty's usual role.

Betty Blythe is Mrs. Paul Scarcon in real life, you know. Her husband is a motion picture director. She was born in Los Angeles and attended the University of California and also went to Paris for part of her education. That was not her last visit abroad either, for in the 1st few years she has been a very popular leading lady in Europe and might have stayed there and made pictures indefinitely if she had been so minded. "Chu Chin Chow" is one of the films she made abroad.

After completing her education Betty was with Morosco on the speaking stage for one year and with Comstock and Gest for two, "So Long Betty," "Nobody Home" and "Experience" were included in her stage appearances. She has played leads on the screen for Vitagraph, World, Selznick, Goldwyn, First National and Fox. "The Queen of Sheba" was one of her most spectacular pictures and she made a lovely queen, we remember.

"Normads of the North" was a thriller, and "Fair Lady," based on Rex Beache's novel, "The Net," was another. She has recently been seen in another of Beache's stories "The Recoil."

Since finishing "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," which has just been released in New York Betty has completed work as lead in "The Breath of Scandal," in which Lou Tellegen plays opposite her.

We have pictures honoring the different modes of travel in "The Covered Wagon," and "The Iron Horse" (the locomotive.) now we are to see the airplane immortalized in a big Famous Players-Lasky special. "The Air Mail." Richard Dix will go to the coast as he finishes "A Man Must Live" to play the lead.

Holmes Herbert, who played the lead opposite Corinne Griffith in her current production, "Wilderness," has received an offer to return to England to star on the stage. Herbert declined the offer, however, refering to stay in America and follow a screen career. This is the second picture in which he played opposite the pulchritudinous Miss Griffith. He has also made picture love to Lois Wilson and Helene Chadwick.

Seena Owen has gone west to appear in two pictures, the names of which have not been announced. Her latest picture is titled, "I am the Man," in which she played opposite Lionel Barrymore. You will remember that she played opposite Barrymore in "Unseeing Eyes" a year or so ago. Seena is quite a stranger to the west coast having been kept busy in the east for the last two years.

Eleanor Boardman is said to have green eyes, but we can vouch for the fact that she is no "green-eyed monster" but a most charming young woman who is fast becoming one of the most popular of the younger film stars. She has been featured with Conrad Nagel in several pictures lately and the combination is said to make Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien, who have heretofore held the championship honors as the screen's most "perfect lovers," look to their laurels.

Eleanor and Nagel confine their love making strictly to their screen work, we would remark in parenthesis, so that Mrs. Nagel has no grounds for uneasiness, as Conrad is known in private life as a most devoted husband and father.

The historic Quaker City, Philadelphia, is the home of the charming Eleanor. She attended the School of Applied Arts there, had a short stage experience and then was engaged for a small part in Goldwyn's "Souls for Sale." Parts in "Gimme" and "The Strangers' Banquet" followed, and then the fair Eleanor made a decided hit as the orphan girl who was adopted by the "Three Wise Fools" in the picture of that name.

Her latest pictures to be released are "Sinners in Silk" with Nagel, Adolphe Menjou, etc., "The Wine of Youth" which is an adaptation of the stage play, "Mary the Third;" and she has just finished work on "So This Is Marriage," also co-featuring Nagel. Between these pictures she made one, "The Silent Accuser," which starred the New German police dog, "Peter the Great."

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp, that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, E. A. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Shops Resuming.

MIDDLEPORT.—The shops of the K. & M. railroad at Hobson, which were closed many months are resuming at full force, officials here reported. This, together with resumption of work at a number of coal mines, places business conditions in this district on a much better plane.

A Home Industry

Big business—quite a high sounding and familiar title, isn't it? But you don't have to step out of your own home to find it!

"Home making is the largest single industry in the world"—quoting Edith McGlure Patterson, of Dayton, O.

We'll add to this statement, that it is also the most important. For it is the industry that makes and shapes our lives.

Our share in this supreme form of human activity is to cut down home expenses with qualities that keep up home standards.

The Lasting Fashion Of a Good Complexion

When Grandmother was a girl, she pinched her cheeks to make them pink, or put cold water on them. "No lady," she said, "would paint her face." That's almost true today, but not quite. No lady will paint her face—much. But will she use cosmetics? More than ever!

For, though it may seem rank heresy, Nature can be improved upon. It must be done very carefully, of course. Just any shade of rouge won't do; it must vary according to the time of day, and the kind of frock and color, and not necessarily last and not at all least, the mood of the lady and the weather.

First, of course, it should vary according to the type of the lady—whether she be blonde, brunette or whatever—but that goes without saying. And there must be just enough, and not too little—and above all, not too much.

Of course, too, those who make all these delightful powders and things that adorn milady's dressing table have anticipated her whims and caprices in the matter and are ready to gratify her good taste.

In our Toilet Goods Section you will find every good powder, cream, rouge, perfume, toilet water, talc, compact and many, many other things you'll like.

The Lasting Fashion Of a Good Complexion

When Grandmother was a girl, she pinched her cheeks to make them pink, or put cold water on them. "No lady," she said, "would paint her face." That's almost true today, but not quite. No lady will paint her face—much. But will she use cosmetics? More than ever!

For, though it may seem rank heresy, Nature can be improved upon. It must be done very carefully, of course. Just any shade of rouge won't do; it must vary according to the time of day, and the kind of frock and color, and not necessarily last and not at all least, the mood of the lady and the weather.

First, of course, it should vary according to the type of the lady—whether she be blonde, brunette or whatever—but that goes without saying. And there must be just enough, and not too little—and above all, not too much.

Of course, too, those who make all these delightful powders and things that adorn milady's dressing table have anticipated her whims and caprices in the matter and are ready to gratify her good taste.

In our Toilet Goods Section you will find every good powder, cream, rouge, perfume, toilet water, talc, compact and many, many other things you'll like.

American Lady Reducing Corsets and Corselettes

LYCEUM COURSE CARD COMPLETE

Mary Adel Hays Singers at High School Next Wednesday.

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance here of Mary Adel Hays Company opera singers on Wednesday night, October, 15, in the inaugural number of the high school lyceum course.

The local high school authorities have booked five attractions through the Colt-Alber bureau, of Cleveland, according to announcement by Superintendent S. E. Daw. The final number of the course will be held on March 19.

Attractions are scheduled for the months of October, November, January, February and March. No dates have been arranged for the month of December on account of the holidays.

Season tickets for the entire five attractions are being offered for sale by high school students. All programs will be given in the high school auditorium. Co-operation of churches, various civic and fraternal organizations and individuals in general is sought by the schools.

Here is the complete lyceum program:

Wednesday, October 15—The Mary Adel Hays Co., singers.

Thursday, November 6—Apollo Duo.

Monday, January 19—Dr. A. W. Evans.

February 20—Cleveland Symphonic Quintet.

Thursday, March 19 — Josephus Daniels.

Fourth Special Sermon

The fourth of a series of sermons on church history will be delivered at services on Sunday evening in the First United Presbyterian church by Rev. R. W. Ustick, pastor.

Rev. Ustick will discuss "The Contribution by the Lutheran Church to America's Religious History."

Young people will hold a union meeting with the alumni of the society at 6:30 p. m. Rev. Ustick will be the leader. The study topic will be, "My Denomination—Its History and Teachings."

Police Dance Program.

The Wellsville Volunteer police department will give its regular dance on Saturday night in the city hall auditorium, Fifth and Main streets. The following program will be given by Normal Stillwell and his orchestra:

Fox trot—"Charley, My Boy."
Fox trot—"Bringing Home the Bacon."

LA FOLLETTE VISITS OHIO

Independent Hurls Charges on Way to Cincinnati.

By KENNETH CLARK.

ABOARD LA FOLLETTE SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—A new charge that the Republican party is "intimidating" the American people to vote for President Coolidge was hurled today by Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, as he sped through Ohio to fill a speaking engagement in Cincinnati tonight.

La Follette also took his first shot at Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice presidential candidate, whom he termed "the former partner of William Lorimer, who was convicted by the senate or bribery and ousted from his seat."

La Follette pledged himself, "when I am elected president on Nov. 4 and inaugurated on March 4, never again to permit government by injunction."

La Follette directed attention to his foreign policy, which opposes American entry into the League of Nations, with the assertion that "no agency to end war, no effective tribunal or court will ever be constructed or permitted to be constructed by, or through, any president and any congress, owned and controlled by the present monopoly system of government."

La Follette's Detroit address attracted the largest crowd that ever heard a political speech in that city, the senator's managers announced today. More than 6,000 persons jammed into the hall to hear La Follette exorciate the Harding-Coolidge administration and predict that he would win the three-cornered presidential race.

From Cincinnati La Follette will go to Chicago tonight.

Sign Working Pact

POMEROY, O.—Miners and operators of the Pomeroy Bend district have signed a new working agreement by which both parties yield something and both agree to produce cleaner coal. Local mines have been closed so long, however, that it will be some time before operators can get back in the market.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors, The Rev. Benedum and singers of the Nazarene Church, Rev. Fowler of the M. E. Church, Private Eddy Aux. 66, Seattle Club, W. B. A. No. 20, Laughlin No. 2, Edwin M. Knowles of Chester, also the friends who donated their machines during our recent bereavement.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

Efficient Labor

Three prominent industries, keeping statistics over a long period of years, are able to show that the labor employed by them is more efficient now than it has been at any time since 1915.

The first of these, the United States Steel corporation, reports that the men in its manufacturing departments turned out 82 tons of finished steel per man as against 78 tons in 1922 and 59 tons in 1921. This is a return to very nearly the 1915 and 1916 high records, which were 84 tons and 83 tons, respectively.

The Bell Telephone company reports that its efficiency in New York is now 85 per cent of its high record in 1915. This is an improvement of about 50 per cent within the past few years.

The third report comes from the railroads of the country. Handicapped by lack of equipment which they needed, but were unable to provide for lack of capital, the railroads nevertheless faced last year the largest business that had ever been offered them. They handled this tremendous increase in business far more efficiently than they have done for years. This would not have been possible except for the greater efficiency of workmen.

It is stated that other industries have felt the same improvement, although they cannot put it into such definite statements because they lack the comparative statistics. This is a very wholesome state of affairs for the entire country, labor as well as capital, and the general public which includes them both.

Shrubs for School Yards

How many rural schools are set in attractive surroundings? Too few, if one judges by those to be seen from highways and railroad trains in almost any part of the country. A plain little building, set in still plainer grounds, is the usual rule. A fence and a big square yard are supposed to suffice for background and foreground.

A county superintendent in one state, who sees "no reason why a school ground should look unsightly when a little planting will work wonders," proposes to do something about it in her own county, and thereby to set a glorious example to other counties and other states.

In the first place she expects to plant shrubs where they will be most effective artistiaclly. Pupils will learn a little something about that sort of planting and yard decorating. Community spirit will be aroused by the simple matter of setting out attractive shrubs in the school yard.

Investment Banking

The investment bankers of the United States are planning a big advertising campaign to make the public more familiar with sound securities, the ways to buy them and the firms that handle them. It is a plan which, as the president of their association says, will not only improve the standing of the investment bankers in the eyes of the public, but "will save for honest industry hundreds of millions which now are needlessly lost."

Investment is becoming more and more of a problem with the American people, as their savings grow and require a profitable outlet. Stocks and bonds are going to be bought in ever-increasing volume. There is no danger of over-doing such investment, if the money is wisely placed.

That is a function of the investment banker. His profession is rapidly growing in prestige, as inexperienced investors grow weary of losing money in wildcat ventures and come to see the advantage of going to reputable and honest firms to advise them and execute their orders. Any prospective investor who does not know where to find such a firm can usually get the necessary information from his lawyer or his savings bank.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

19—THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

Nearly a hundred years ago a British clipper came riding over the high seas with a fortune in her hold—a gift to the United States government from an English scientist named James Smithson. Why this Englishman chose America as the land in which his name and ideas should be perpetuated is still a matter of controversy. He had no friends here, nor do his papers reveal any trace of interest in the young republic. Yet he seems to have foreseen "germs of rising grandeur" in the New World. In his will he stipulated that his fortune, consisting of 104,960 gold sovereigns—about half a million dollars—should be devoted to the founding at Washington of "the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

The gold sovereigns were at once recoined into dollars at the Philadelphia mint, after which they lay in the United States treasury for eight years while congress argued over methods of increasing and diffusing knowledge. A school for the blind and a publishing house were two of the projects which intrigued congress. But even then science was beginning to claim the attention of nations. In 1846, when the Smithsonian institution was established, it set forth as its purpose "to assist men of science in making original researches, to publish them in a series of volumes, and to give a copy of them to every first-class library on the face of the earth." In other words, all the fields of science lay before the new institution, and it was left to the directors to choose which of nature's mysteries should be probed. The wisdom of this broad plan was generally approved and it has been followed ever since. As the institution has received other bequests, and as its fortune has been prudently administered, its work has undoubtedly exceeded even the dreams of the founder. Never, in all probability, has half a million dollars been invested with such far-reaching and amazing results.

THE DEAN OF THE CORPS

The first secretary of the Smithsonian, Joseph Henry, made possible in great measure the electrical achievements of the present day. His early researches aided in the development of the telephone and telegraph, and of the science of meteorology. He inaugurated the system of daily meteorological observations, out of which grew the United States weather bureau. Spencer F. Baird, second secretary, founded the fish commission, which has added so greatly to the commercial value of the nation's fisheries.

To Samuel Pierpont Langley, the third secretary of the institution, belongs the honor of having been the first to plan and build a heavier than air flying machine which could be sustained and propelled by its own power. This epochal invention won on applause when it was brought before the public in 1903. Langley's machine did not actually get into the air on account of defect in the landing apparatus; and as it was customary at that time to ridicule the flying machine idea, he was refused money to continue his investigations. It remained in the Smithsonian shop and Langley died broken hearted. A few years ago his machine was taken from the museum and shipped to a lake in New York for a test flight. It was flown successfully with the original engine.

The present secretary, Dr. Charles D. Walcott, is a geologist, and has devoted his life to the study of the earliest geological formations, which has brought him recognition throughout the world. Among his achievements are the recognition and naming of fossil bacteria, which are probably the earliest manifenstatio of life on our planet. There are many imperfectly known regions of North America, scientifically speaking, and for over 20 years Dr. Walcott has spent the summer months in geological explorations in the Rocky mountains. Mrs. Walcott, who accompanies her husband on his expeditions, is a collector and painter of wild flowers. The collection of 500 sketches of American wild flowers, both eastern and western varieties, which she made for the Smithsonian, is pronounced both unique and valuable to science.

GETTING A LINE ON LO

One of the branches of science in which the Smithsonian institution has specialized for more than half a century is the study of the American Indian. The bureau of American ethnology is a permanent part of the Smithsonian. Scientists of this bureau spend months at a time with a tribe of Indians, studying its customs, language and traditions. There are tribes, once powerful, which are now represented by only a handful of aged warriors and squaws. These full-blooded Indians are furnishing the government with data which will soon be no longer obtainable. The phonograph has made it possible for the Smithsonian to record songs sung in native language by real Indians.

In the national museum, a branch of the Smithsonian, a liberal education awaits anyone who is willing to spend time studying the results of the institution's work. The utmost care is taken by the curators to present with vividness and accuracy the fascinating story of the world and its creatures. The work of freeing fossil remains from the rock in which they are found embedded is one which would appall anyone but the incredibly patient scientist. One man spent a month cleaning one vertebra of the flesh-eating dinosaur. The bony remains of a moderate-sized turtle 12,000,000 years old were found in over 50 pieces, and the skeleton was put together much as a child fits together the pieces of a picture puzzle. More than 500 days were required to clean and restore one skeleton to be shown to the public. The work of freeing the invertebrate specimens is sometimes equally exacting, for these are often as delicate and slender as a fern.

Few visitors to the museum realize the difficult and often tedious or dangerous work that the exhibits involve. The Smithsonian conducts or co-operates in 20 or more explorations every year which add materially to our knowledge of little known parts of the earth and to the museum collections. Nearly every section of the globe has been visited by the Smithsonian field parties during the past three-quarters of a century. Recently one scientist returned from South America with a collection of 100,000 insects. Another has been conducting biological explorations in China, in a district abounding in man-eating tigers.

WHEN HORSES HAD TOES

Scientists come from everywhere to study the various collections, which include no less than 10,000,000 objects. Only a small proportion of the total can be exhibited at one time, though practically all of the material is available for student reference. Unusual attractions among the acres of glass cases are the Duckbilled Dinosaur which had 2,000 teeth in one set, and the egg of the Giant Moa which is as large as a football. In one case, in the hall of prehistoric creatures, are shown the bones of a horse's foot of the age when every horse had four toes and was about the size of a dog. According to the layer of the earth in which such specimens are found, the four-toed lived 4,000,000 years ago. The collection of African animals, made under the direction of Theodore Roosevelt, is popular with visitors. It numbers about 5,000 mammals, including the giant eland, an antelope as large as an ox, and the square-lipped rhinoceros, which is now confined to regions not easily visited by sportsmen.

It will be remembered that the original plan for the Smithsonian institution provided for publication of the results of scientific research and for presenting copies "to every first-class library on the face of the earth." This is an important part of the institution's work. Its publications include reports of its explorations and researches, and papers on practically every branch of science. Through the International Exchange service, publications by the United States government are regularly exchanged with those of scientific and governmental agencies of other countries. Fifty-two copies of the Congressional Record, for example, are mailed every day when congress is in session to the parliaments of the world.

The Smithsonian institution has, indeed, become "an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." It is a thousand universities and a thousand educations in one. Its activities are practically unlimited and world-wide in their scope. It is an exposition where one may wander for weeks without exhausting its exhibits and its lore. It is a great fulfillment of the prophecy of its founder.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Bugs Baer with his thick mop of tousled hair. And owlish expression. A hungry cat watching a flock of twittering sparrows. A Chinese weighted down with strands of linked sausage.

A cafe where waiters wear scarlet blouses and rings in their ears. A topaz shop. More skyscrapers with cliffs and craps of windows towering to the clouds. An old man with a sign card of his back: "I've lost my job. And nobody wants me." Poor fellow!

The ascending cadence of the lunch hour. Chattering stenographers. Whistling clerks. Will Rogers helping an old man on a street car. Wonder who broke three plate glass windows in a row? A Black Maria filled with screaming girls. And Broadway grins.

There's class. A perfume shop with gold cloth awning. Cake eaters are removing the tiny smudge mustaches. A hiccoughing old woman muttering and zig-zagging. The bleak dawn of civilization—a new hotel permits you to leave your hats free.

Curb comedians. As dull as ditch water. Each with a copy of Variety in his pocket. A fog. And the dazzle of lights pop up. New York cannot bear the dark. Subway trackmen come up for air. And smoke corn cob pipes.

Another wave of dementia. Shops are advertising a new Chinese game. Cloche hats pulled over worried eyebrows. There's Grantland Rice. And Tad who gives the nation its slang. And a lot of giggles. Wish I could watch a big bonfire.

The old hackman who cries: "Kerridge leddy, very exclusive!" And Old Dan, the telescope man. Who shows you Sirius, the dog star for 10 cents. Whatever became of the napkin ring? W. J. Burns. And one of his sons. Still another fog. Toodle-oo!

I know of only one man who has ever made a living playing the ponies. He is the proprietor of a beefsteak place. He has been following the races for 30 years. He says he knows nothing much of form and other illusions of the track. He merely plays his huches and happens to be lucky, but he says all the men who bet when he began are broke or learned it doesn't pay and quit.

Some people are thrilled in an unusual way. A man came from Honolulu to New York the other day to be the first to register at a new hotel. He inscribed his name, had lunch and started back home again in the evening. There's the ultimate in excitement for you!

John Golden specializes in well laundered plays. He has had four big successes without a suggestive situation or a line that could not be repeated at a Sunday school convention. Yet most of the intellectual critics will tell you he is a patron of "hokum." Golden began life as a brick layer.

A prominent New York actress has been married for three years. The news of it leaked out the other day. No effort was made for secrecy. She merely was married under her real name which was such a startling change from the flowery psuedonym she adopted that not a reporter recognized it.

I know a small time vaudeville actor whose name is Mike Kraut. He has taken the name of Carol Randolph. He has a feminine partner who was born Lizzie Yates and she has become Ulrica Derr Smythe. They tell me that under the team name of Kraut and Yates they had difficulty getting bookings in cheap vaudeville, but as Smythe and Randolph their engagements are picking up. They expect to make The Big Time soon.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Many younger generation San Franciscans discovered only recently the significance of Lotta's fountain when the death in Boston of Lotta Crabtree focused the limelight for the last time on the once famous actress.

The tall column, set down in the center of San Francisco's busiest street intersections, is a beloved relic to the older people of the roaring days that were—when blood and gold flowed freely through the fingers of their youthful possessors.

The fountain is now a coign of vantage for cautious pedestrians, newsboys and traffic policemen, rising in gilded splendor like a beacon above the dust and confusion of Market street.

Lotta presented the fountain to the city in the heydey of her popularity, when she was the toast of San Francisco and bearded unkempt bonanza kings jostled with newsboys for the privilege of seeing her.

In later years Lotta has been all but forgotten and the progressive young generation has even, at times, advocated the removal of the monument as a menace to public safety!

The outpouring of sentiment against the proposal the last time it was suggested was so spontaneous that when victory was assured the old timers gilded the fountain to commemorate the triumph.

Lotta started her career in Petaluma back in 1853, before gold nuggets had been usurped in popular interest by the now famous Petaluma eggs.

Lotta was then six years old and the yellowed newspaper accounts of her performances told of the "wonderful career in store for the little girl."

Next came years of touring with the picturesque traveling stock companies of those days and finally, in a blaze of glory, Lotta invaded the mining camps in the Mother Lode country.

Fabulous prices were paid for even standing room in the small buildings where Lotta appeared.

And so with her songs and dancing, but mainly personality, Lotta won her way into the hearts of the masses in those rough days, until she became known as the "Sarah Bernhardt of the West."

As "Little Nell" in the "Old Curiosity Shop" Lotta made one of her first appearances in legitimate drama, touring the east and middle west.

In Chicago she made quite a hit in the "Seven Sisters" at McVicar's theater.

Although her first appearance in Niblo's Garden, in New York, at the age of 17, was unsuccessful, she returned in 1868 in a record-breaking engagement with John Brougham at Wallack's theater.

So successful, in fact, was she at this more mature age that Brougham epitomized her work with the phrase, "the dramatic cocktail."

Lotta and her mother were inseparable until the latter's death several years ago. It was said that a part of the $3,000,000 estate she is reputed to have left was amassed because of the wise counsel of her mother.

Wise investments, together with the good fortune that appeared to be with her throughout life were credited with later aiding in the growth of millions from Lotta's stage earnings.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

YOU MUST DO YOUR OWN CLIMBING

This is the country of success and we hear endless talk about it.

These talks vary from simple advice concerning a man like Lincoln, who had only a few books and a few chances, but made the best use of them he could, all the way up to the complicated recipes for succeeding that are given out by the gentlemen of the insurance companies and the get-rich schemes.

This newspaper has discussed success often, yet it takes the subject up again today, for the young men among our readers and the young women as well, are writing constantly for advice or for suggestion.

Certain men whom we call successful, by which we mean that they have got money, have "succeeded" without the quality of industry. They are the gamblers, the Wall street geniuses, or others who with tricks have got the better of their fellowmen, but they are not successful.

Men of the same stamp have succeeded, even without sobriety or honesty.

But even such successes as theirs demands certain qualities. They must have, for instance, at least temporarily, self-denial. They must know how to hold themselves back, husband their resources, keep themselves in hand until they shall have achieved the particular object or the particular sum which they have in mind.

To tell a young man that he needs certain qualities is wasting his time and your own—except as you may direct his attention to the possibility of developing in himself the essentials of success.

STEPS ARE HIGH AND BROAD

The late Collis P. Huntington asked to advise a young man said: "Take ten thousand dollars and go into the business of raising rubber trees." The young man didn't have ten thousand dollars.

Mr. Huntington said: "Well, go out and get it before you come to me for advice."

The great railroad man's attitude is very much like that of the ordinary adviser of the young. He says "Be honest, be industrious, be self-denying, be courageous, patient, sober"—but he does not tell him how he can be these things.

To make a real success you must have, first of all, industry—the faculty for hard work. That quality is greater than all others put together. And you can cultivate that quality in yourself.

Map out what you are going to do each day, and do it. Never let yourself get into the habit of leaving a thing unfinished. It is hard; for some it is almost impossible. But if you will, you can make yourself a hard worker eventually. You must do that—that is the first step to the real success.

CLIMB IS LONG ONE

Self-denial is especially a matter of self-education.

Instead of putting your mind on the question, "How can I amuse myself or dress myself?" say to yourself, "What can I do without?"

Self-denial is not important simply because it saves your money—it is especially important because it saves your time and your vitality. Sobriety is, of course, a part of self-denial. If you don't smoke excessively or at all, if you don't drink excessively or at all—you save money and you save vitality. If you don't pay foolish attention to dress—only neatness and common sense are necessary to success—you save the time and the thought that many men put on worthless worrying about their personal appearance.

The most important in the line of self-denial perhaps is to make yourself not worry about what others think of you. Try to earn the approval of those who are worth while, and dismiss from your mind the opinion of the crowd that means nothing to you and can do nothing for you. More men waste time and energy and worry on the opinions of others than would make them successful if they could be indifferent to public opinion.

Enthusiasm is one of the great factors in success. It is important, especially because it helps a man to get a start.

Unfortunate, enthusiasm is one of the qualities most difficult to cultivate. It is almost a part of a man's ownself, like his dark hair or regular features, or wide shoulders. Yet even enthusiasm can be cultivated, and it should be cultivated. Begin by getting out of your mind the critical, complaining, dissatisfied feelings. That is like pulling the weeds out of a field.

If you can get out of your own brain the foolish feeling of complaint, of mortified vanity, you will be clearing the field for enthusiasm to grow.

Enthusiasf is largely a matter of vitality, health and strength.

Get up in the morning after eight hours good sleep, and you will be enthusiastic—ready to attack any proposition. Get up with five hours' sleep and a night foolishly spent, and you will have no strength or enthusiasm. Cultivate your strength, save it, and train yourself to look enthusiastically and hopefully at the world, scorning its difficulties.

Honesty has been talked of incessantly, ever since the writing of the Ten Commandments, and long before. There are many false reputations, and not a few big fortunes, built on dishonesty. There are some men who might have been rich if they had been dishonest, but who are poor now. But be sure that real success comes only to the honest man, to the man who thinks and works and treats other men honestly.

Whatever you do has got to be done absolutely by the exercise of your own will power; if you deceive yourself, blaming others instead of yourself, you will never get ahead. You must be your own most severe judge. Remember that it is not sufficient to wish for success or to admire the qualities that make success. You must develop those qualities and use them.

REAL SUCCESS THE REWARD

There is one feature of real success about which we shall say little. That is unselfishness. It is the greatest, highest quality of all—although the usual talkers on success do not mention it. Unselfishness enters into our modern calculations but little. Yet any man who would be truly great in his achievements must have for inspiration an unselfish desire to be of use to other men. He may pile up millions, but he will not be one of the world's really great men unless guided by the consciousness that a man's first duty and last duty is to try to make others better off and happier for his having lived on the earth.

Efficient Labor

Three prominent industries, keeping statistics over a long period of years, are able to show that the labor employed by them is more efficient now than it has been at any time since 1915.

The first of these, the United States Steel corporation, reports that the men in its manufacturing departments turned out 82 tons of finished steel per man as against 78 tons in 1922 and 59 tons in 1921. This is a return to very nearly the 1915 and 1916 high records, which were 84 tons and 83 tons, respectively.

The Bell Telephone company reports that its efficiency in New York is now 85 per cent of its high record in 1915. This is an improvement of about 50 per cent within the past few years.

The third report comes from the railroads of the country. Handicapped by lack of equipment which they needed, but were unable to provide for lack of capital, the railroads nevertheless faced last year the largest business that had ever been offered them. They handled this tremendous increase in business far more efficiently than they have done for years. This would not have been possible except for the greater efficiency of workmen.

It is stated that other industries have felt the same improvement, although they cannot put it into such definite statements because they lack the comparative statistics. This is a very wholesome state of affairs for the entire country, labor as well as capital, and the general public which includes them both.

Shrubs for School Yards

How many rural schools are set in attractive surroundings? Too few, if one judges by those to be seen from highways and railroad trains in almost any part of the country. A plain little building, set in still plainer grounds, is the usual rule. A fence and a big square yard are supposed to suffice for background and foreground.

A county superintendent in one state, who sees "no reason why a school ground should look unsightly when a little planting will work wonders," proposes to do something about it in her own county, and thereby to set a glorious example to other counties and other states.

In the first place she expects to plant shrubs where they will be most effective artistiacly. Only a small proportion of the total can be exhibited at one time, though practically all of the material is available for student reference. Unusual attractions among the acres of glass cases are the Duckbilled Dinosaur which had 2,000 teeth in one set, and the egg of the Giant Moa which is as large as a football. In one case, in the hall of prehistoric creatures, are shown the bones of a horse's foot of the age when every horse had four toes and was about the size of a dog. According to the layer of the earth in which such specimens are found, the four-toed lived 4,000,000 years ago. The collection of African animals, made under the direction of Theodore Roosevelt, is popular with visitors. It numbers about 5,000 mammals, including the giant eland, an antelope as large as an ox, and the square-lipped rhinoceros, which is now confined to regions not easily visited by sportsmen.

It will be remembered that the original plan for the Smithsonian institution provided for publication of the results of scientific research and for presenting copies "to every first-class library on the face of the earth." This is an important part of the institution's work. Its publications include reports of its explorations and researches, and papers on practically every branch of science. Through the International Exchange service, publications by the United States government are regularly exchanged with those of scientific and governmental agencies of other countries. Fifty-two copies of the Congressional Record, for example, are mailed every day when congress is in session to the parliaments of the world.

The Smithsonian institution has, indeed, become "an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." It is a thousand universities and a thousand educations in one. Its activities are practically unlimited and world-wide in their scope. It is an exposition where one may wander for weeks without exhausting its exhibits and its lore. It is a great fulfillment of the prophecy of its founder.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Bugs Baer with his thick mop of touseled hair. And owlish expression. A hungry cat watching a flock of twittering sparrows. A Chinese weighted down with strands of linked sausage.

A cafe where waiters wear scarlet blouses and rings in their ears. A topaz shop. More skyscrapers with cliffs and crags of windows towering to the clouds. An old man with a sign card of his back: "I've lost my job. And nobody wants me." Poor fellow!

The ascending cadence of the lunch hour. Chattering stenographers. Whistling clerks. Will Rogers helping an old man on a street car. Wonder who broke three plate glass windows in a row? A Black Maria filled with screaming girls. And Broadway grins.

There's class. A perfume shop with gold cloth awning. Cake eaters are removing the tiny smudge mustaches. A hiccoughing old woman muttering and zig-zagging. The bleak dawin of civilization—a new hotel permits you to leave your hats free.

Curb comedians. As dull as ditch water. Each with a copy of Variety in his pocket. A fog. And the dazzle of lights pop up. New York cannot bear the dark. Subway trackmen come up for air. And smoke corn cob pipes.

Another wave of dementia. Shops are advertising a new Chinese game. Cloche hats pulled over worried eyebrows. There's Grantland Rice. And Tad who gives the nation its slang. And a lot of giggles. Wish I could watch a big bonfire.

The old hackman who cries: "Kerridge leddy, very exclusive!" And Old Dan, the telescope man. Who shows you Sirius, the dog star for 10 cents. Whatever became of the napkin ring? W. J. Burns. And one of his sons. Still another fog. Toodle-oo!

I know of only one man who has ever made a living playing the ponies. He is the proprietor of a beefsteak place. He has been following the races for 30 years. He says he knows nothing much of form and other illusions of the track. He merely plays his huches and happens to be lucky, but he says all the men who bet when he began are broke or learned it doesn't pay and quit.

Some people are thrilled in an unusual way. A man came from Honolulu to New York the other day to be the first to register at a new hotel. He inscribed his name, had lunch and started back home again in the evening. There's the ultimate in excitement for you!

John Golden specializes in well laundered plays. He has had four big successes without a suggestive situation or a line that could not be repeated at a Sunday school convention. Yet most of the intellectual critics will tell you he is a patron of "hokum." Golden began life as a brick layer.

A prominent New York actress has been married for three years. The news of it leaked out the other day. No effort was made for secrecy. She merely was married under her real name which was such a startling change from the flowery psuedonym she adopted that not a reporter recognized it.

I know a small time vaudeville actor whose name is Mike Kraut. He has taken the name of Carol Randolph. He has a feminine partner who was born Lizzie Yates and she has become Ulrica Derr Smythe. They tell me that under the team name of Kraut and Yates they had difficulty getting bookings in cheap vaudeville, but as Smythe and Randolph their engagements are picking up. They expect to make The Big Time soon.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Many younger generation San Franciscans discovered only recently the significance of Lotta's fountain when the death in Boston of Lotta Crabtree focused the limelight for the last time on the once famous actress.

The tall column, set down in the center of San Francisco's busiest street intersections, is a beloved relic to the older people of the roaring days that were—when blood and gold flowed freely through the fingers of their youthful possessors.

The fountain is now a coign of vantage for cautious pedestrians, newsboys and traffic policemen, rising in gilded splendor like a beacon above the dust and confusion of Market street.

Lotta presented the fountain to the city in the heydey of her popularity, when she was the toast of San Francisco and bearded unkempt bonanza kings jostled with newsboys for the privilege of seeing her.

In later years Lotta has been all but forgotten and the progressive young generation has even, at times, advocated the removal of the monument as a menace to public safety!

The outpouring of sentiment against the proposal the last time it was suggested was so spontaneous that when victory was assured the old timers gilded the fountain to commemorate the triumph.

Lotta started her career in Petaluma back in 1853, before gold nuggets had been usurped in popular interest by the now famous Petaluma eggs.

Lotta was then six years old and the yellowed newspaper accounts of her performances told of the "wonderful career in store for the little girl."

Next came years of touring with the picturesque traveling stock companies of those days and finally, in a blaze of glory, Lotta invaded the mining camps in the Mother Lode country.

Fabulous prices were paid for even standing room in the small buildings where Lotta appeared.

And so with her songs and dancing, but mainly personality, Lotta won her way into the hearts of the masses in those rough days, until she became known as the "Sarah Bernhardt of the West."

As "Little Nell" in the "Old Curiosity Shop" Lotta made one of her first appearances in legitimate drama, touring the east and middle west.

In Chicago she made quite a hit in the "Seven Sisters" at McVicar's theater.

Although her first appearance in Niblo's Garden, in New York, at the age of 17, was unsuccessful, she returned in 1868 in a record-breaking engagement with John Brougham at Wallack's theater.

So successful, in fact, was she at this more mature age that Brougham epitomized her work with the phrase, "the dramatic cocktail."

Lotta and her mother were inseparable until the latter's death several years ago. It was said that a part of the $3,000,000 estate she is reputed to have left was amassed because of the wise counsel of her mother.

Wise investments, together with the good fortune that appeared to be with her throughout life were credited with later aiding in the growth of millions from Lotta's stage earnings.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

YOU MUST DO YOUR OWN CLIMBING

This is the country of success and we hear endless talk about it.

These talks vary from simple advice concerning a man like Lincoln, who had only a few books and a few chances, but made the best use of them he could, all the way up to the complicated recipes for succeeding that are given out by the gentlemen of the insurance companies and the get-rich schemes.

This newspaper has discussed success often, yet it takes the subject up again today, for the young men among our readers and the young women as well, are writing constantly for advice or for suggestion.

Certain men whom we call successful, by which we mean that they have got money, have "succeeded" without the quality of industry. They are the gamblers, the Wall street geniuses, or others who with tricks have got the better of their fellowmen, but they are not successful.

Men of the same stamp have succeeded, even with sobriety or honesty.

But even such successes as theirs demands certain qualities. They must have, for instance, at least temporarily, self-denial. They must know how to hold themselves back, husband their resources, keep themselves in hand until they shall have achieved the particular object or the particular sum which they have in mind.

To tell a young man that he needs certain qualities is wasting his time and your own—except as you may direct his attention to the possibility of developing in himself the essentials of success.

STEPS ARE HIGH AND BROAD

The late Collis P. Huntington asked to advise a young man said: "Take ten thousand dollars and go into the business of raising rubber trees." The young man didn't have ten thousand dollars.

Mr. Huntington said: "Well, go out and get it before you come to me for advice."

The great railroad man's attitude is very much like that of the ordinary adviser of the young. He says "Be honest, be industrious, be self-denying, be courageous, patient, sober"—but he does not tell him how he can be these things.

To make a real success you must have, first of all, industry—the faculty for hard work. That quality is greater than all others put together. And you can cultivate that quality in yourself.

Map out what you are going to do each day, and do it. Never let yourself get into the habit of leaving a thing unfinished. It is hard; for some it is almost impossible. But if you will, you can make yourself a hard worker eventually. You must do that—that is the first step to the real success.

CLIMB IS LONG ONE

Self-denial is especially a matter of self-education.

Instead of putting your mind on the question, "How can I amuse myself or dress myself?" say to yourself, "What can I do without?"

Self-denial is not important simply because it saves your money—it is especially important because it saves your time and your vitality. Sobriety is, of course, a part of self-denial. If you don't smoke excessively or at all, if you don't drink excessively or at all—you save money and you save vitality. If you don't pay foolish attention to dress—only neatness and common sense are necessary to success—you save the time and the thought that many men put on worthless worrying about their personal appearance.

The most important in the line of self-denial perhaps is to make yourself not worry about what others think of you. Try to earn the approval of those who are worth while, and dismiss from your mind the opinion of the crowd that means nothing to you and can do nothing for you. More men waste time and energy and worry on the opinions of others than would make them successful if they could be indifferent to public opinion.

Enthusiasm is one of the great factors in success. It is important, especially because it helps a man to get a start.

Unfortunate, enthusiasm is one of the qualities most difficult to cultivate. It is almost a part of a man's ownself, like his dark hair or regular features, or wide shoulders. Yet even enthusiasm can be cultivated, and it should be cultivated. Begin by getting out of your mind the critical, complaining, dissatisfied feelings. That is like pulling the weeds out of a field.

If you can get out of your own brain the foolish feeling of complaint, of mortified vanity, you will be clearing the field for enthusiasm to grow.

Enthusiasf is largely a matter of vitality, health and strength.

Get up in the morning after eight hours good sleep, and you will be enthusiastic—ready to attack any proposition. Get up with five hours' sleep and a night foolishly spent, and you will have no strength or enthusiasm. Cultivate your strength, save it, and train yourself to look enthusiastically and hopefully at the world, scorning its difficulties.

Honesty has been talked of incessantly ever since the writing of the Ten Commandments, and long before. There are many false reputations, and not a few big fortunes, built on dishonesty. There are some men who might have been rich if they had been dishonest, but who are poor now. But be sure that real success comes only to the honest man, to the man who thinks and works and treats other men honestly.

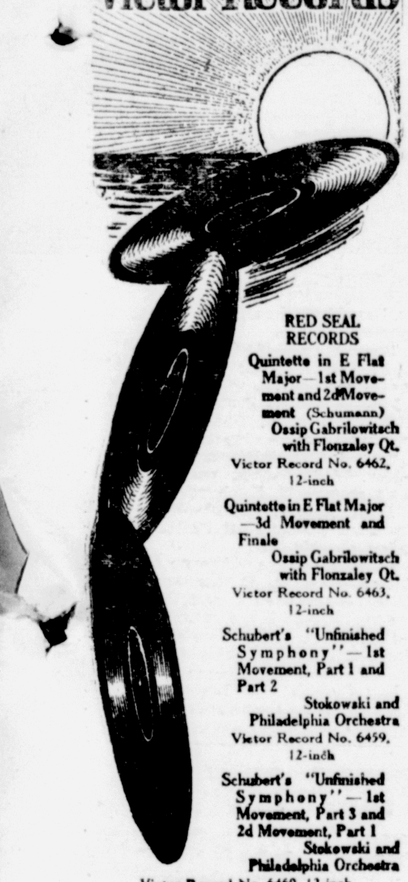

Whatever you do has got to be done absolutely by the exercise of your own will power; if you deceive yourself, blaming others instead of yourself, you will never get ahead. You must be your own most severe judge. Remember that it is not sufficient to wish for success or to admire the qualities that make success. You must develop those qualities and use them.

REAL SUCCESS THE REWARD

There is one feature of real success about which we shall say little. That is unselfishness. It is the greatest, highest quality of all—although the usual talkers on success do not mention it. Unselfishness enters into our modern calculations but little. Yet any man who would be truly great in his achievements must have for inspiration an unselfish desire to be of use to other men. He may pile up millions, but he will not be one of the world's really great men unless guided by the consciousness that a man's first duty and last duty is to try to make others better off and happier for his having lived on the earth.

Fair Sex Does Less Hard Work These Days.

QUIT HEAVY JOBS

Paris Council Decides Street Cleaning is Man's Task.

PARIS—French women are unmistakably rising in mere man's estimation. They have not yet been put upon the pedestal from which the American woman presides, according to the French points of view, and they have not obtained the vote, but they are gradually receiving more and more consideration.

The Paris City Council has just decided that street cleaning is too hard work for the ladies who are accustomed to doing it. Within a short time it is probable that the red-faced women, wrapped up in their heavy woolen shawls, will cease to clatter through the streets, in their wooden sabots, sweeping them clean with a mediaeval broom made of fine twigs. It is a pictureesque sight for onlookers, true enough, but it is certainly not a woman's work.

"Let mother do it," is too often the slogan on this side of the water. There is too little distinction between the work of the men and that of the women in France. As a matter of fact, it usually turns out that the so-called weaker sex is doing the hardest labor. Go to the great markets early in the morning, and you will see who is handling the heaviest sacks and baskets of fruit and vegetables. Watch the crowds coming in at any railway station. More often than not mother will be seen trudging along under most of the luggage. The women are as much to blame as the men for this condition of things. They take the initative and the men allow them to do it.

"Chauffeuses" are fast increasing the number of their ranks. Women are seen very often at the taxi-wheel in the French capital, most of them first-rate drivers, although perhaps more apt than men are to lose their heads in an emergency. On the other hand, they are much more careful than the men, and very few accidents are laid at their door. Within four months 1,711 women in Paris alone applied for driving licenses. More than half passed the first test, and nearly all the others were successful at the second attempt. At this rate, women and that no intimation had been given that he intended to do so. His service in London, however, has not been marked by evidences of permanence.

Women are also invading the profession of railway guards. Recently fifteen applied for posts on the North line, something that has never before been heard in the history of the company. The work is easy enough on trains with corridor carriages, but on the crowded suburban lines frequent stops and many passengers call for quick action and continued movement. Then, unfortunately, the pay is not what it should be.

With tanks for water under the seats and spigots that fold back under the running board, a lavatory for automobiles has been invented.

His service in London, however, has not been marked by evidences of permanence.

Women are also invading the profession of railway guards. Recently fifteen applied for posts on the North line, something that has never before been heard in the history of the company. The work is easy enough on trains with corridor carriages, but on the crowded suburban lines frequent stops and many passengers call for quick action and continued movement. Then, unfortunately, the pay is not what it should be.

With tanks for water under the seats and spigots that fold back under the running board, a lavatory for automobiles has been invented.

DAVIS FACES SUPREME TEST

Democratic Nominee Opens Drive for Doubtful States.

By W. K. HUTCHINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—John W. Davis faced the supreme test of his presidential campaign today in opening a final drive to swing the doubtful states of the middle west into the Democratic column.

The Democratic nominee will leave here this evening for a tour of the mid-western battlefield. His drive will carry him into Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with brief spurts into Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The drive, however will be concentrated in Indiana and Ohio for the next two weeks.

Returning to New York on Oct. 25, Davis will spend the last week of the campaign in an effort to carry New York and New Jersey. He will close his presidential fight with a series of speeches in New York City, the last at a huge rally in Carnegia hall on Saturday, Nov. 1, just three days before election.

Davis will go to Indiana tonight to open his second western tour in Richmond, Ind., tomorrow noon. In the course of his trip, he will make five prepared addresses in that state, the second coming at Indianapolis Saturday night.

Two Army Flyers Seriously Hurt in Langley Field Fall

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Two army flyers were seriously injured this morning when the T. C-2, a small dirigible fell to the ground while engaged in bombing practice at Langley Field, Va., the war department was advised this afternoon.

The injured officers are Lieutenant Bruce N. Martin of San Francisco, and Lieutenant Alfred I. Puryear, of Hendersonville, Tennessee.

Three enlisted men were also hurt, but not seriously.

The airship fell when one of the bombs exploded in mid-air.

Alleged Assailant Of Girl Escapes After Operation

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 10—Julius Coley, 30, negro escaped early today from a hospital here, where he was recovering from an operation for appendicitis that became necessary shortly after his arrest a month ago on a charge of attacking a young girl in Washington county, Missouri.

Coley, who was being held for Missouri authorities, had been shackled to his bed, but shackles and all were gone. Authorities believe he had outside assistance. Coley feared he would be lynched if returned to Missouri, authorities said.

ROBBERS STEAL $11,000 PAYROLL

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—Three robbers this afternoon ran into the business office of the Jewish Daily Forward, a newspaper and before the entire office force, including four frightened girl stenographers, knocked the Superintendent and cashier unconscious and escaped with the weekly payroll—$11,000.

PENNSY TO BUY 10,000 CARS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — The Pennsylvania railroad was authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to issue $15,750,000 of equipment trust certificates to be used in the purchase of 10,000 box cars.

ANATOLE FRANCE SLOWLY SINKING

TOURS, France, Oct. 10.—Anatole France, famous writer, was slowly sinking today. A bulletin issued at noon said: "M. France is extremely weak and is unconscious."

500 Labor Party Candidates to Seek Places in Commons

LONDON, Oct. 10. — While Labor party headquarters announced this afternoon that only 370 Laborite candidates were in the field working for election to commons, it is believed this number will have been increased to 500 by election day, October 29.

Labor party election machinery is working smoothly in all but two of the 615 constituencies.

Premier MacDonald will make a tour of the country, but will not campaign in London.

The Laborite cabinet headed by MacDonald will remain in power temporarily.

Malcolm MacDonald, son of the premier, who is now in the United States, will stand for parliament in the Basseltaw district. He will be unable to return in time for the campaign so his sister, Ishbel MacDonald, will conduct his campaign for him.

Oliver Baldwin, son of former Premier Stanley Baldwin, will run for commons on the Laborite ticket despite the fact that his father is a Tory.

A son of John Robert Clynes and two sons of Arthur Henderson will be candidates also.

Radio as Medium Of World Peace, is Ohioan's Promise

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Promotion of world peace and understanding through the medium of super-power broadcasting will be radio's greatest contribution to society, Powell Crossley Jr., Cincinnati manufacturer, declared today at the National Radio conference.

Crossley contemplates a system of international broadcasting among the big powers whereby the ideals, the music, the politics, the domestic and external problems of the one might be comprehended clearly by the other.

"Such a system," Crossley asserted, "means world-wide peace—the end of war and a great epoch of mutual understanding that the world has never hitherto known."

The beginning of the world broadcasting plan is seen during international radio week, November 24 to 30, when at stated periods each night the big receiving stations of North America and Europe alternately will be silenced as they tune in to the programs of the other hemisphere.

neither having anything to speak of in this direction. Washington had burned up Walter Johnson, Jez Zachary and Fred Marberry. The Giants were all through with Art Nehf and Jack Bentley. All that seemed to remain was a duel of right hands involving George McQuillan or Virgil Barnes of the Giants, and Curley Ogden of the Senators, with the bare possibility that Mogridge's elderly left might be called upon.

In brief, it was any team's series in the pre-game calculations and the betting said that nothing worse than even money should prevail, in spite of the fact that Roger Peckinpaugh, who re-injured his leg in yesterday's ninth inning, was definitely out of the Senatorial lineup.

Barnes May Pitch

That John J. McGraw was none too certain of his pitching selection was indicated this morning when he spoke of Barnes as his probable pitching selection. The sharks found this statement difficult of digestion in view of the fact that Barnes failed to go the limit in the fourth game, while McQuillan though taken out in the third game, had shown well as a relief pitcher on succeeding occasions. Harris made it very clear at an early moment that he would use the same lineup that finished the ninth inning yesterday. This called for Bluege to move over to shortstop and Taylor, a recruit to go to third base. He said he favored Ogden as his pitcher.

Seaplane Breaks Flight Record

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—All records for sustained flight by a single motored seaplane were broken today when the navy's new combined bombing-torpedo and Scout seaplane, CF-2, made a landing at Quantico, with the 600 gallons of gas which she started her flight with completely gone.

Twenty hours and twenty-eight minutes were spent in the air by the giant seaplane which, flying at an average speed of 73 miles an hour, traveled more than 1,500 miles.

SOVIET AIDE STAB VICTIM

Georgian Kills Self After he Attacks Russian Official.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—M. Stalin, Soviet minister of nationalities, was stabbed in the shoulder by a Georgian named Hagischwili, who followed the assassination attempt by killing himself, according to an unconfirmed report received here today from Moscow. Stalin was taken to a hospital, the report added.

M. Stalin has been an important figure in Soviet administrative affairs. He is a Georgian himself, born with the name Joseph Visarionovitch Dzhugashvili. As minister of Nationalities he had the important task of keeping in line the numerous and numerically strong racial minorities living within Russia.

When Lenin fell ill, Stalin was a member of the triumvirate appointed to head the government. Stalin's influence in the Communist party is held to be tremendous, second not even to that of Trotzky. His simple manner of living, his tireless energy and his friendship with Lenin are reflected in great popularity.

in as short a time as the navigation of the first passes of the Rocky mountains by the navy dirigible Shenandoah last night.

Driving ahead at a speed of 74 miles an hour with a wind which roared through the airship's tunnel like cannons, rising gradually until between the highest peaks it was at an altitude of 6,800 feet—following a new and uncharted course, with only a winding white ribbon of highway and glistening black railway as uncertain guides—skimming the ground so closely that frequently jagged mountains almost walled in this Leviathan of the skies, the Shenandoah sailed through the mountains, twisting, turning, rising, falling, like an immense bird, until the tortuous Rio Grande glistened below, then her nose turned toward the lights of El Paso.

Immense Gas Bags Expand

The Shenandoah crossed the Pecos river and left the Texas planes behind at 7:30 p. m. She was in the foothills of the Rockies and in a few minutes mounted from an altitude of 2,500 feet to 6,200.

Ears and eyes of those aboard reacted to the rarified atmosphere and the immense gas bags, which had been only partially full during the previous days, expanded and strained against their network of cords.

With every additional rise the pressure was diminished and some expanding gas released to prevent bursting the bags.

Cool air of the mountain tops chilled the expanding bags and served in a measure to counteract the effect of the rarified atmosphere. More speed was added to stop the expansion.

The half ton of water ballast was dropped in a long cataract, sparkling in the moonlight which shone on the bleak white hills below, on the railroad traced like a guiding line, and on the peaks, which seemed to come forward to grasp the graceful intruder and then fall back.

San Diego Before Dark

The motors were driving her through the air with 1,500 horsepower and the winds were straining at the airship, which seemed equal to any ocean liner, so faithfully did she respond to her rudders.

Commander Zachary Lansdowne, who navigated the Shenandoah through the mountains, expects to anchor her in San Diego before dark ending the second length of the 9,000-mile cruise.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 10. — Sailing majestically over this city just after daybreak the big dirigible Shenandoah en route to San Diego, was given a rousing welcome.

Sighted at Estrella, Ariz.

The giant airship was sighted over the city at 6:35 a. m. (mountain time) her great body gliding in the rising sun. The entire population of the city was out, thousands having waited for her appearance the greater part of the night. Every available noise-making apparatus was called into play in a mighty din which must have carried up to the level at which the airship was flying.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah apparently reduced her speed after she passed over Tucson, Ariz. The railroad observers sighted her there at 6:35 a. m. At 6:50 she passed over Riallito and at 7:09 (mountain time) was sighted by Red Rock, Ariz. Red Rock is approximately 22 miles west of Tucson.

The Shenandoah was reported passing over Estrella, Ariz., at 8:37 a. m., (mountain time.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct 10.—The Shenandoah passed over Gilt, Arizona, 120 miles west of Tucson, at 9:37 a. m. (mountain time) according to Southern Pacific officials here.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Otto Peters.

Mrs. Otto Peters, 30 years old, of 1055 Ambrose avenue, died in the City hospital at 7 o'clock last night after an illness of complications.

Besides her husband, she leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith and a brother, Allen Smith.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. J. F. Dinit, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Riverview cemetery.

There are no hookworms where there is sanitary sewage disposal and shod feet.

Y. M. C. A. Educational Committee Meets Friday Evening

The Y. M. C. A. educational committee, which is in charge of industrial classes to be conducted this winter, will meet at the Y at 7:30 o'clock Friday night to complete arrangements for the classes which will begin October 20.

All members of the committee and other persons interested in the classes are asked to attend.

Defer School Closing

grades. In order to reach either the Central or Sixth street schools, these children must cross street car tracks, endangering their lives. Residents of this district have threatened to take their children out of school rather than run the risk of letting them cross the dangerous interesections at Market, Washington and Sixth streets.

Urges Safety of Children.

"In the recent reappraisement, the valuations of property in the Third street school district was fixed considering the proximity of a school. We will pay taxes on those valuations and feel that we should not be robbed of our school.

"If we are to be the 'goat' in this matter this year, we will say all right, provided you agree to close the Grant street school or some other school next year in order to establish some other course in the high school.

"We are not making any demands of you but come to you on bended knees asking that you permit us to keep our school, away from the perils of traffic where mothers can feel safe in starting their little ones to their daily classes and need have no fear for their safety."

J. H. Brookes' Reply.

President J. H. Brookes of the school board, replying to Mr. Bennett, declared that it was not an act of pleasure that the board was considering the closing of the Third street school, but it was a step for economy.

He briefly recited the financial condition of the schools a few years ago when it seemed almost certain that the institutions of learning must close owing to a lack of funds. Economy was practiced wherever possible and a saving of approximately $75,000 put into effect, he said. In spite of this saving, a big deficit remained at the end of the school year.

He produced a letter from Vernon M. Reigle, state superintendent of public instruction, declaring that schools, which do not have manual training in their course cannot remain as Class A high schools, thereby lowering the rating for those students who enter college at the end of their high school courses.

"By closing the Third street school the board felt that we would save sufficient to pay the salary of an instructor in manual training, thereby re-establishing this course in the high school," declared Mr. Brookes. "We are now keeping up empty rooms in the Central and Sixth street buildings which we felt might be used, saving all overhead expenses at the Third street school building."

Economy Declared Purpose

Mr. Brookes pointed out that children crossing Market, Washington and Sixth streets were in no more danger than those attending the Garfield, Grant Street, Pleasant Heights or any other building.

"Traffic conditions are bad around all schools, especially those on the hillside districts, where fast traveling machines speed up and down."

"Superintendent Geiger corroborated the statement that the boundaries of the Third street school had been extended to Market street on the east and Fifth street on the north as a means of keeping the building at least partially filled. In spite of this expansion, he declared, less than 150 pupils were enrolled in the building.

"Whatever this board does is for the benefit of the entire district," the school board head continued. "We have no desire to penalize or favor the Third street district or any other district in the city. This is purely an economic step and we will cease economy if the people do not wish it. We are working here without one cent of compensation and feel that our efforts should be appreciated and not criticized.

Attorney Bennett asked if the board would defer action until the proposal could be carried to the people of the entire district. Mr. Brookes and other members replied that the suggestion had their approval, as the board had no desire to do anything which the people did not sanction. Mr. Bennett in behalf of the Third street people, will endeavor to obtain an expression from residents of the entire district on the proposal and also urge civic bodies and clubs to act on the question. He promised to have a report ready in two weeks, if possible. When this is completed, the board will meet at the call of the president to take final action on the proposal.

Approve Carpenters' Bill

By a vote of 3 to 2, the board approved a bill submitted by Robert Newell and Loren Orr, carpenters, in which they charged $12 per day for erecting the Glenmoor school. The two carpenters asserted they were working contractors and were well within their rights in charging $12 per day for their services.

Members of the board said they had been of the opinion that carpenters were paid $1.25 per hour, or $10 per day. Orr declared that he made $12 per day every day he had worked since May 1, as he had charged contractor's prices.

Member Wilhelm made the motion that the bill be paid. His motion was supported by R. W. Sample and F. T. Weaver. President Brookes and D. F. White voted "no" on the motion declaring that the bill was "unjust."

Carpenters will be offered the privilege of erecting the new building at Glenmoor now on the grounds, if they will take it at the $10 per day rate, the board decided. If they refuse this offer, which the board contends is the union scale, the structure will be erected by laborers working under the direction of John Hughes, utility man, in the local schools.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The stock market was not only featureless in the market trading today; it was practically lifeless. Trading came to a standstill before the end of the first hour and outside of the slight advance in one or two of the rails and independent steels, there were no price movements which attracted any attention. Covering of high priced industrial shares, which began in yesterday's session, was continued, and some of the copper shares were in demand at slightly higher prices.

The market waited for the monthly statement of the Steel Corporation and not even the publication of the best transportation traffic statement of the year by the American Railway association could induce traders to display any interest in the railroad stocks. Pittsburgh and West Virginia continued the advance inaugurated in yesterday's session, New York Central and Rock Island were active at fractionally higher prices, but the balance of the railroad list was neglected.

American Can led the industrial stock list with a gain of one point on short covering and accumulation by floor traders, on rumors that a stock dividend is to be declared before the end of the year. Baldwin and General Electric were in demand at slightly higher prices. Marland and some of the other independent oils were supplied freely and prices showed a fractional decline. Gulf States was the most active of the independent steel stocks, advancing to 72½ for a gain of 1¼ points. United States Steel advanced to 108¾, up one point.

Both the grain and cotton markets were irregular, wheat and corn selling off on the government's crop report. Money markets were unchanged with call loans in good supply at 2½ per cent; sterling exchange advanced on better cables and reports that the agreement for the German international loan had been signed in London.

handled the sale, each dealing in a different brand of pasteboards and it was a common occurrence throughout the night for coupon holders to spend hours in line and then get up to the window to find they had to go to another booth which entailed starting at the rear end again and working up to the window.

Loud and long were the lamentations that went up around the park, incipient fights were started and the police were hard put to control the situation.

The lines began to dwindle just before dawn this morning only to fill up again as the sun came up. The magnet that drew them this morning was the announcement that at 10 o'clock 20,000 general admission tickets together with all others would be thrown on the market on the basis of first come first served. The lines of speculators formed on the right for these.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Amanda E. McKenna, wife of Justice Joseph E. McKenna of the United states supreme court, is gravely ill and hope for her recovery has virtually been abandoned by physicians, it became known here today.

Everybody Worked But Father

"Father's stomach trouble seemed to be getting worse all the time and finally he had to quit work altogether. Two brothers and myself gave up school and went to work to support the family. Father had lost sixty pounds in weight and was yellow as saffron and no medicine helped him. Telling a friend about it six months ago, she advised taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I got a bottle and it helped father at once. He was able to go back to work a month later, has regained his weight and strength and eats like a wood chopper." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

That Played Havoc With His Nerves—But Tanlac Set Him Right.

"After two months use of Tanlac I can say that it is wonderful," recently stated Joseph J. McGuire, 509 E. North St., Indianapolis, Ind.

"When I started taking it I was all knocked out as a result of the Flu. Nervousness, dizziness, headaches and loss of sleep continually nagged me. Indigestion caused palpitation and shortness of breath and my energy and strength seemed gone for good.

"At this time I only weighed 125 lbs., but now I tip the beam at 135 and am a new and different man. I eat three rousing meals a day, sleep fine and feel the same way. I don't believe anybody can go wrong taking Tanlac."

Contractor Wants Others to Know His Amazing Experience With Health-Aid, Ka-di-ok.

MR. JAMES TAYLOR.

"I feel that the very least I can do is to publicly recommend Ka-di-ok to stomach sufferers for it has surely done me a great deal of good," Said Mr. James Taylor, a plasterer by trade, living at 66 Alley 15, Wheeling, W. Va., who works for Mr. Thomas George, a contractor of this city.

"I not only experienced a miserable feeling after eating—although I had no appetite to eat very much,— but I never could sleep at night, and consequently felt tired and drowsy all through the day.

"Since taking Ka-di-ok a few weeks ago I want to tell you that I am feeling fine. I can eat anything I want and my digestion is perfect; I sleep just as soon as my head strikes the pillow. I feel a whole lot stronger and have not lost an hour's time since I began using Ka-di-ok.

"It is the best stomach medicine I have ever found in whole life. I have lived in Wheeling over forty years, and I want my friends to know about it."

Ka-di-ok can be obtained in East Liverpool at the Mathews Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 West 6th street. adv.

DAVIS FACES SUPREME TEST

By W. K. HUTCHINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—John W. Davis faced the supreme test of his presidential campaign today in opening a final drive to swing the doubtful states of the middle west into the Democratic column.

The Democratic nominee will leave here this evening for a tour of the mid-western battlefield. His drive will carry him into Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with brief spurts into Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The drive, however will be concentrated in Indiana and Ohio for the next two weeks.

Returning to New York on Oct. 25, Davis will spend the last week of the campaign in an effort to carry New York and New Jersey. He will close his presidential fight with a series of speeches in New York City, the last at a huge rally in Carnegia hall on Saturday, Nov. 1, just three days before election.

Davis will go to Indiana tonight to open his second western tour in Richmond, Ind., tomorrow noon. In the course of his trip, he will make five prepared addresses in that state, the second coming at Indianapolis Saturday night.

Two Army Flyers Seriously Hurt in Langley Field Fall

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Two army flyers were seriously injured this morning when the T. C-2, a small dirigible fell to the ground while engaged in bombing practice at Langley Field, Va., the war department was advised this afternoon.

The injured officers are Lieutenant Bruce N. Martin of San Francisco, and Lieutenant Alfred I. Puryear, of Hendersonville, Tennessee.

Three enlisted men were also hurt, but not seriously.

The airship fell when one of the bombs exploded in mid-air.

Alleged Assailant Of Girl Escapes After Operation

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 10—Julius Coley, 30, negro escaped early today from a hospital here, where he was recovering from an operation for appendicitis that became necessary shortly after his arrest a month ago on a charge of attacking a young girl in Washington county, Missouri.

Coley, who was being held for Missouri authorities, had been shackled to his bed, but shackles and all were gone. Authorities believe he had outside assistance. Coley feared he would be lynched if returned to Missouri, authorities said.

ROBBERS STEAL $11,000 PAYROLL

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—Three robbers this afternoon ran into the business office of the Jewish Daily Forward, a newspaper and before the entire office force, including four frightened girl stenographers, knocked the Superintendent and cashier unconscious and escaped with the weekly payroll—$11,000.

PENNSY TO BUY 10,000 CARS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — The Pennsylvania railroad was authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to issue $15,750,000 of equipment trust certificates to be used in the purchase of 10,000 box cars.

500 Labor Party Candidates to Seek Places in Commons

LONDON, Oct. 10. — While Labor party headquarters announced this afternoon that only 370 Laborite candidates were in the field working for election to commons, it is believed this number will have been increased to 500 by election day, October 29.

Labor party election machinery is working smoothly in all but two of the 615 constituencies.

Premier MacDonald will make a tour of the country, but will not campaign in London.

The Laborite cabinet headed by MacDonald will remain in power temporarily.

Malcolm MacDonald, son of the premier, who is now in the United States, will stand for parliament in the Basseltaw district. He will be unable to return in time for the campaign so his sister, Ishbel MacDonald, will conduct his campaign for him.

Oliver Baldwin, son of former Premier Stanley Baldwin, will run for commons on the Laborite ticket despite the fact that his father is a Tory.

A son of John Robert Clynes and two sons of Arthur Henderson will be candidates also.

Radio as Medium Of World Peace, is Ohioan's Promise

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Promotion of world peace and understanding through the medium of super-power broadcasting will be radio's greatest contribution to society, Powell Crossley Jr., Cincinnati manufacturer, declared today at the National Radio conference.

Crossley contemplates a system of international broadcasting among the big powers whereby the ideals, the music, the politics, the domestic and external problems of the one might be comprehended clearly by the other.

"Such a system," Crossley asserted, "means world-wide peace—the end of war and a great epoch of mutual understanding that the world has never hitherto known."

The beginning of the world broadcasting plan is seen during international radio week, November 24 to 30, when at stated periods each night the big receiving stations of North America and Europe alternately will be silenced as they tune in to the programs of the other hemisphere.

neither having anything to speak of in this direction. Washington had burned up Walter Johnson, Jez Zachary and Fred Marberry. The Giants were all through with Art Nehf and Jack Bentley. All that seemed to remain was a duel of right hands involving George McQuillan or Virgil Barnes of the Giants, and Curley Ogden of the Senators, with the bare possibility that Mogridge's elderly left might be called upon.

In brief, it was any team's series in the pre-game calculations and the betting said that nothing worse than even money should prevail, in spite of the fact that Roger Peckinpaugh, who re-injured his leg in yesterday's ninth inning, was definitely out of the Senatorial lineup.

Barnes May Pitch

That John J. McGraw was none too certain of his pitching selection was indicated this morning when he spoke of Barnes as his probable pitching selection. The sharks found this statement difficult of digestion in view of the fact that Barnes failed to go the limit in the fourth game, while McQuillan though taken out in the third game, had shown well as a relief pitcher on succeeding occasions. Harris made it very clear at an early moment that he would use the same lineup that finished the ninth inning yesterday. This called for Bluege to move over to shortstop and Taylor, a recruit to go to third base. He said he favored Ogden as his pitcher.

Seaplane Breaks Flight Record

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—All records for sustained flight by a single motored seaplane were broken today when the navy's new combined bombing-torpedo and Scout seaplane, CF-2, made a landing at Quantico, with the 600 gallons of gas which she started her flight with completely gone.

Twenty hours and twenty-eight minutes were spent in the air by the giant seaplane which, flying at an average speed of 73 miles an hour, traveled more than 1,500 miles.

SOVIET AIDE STAB VICTIM

Georgian Kills Self After he Attacks Russian Official.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—M. Stalin, Soviet minister of nationalities, was stabbed in the shoulder by a Georgian named Hagischwili, who followed the assassination attempt by killing himself, according to an unconfirmed report received here today from Moscow. Stalin was taken to a hospital, the report added.

M. Stalin has been an important figure in Soviet administrative affairs. He is a Georgian himself, born with the name Joseph Visarionovitch Dzhugashvili. As minister of Nationalities he had the important task of keeping in line the numerous and numerically strong racial minorities living within Russia.

When Lenin fell ill, Stalin was a member of the triumvirate appointed to head the government. Stalin's influence in the Communist party is held to be tremendous, second not even to that of Trotzky. His simple manner of living, his tireless energy and his friendship with Lenin are reflected in great popularity.

in as short a time as the navigation of the first passes of the Rocky mountains by the navy dirigible Shenandoah last night.

Driving ahead at a speed of 74 miles an hour with a wind which roared through the airship's tunnel like cannons, rising gradually until between the highest peaks it was at an altitude of 6,800 feet—following a new and uncharted course, with only a winding white ribbon of highway and glistening black railway as uncertain guides—skimming the ground so closely that frequently jagged mountains almost walled in this Leviathan of the skies, the Shenandoah sailed through the mountains, twisting, turning, rising, falling, like an immense bird, until the tortuous Rio Grande glistened below, then her nose turned toward the lights of El Paso.

Immense Gas Bags Expand

The Shenandoah crossed the Pecos river and left the Texas planes behind at 7:30 p. m. She was in the foothills of the Rockies and in a few minutes mounted from an altitude of 2,500 feet to 6,200.

Ears and eyes of those aboard reacted to the rarified atmosphere and the immense gas bags, which had been only partially full during the previous days, expanded and strained against their network of cords.

With every additional rise the pressure was diminished and some expanding gas released to prevent bursting the bags.

Cool air of the mountain tops chilled the expanding bags and served in a measure to counteract the effect of the rarified atmosphere. More speed was added to stop the expansion.

The half ton of water ballast was dropped in a long cataract, sparkling in the moonlight which shone on the bleak white hills below, on the railroad traced like a guiding line, and on the peaks, which seemed to come forward to grasp the graceful intruder and then fall back.

San Diego Before Dark

The motors were driving her through the air with 1,500 horsepower and the winds were straining at the airship, which seemed equal to any ocean liner, so faithfully did she respond to her rudders.

Commander Zachary Lansdowne, who navigated the Shenandoah through the mountains, expects to anchor her in San Diego before dark ending the second length of the 9,000-mile cruise.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 10. — Sailing majestically over this city just after daybreak the big dirigible Shenandoah en route to San Diego, was given a rousing welcome.

Sighted at Estrella, Ariz.

The giant airship was sighted over the city at 6:35 a. m. (mountain time) her great body gliding in the rising sun. The entire population of the city was out, thousands having waited for her appearance the greater part of the night. Every available noise-making apparatus was called into play in a mighty din which must have carried up to the level at which the airship was flying.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah apparently reduced her speed after she passed over Tucson, Ariz. The railroad observers sighted her there at 6:35 a. m. At 6:50 she passed over Riallito and at 7:09 (mountain time) was sighted by Red Rock, Ariz. Red Rock is approximately 22 miles west of Tucson.

The Shenandoah was reported passing over Estrella, Ariz., at 8:37 a. m., (mountain time.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct 10.—The Shenandoah passed over Gilt, Arizona, 120 miles west of Tucson, at 9:37 a. m. (mountain time) according to Southern Pacific officials here.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Otto Peters.

Mrs. Otto Peters, 30 years old, of 1055 Ambrose avenue, died in the City hospital at 7 o'clock last night after an illness of complications.

Besides her husband, she leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith and a brother, Allen Smith.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. J. F. Dimit, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Riverview cemetery.

There are no hookworms where there is sanitary sewage disposal and shod feet.

Y. M. C. A. Educational Committee Meets Friday Evening

The Y. M. C. A. educational committee, which is in charge of industrial classes to be conducted this winter, will meet at the Y at 7:30 o'clock Friday night to complete arrangements for the classes which will begin October 20.

All members of the committee and other persons interested in the classes are asked to attend.

Defer School Closing

grades. In order to reach either the Central or Sixth street schools, these children must cross street car tracks, endangering their lives. Residents of this district have threatened to take their children out of school rather than run the risk of letting them cross the dangerous intersections at Market, Washington and Sixth streets.

Urges Safety of Children.

"In the recent reappraisement, the valuations of property in the Third street school district was fixed considering the proximity of a school. We will pay taxes on those valuations and feel that we should not be robbed of our school.

"If we are to be the 'goat' in this matter this year, we will say all right, provided you agree to close the Grant street school or some other school next year in order to establish some other course in the high school.

"We are not making any demands of you but come to you on bended knees asking that you permit us to keep our school, away from the perils of traffic where mothers can feel safe in starting their little ones to their daily classes and need have no fear for their safety."

J. H. Brookes' Reply.

President J. H. Brookes of the school board, replying to Mr. Bennett, declared that it was not an act of pleasure that the board was considering the closing of the Third street school, but it was a step for economy.

He briefly recited the financial condition of the schools a few years ago when it seemed almost certain that the institutions of learning must close owing to a lack of funds. Economy was practiced wherever possible and a saving of approximately $75,000 put into effect, he said. In spite of this saving, a big deficit remained at the end of the school year.

He produced a letter from Vernon M. Reigle, state superintendent of public instruction, declaring that schools, which do not have manual training in their course cannot remain as Class A high schools, thereby lowering the rating for those students who enter college at the end of their high school courses.

"By closing the Third street school the board felt that we would save sufficient to pay the salary of an instructor in manual training, thereby re-establishing this course in the high school," declared Mr. Brookes. "We are now keeping up empty rooms in the Central and Sixth street buildings which we felt might be used, saving all overhead expenses at the Third street school building."

Economy Declared Purpose

Mr. Brookes pointed out that children crossing Market, Washington and Sixth streets were in no more danger than those attending the Garfield, Grant Street, Pleasant Heights or any other building.

"Traffic conditions are bad around all schools, especially those on the hillside districts, where fast traveling machines speed up and down."

"Superintendent Geiger corroborated the statement that the boundaries of the Third street school had been extended to Market street on the east and Fifth street on the north as a means of keeping the building at least partially filled. In spite of this expansion, he declared, less than 150 pupils were enrolled in the building.

"Whatever this board does is for the benefit of the entire district," the school board head continued. "We have no desire to penalize or favor the Third street district or any other district in the city. This is purely an economic step and we will cease economy if the people do not wish it. We are working here without one cent of compensation and feel that our efforts should be appreciated and not criticized.

Attorney Bennett asked if the board would defer action until the proposal could be carried to the people of the entire district. Mr. Brookes and other members replied that the suggestion had their approval, as the board had no desire to do anything which the people did not sanction. Mr. Bennett in behalf of the Third street people, will endeavor to obtain an expression from residents of the entire district on the proposal and also urge civic bodies and clubs to act on the question. He promised to have a report ready in two weeks, if possible. When this is completed, the board will meet at the call of the president to take final action on the proposal.

Approve Carpenters' Bill

By a vote of 3 to 2, the board approved a bill submitted by Robert Newell and Loren Orr, carpenters, in which they charged $12 per day for erecting the Glenmoor school. The two carpenters asserted they were working contractors and were well within their rights in charging $12 per day for their services.

Members of the board said they had been of the opinion that carpenters were paid $1.25 per hour, or $10 per day. Orr declared that he made $12 per day every day he had worked since May 1, as he had charged contractor's prices.

Member Wilhelm made the motion that the bill be paid. His motion was supported by R. W. Sample and F. T. Weaver. President Brookes and D. F. White voted "no" on the motion declaring that the bill was "unjust."

Carpenters will be offered the privilege of erecting the new building at Glenmoor now on the grounds, if they will take it at the $10 per day rate, the board decided. If they refuse this offer, which the board contends is the union scale, the structure will be erected by laborers working under the direction of John Hughes, utility man, in the local schools.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The stock market was not only featureless in the market trading today; it was practically lifeless. Trading came to a standstill before the end of the first hour and outside of the slight advance in one or two of the rails and independent steels, there were no price movements which attracted any attention. Covering of high priced industrial shares, which began in yesterday's session, was continued, and some of the copper shares were in demand at slightly higher prices.

The market waited for the monthly statement of the Steel Corporation and not even the publication of the best transportation traffic statement of the year by the American Railway association could induce traders to display any interest in the railroad stocks. Pittsburgh and West Virginia continued the advance inaugurated in yesterday's session, New York Central and Rock Island were active at fractionally higher prices, but the balance of the railroad list was neglected.

American Can led the industrial stock list with a gain of one point on short covering and accumulation by floor traders, on rumors that a stock dividend is to be declared before the end of the year. Baldwin and General Electric were in demand at slightly higher prices. Marland and some of the other independent oils were supplied freely and prices showed a fractional decline. Gulf States was the most active of the independent steel stocks, advancing to 72½ for a gain of 1¼ points. United States Steel advanced to 108¾, up one point.

Both the grain and cotton markets were irregular, wheat and corn selling off on the government's crop report. Money markets were unchanged with call loans in good supply at 2½ per cent; sterling exchange advanced on better cables and reports that the agreement for the German international loan had been signed in London.

Everybody Worked But Father

"Father's stomach trouble seemed to be getting worse all the time and finally he had to quit work altogether. Two brothers and myself gave up school and went to work to support the family. Father had lost sixty pounds in weight and was yellow as saffron and no medicine helped him. Telling a friend about it six months ago, she advised taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I got a bottle and it helped father at once. He was able to go back to work a month later, has regained his weight and strength and eats like a wood chopper." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

You Can Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and Jesse D. Holloway and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so-called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflammed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint affections that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

"My bakings used to be a matter of 'hit or miss'—sometimes they were successful; then again a total failure, no matter how hard I tried. But that was before a friend persuaded me to try Calumet. Now I know what the result will be—what to expect every time—perfectly raised, uniformly baked foods. Bake day is really a delight."

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans, instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Baking Powder plays an important part in the success or failure of your baking. The great American housewives all realize this. They have found by experience that a better leavener is not, and cannot be made—that for nutritious and wholesome foods it has no equal.

Calumet is made in the World's largest baking powder factories; human hands never touch it.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Ida Beck Entertains.

Mrs. Ida Beck delightfully entertained the members of the Seattle club Thursday evening in her home in Minerva street. Fancywork and guessing contests were the diversions at the social hours. The contests were won by Miss Irene Mitchell and Mrs. Chester Beck. Fall flowers adorned the home and were used in the luncheon appointments. Mrs. Beck was assisted in serving by Mrs. Harry Pepin and Mrs. Chester Beck.

The following new members were enrolled during the business session: Mrs. W. M. Rosenberger, Mrs. Mary Logan and her daughter, Miss Mary Logan, and Miss Mary Dolby of Wellsville.

Special guests were Mrs. Chester Beck, Mrs. Daisy Sinclair and Mrs. Harry Pepin.

In two weeks the club will meet in the home of Mrs. Ida Burgess of 331 Blakely street.

Beljama Rivi Club Meeting.

The Beljama Rivi club held its initial meeting Thursday evening in the home of Miss Mary Margaret Buxton of McKinnon avenue. During the business session, it was decided to change the name of the T. L. M. I. club. Miss Helen Gambel was elected treasurer.

The social hours were spent with cards and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Harry Buxton. Garden flowers and Hallowe'en novelties were used in the appointments. Dainty glass baskets filled with nuts, were given each guest. Twelve club members were present, with Miss Helen Bailey and Miss Maurine Dyke as special guests.

In two weeks the club will be entertained in the home of Miss Jane Dorrance of Avondale street.

Travelers' Club To Meet.

Tuesday evening, October 14, the initial meeting of the Travelers' club will be held in the home of Mrs. Thomas H. Fisher in Highland Colony, with Mrs. W. E. Dunlap and Mrs. Fisher as associate hostesses.

Fred J. Wagner Seriously Ill.

Fred J. Wagner, of the Wagner Monument works, Third street, who has been located for the last month in the Hchman sanatorium, El Paso, for the benefit of his health, is seriously ill, having suffered a relapse during his trip to Texas. However, the attending physician is hopeful of Mr. Wagner's recovery.

Philathea Class Meeting.

The Philathea class of the First Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting in the class room, Thursday evening. After a short business session, a program, in charge of Mrs. W. F. Lones and Mrs. Oscar Reynolds, was given. Guessing contests and a new game, which was played aboard the ship, which brought Mrs. Lones from Europe, was featured.

A dainty luncheon was served at the close of the evening, at which covers were arranged for 38 guests.

Crystal Chapter No. 18, O. E. S., will entertain with a Novelty Party on Friday, October 17. All Masons, Eastern Stars and De Molays invited. Assessment $1.50 per couple.

Hostess At Bridge Party.

Mrs. Howard Smith entertained Thursday evening in her home in Avondale street. Progressive bridge formed the principal diversions of the social hours, four tables being in play. Trophies were awarded Mrs. Owen Buxton and Miss Lucille Laughlin.

A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. K. Moffat, Mrs. Fred Adams and Miss Lucille Laughlin. Garden flowers were used in decorating the home and in the luncheon appointments.

Miss McAndrews Entertains.

The Thursday Evening Five Hundred club was entertained Thursday evening, in the home of Miss Gertrude McAndrews of West Sixth street. Three tables were in play during the social hours, trophies being awarded Miss Agnes DeTemple, Miss Katheryn Hughes and Miss Marie Kelley. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. A. McAndrews, and sister, Miss Kathleen.

Special guests were Miss Eva Hughes and Miss Barry.

The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Miss Anna Simbalia of West Fourth street.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Q. Who gets the receipts from the World Series baseball games? H. W.

A. The players of the teams in the World Series receive the receipts of the World Series for the first four games. If the series is longer than four games, the receipts go to the National Baseball Commission. The largest receipts for one series were $1,063,815 at the World Series in 1923 between the New York Nationals and the New York Americans.

Q. Why is it that we can not hear the noise of the earth's rotation? A. N.

A. The Naval Observatory says that the earth is a globular mass, rigid as steel, revolving freely in space. There is no friction due to this rotation and no vibration. Consequently there is no noise. The earth is often likened to an immense fly-wheel, and to any one who has been a large fly wheel of steel revolving silently, but with great rapidity, the comparison is striking.

Q. What is the origin of the "R" with a line through it which doctors place on prescriptions? C. L. T.

A. The sign to which you refer is now used as an abbreviation of the Latin word "recipe" (take.) The derivation of the sign is obscure, but the symbol was formerly thought to be a sign for Jupiter.

Q. Is the consumption of tobacco on the increase? A. M. E.

A. The consumption of tobacco in the United States has increased from less than four pounds per capita before the Civil War to be 8.5 pounds per capita at the present time.

Q. State the names and ages of the children of the King of England. G. B.

A. His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, was born June 23, 1894. H. R. H., Princess Mary, was born April 25, 1897; H. R. H., Prince Henry, March 31, 1900; and H. R. H.; Prince George, December 20, 1902. H. R. H., Prince John, who was born July 12, 1905, died January 18, 1919.

Q. What would be the limit of height for a skyscrapper? D. F. R.

A. The Woolworth Building, New York's tallest skyscrapper, is 52 stories high, and has a foundation which extends 116 feet below the street level. Buildings much taller than this could be built, the limit depending on practical conditions. Probably the tallest building so far seriously proposed was suggested by Bertram Goodhue, well known architect. He designed an 80 story building suitable for the site now occupied by Madison Square Garden.

Q. Are many arrests made nowadays for the crime of counterfeiting? M. B.

A. Secret Service agents and men working under their direction arrested 215 persons for note counterfeiting and 76 for coin counterfeiting during the fiscal year 1923.

Q. Is the vacuum cleaner a recent invention? T. C.

A. The first portable vacuum cleaner was constructed by Dr. William Noe of San Francisco, in 1905.

Q. How can I remove grease from a fur coat? E. B.

A. To remove grease from fur, take clean common powdered whiting and put it in a damp place for a few days, but do not let it get wet. Rub it into the fur with the fingers. The next day repeat the process, then shake out the whiting and brush with a clothes brush. Then pour alcohol into a plate and, dipping the brush into the alcohol, lightly brush the fur, following the natural direction of the fur.

A PARTNER OF SUNLIGHT

Cod-liver oil has aptly been called the partner of sunlight. Both out of Nature's storehouse of energy are of supreme importance to a child with rickets.

Scott's Emulsion

and sunlight have been used for decades to give strength to weak-bones. A little of Scott's Emulsion with each feeding does wonders for a malnourished child or adult.

Keep your boy or girl out in the sunlight and give them Scott's Emulsion everyday—regularly!

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Masquerade Party Planned.

Initial plans are being made for a masquerade party to be held October 29 under the auspices of the Welfare department of the Homer Laughlin China company. The affair will be for workers at the six Laughlin potteries, their families and friends.

Odd Fellows' Meeting.

The weekly meteing of Clark lodge, No. 447, I. O. O. F. will be held at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening in the Odd Fellows hall in the Aaron building. Routine business is slated for transaction.

Crowd Attends Box Social.

A large crowd is expected to attend the pie and box social to be held Friday evening at the Ellwood school in Grant district. The Ellwood Parent-Teachers' association is sponsoring the affair and proceeds will be used to purchase books and supplies for the school.

Excuse Failed To Work

LOGAN, O.—John Helber, arrested several days ago on a charge of having mash in his home, admitted his guilt but asserted he had not been making whisky. He said he drank the mash. His fine was $300 and costs.

Make this test! End suffering from Indigestion, Pimples, Pains in Back and Sides, Constipation, Headaches and tired, run-down condition, due to Self-poisoning because of sluggish liver and clogged intestines.

Take a pleasant spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next two meals. In less than 14 hours notice quick difference in way you feel. Contains pure vegetable ingredients approved by Physicians. Helps nature cleanse and tone your liver—strengthen your digestive organs—soothe the tired and overtaxed nerves, brace up your system and purify your blood. It has helped thousands feel return of strength, vigor and energy again. You, too, must be satisfied, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's is sold and recommended by McCutcheon's Pharmacy, Chester, W. Va., and all leading druggists.

No Waste

In Tuxedo Chop the corn is crushed, and the oats are rolled. The intestinal juices can get at the food without having to break through the tough outer wall of the grain. When oats are fed straight, 15% passes through undigested.

Tuxedo chop saves this waste, because all the food elements are in such a form as to be readily digested and assimilated.

TO-DAY'S NEWS

Seethes With Interest

The arrival of our displays of merchandise for the Autumn season has transformed our store into a bazaar of unusual interest. The smart, new goods provide a vivid demonstration of the superior values to be found here, created by the extraordinary purchasing power which buying for our hundreds of busy department stores affords. A visit to our Store at this time will prove both interesting and profitable.

Smart New Fall Coats

Combining Style With Economy

When it comes to buying a new Coat you'll find our 571-Store buying power is indeed your saving power! That is the explanation for values such as these. You'll look far before you find garments as stylish or as well made as these at any such price!

All the new style features are shown, such as novelty pockets, collars and fancy sleeve effects. Colors are brown and reindeer.

Included in this showing are coats of block cut Polaire cloths with high nap. These are self collared and lined with satin de chine. Others of suede velour or block cut Polaires have collars and cuffs of Moufflon and raccoon, or are trimmed with French Coney strip fur on collars and cuffs. Fur trimmed ones are lined with fine quality imported Venetian.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CAMPAIGN OPENS WITH LEETONIA MEETING

Principal Address Delivered by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle — Lauds Protective Tariff Policy of Party.

The Republican campaign in Columbiana county opened with a meeting at Leetonia Thursday night which was well attended. From now on until the close of the campaign, political meetings will be held in every part of the county, with a "field day" the night of October 24, when about six Republican meetings will be held the same evening.

Probate Judge Lodge Riddle, who is a candidate for his second term on the judicial ticket at the November election, was the principal speaker at the Leetonia meeting.

Judge Riddle declared that because of Republican administration the people of the country should look at the future with a spirit of optimism, continued as follows:

"It seems to me that now is the time for optimism. Never before in the history of the world, or in American history, has there been such splendid opportunities for achievement, for culture, for progress, for individual advancement as at the present time in our nation.

"While many nations are now rocked with storm and stress, and facing enormous burdens of taxation, and almost bankruptcy, our nation is reducing its taxes and now stands at its highest peak of prosperity.

"No nation has ever attained the enviable position we occupy in prosperity, in intelligence and in opportunity.

"And all these things have been attained under a government dedicated to the highest ideals, and this advancement has been made under institutions established by our forefathers, under which there are boundless opportunities in reach of every man, woman, boy or girl possessing energy, ability and industry.

"We ought to be a happy and a hopeful people, we should look to the future with optimism.

"At every opporunity we ought to speak up for American institutions. We ought to spread the gospel of confidence and hopefulness. We should give more heed to those who base their hopes of the future upon our good experience of the past than to the propaganda of despair, fault-finding and destruction.

"We forget the marvelous growth, the great prosperity of our country and inexampled happiness of our people when we give too much attention to calamity howlers.

"Let us examine some of the evidences of our prosperity, and the reasons we should have continued confidence in our government.

"With 6 per cent of the world's population we consume 42 per cent of the world's entire production of coal, 53 per cent of its output of iron, 57 per cent of its steel, 44 per cent of its copper, 39 per cent of all the shoes manufactured in the world, 51 per cent of the timber used, 72 per cent of the petroleum produced, and 90 per cent of the print paper manufactured, 40 per cent of the railroad mileage of the world, and we use approximately 90 per cent of the automobiles that are manufactured in the world.

"In Ohio alone we own more automobiles than Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain and Italy combined.

"This marvelous prosperity is made possible by the form of government and the institutions under which we live and which so many people seem to want to change.

"One of the institutions under which this nation has been guided through the storm and stress of its history, and over and past the rocks of adversity is the supreme court of the United States and the judicial system of the country.

"One of the co-ordinate branches of the government it has stood as a bulwark for the liberties of the people. It has at all times been the institution to which the minority could appeal against the tyranny of the majority.

"In its early history it was severely criticised because it did not declare certain enactments of congress unconstitutional, lately it has been criticised because it has declared some enactments of congress unconstitutional, 14 of those laws infringed upon the authority of the supreme court itself and 34 of those acts infringed individual rights guaranteed by the bill of rights.

"You will agree with me, considering the thousands upon thousands of laws that have been enacted by congress, that the supreme court has been very sparing of its right to declare acts of congress void, and that the third party makes a statement unwarranted by the facts when in its platform it says, 'it is essential that the constitution shall give congress the right to override such judicial veto, otherwise the court will make itself master over the other co-ordinate branches of the government.'

"You realize that when this same third party proposes an amendment to the constitution, giving congress the power by re-enactment to make a statute effective over a judicial decision, finding it unconstitutional it must have in view the passage of some laws, now clearly unconstitutional.

"If such an amendment could be passed it would place all power in the congress, contrary to the intention of the makers of the constitution who wove and shaped the fabric of the constitution to fit human nature and conditions as near as human achievement could make it.

"They made the courts a co-ordinate branch of the government so the executive could not be a tyrant, and so a mere temporary majority in congress could not be a tyrant.

"They devised a system of government making it difficult for majorities to put through any violent changes without mature deliberation, so that a mere tempofary majority could not caprice and temporary public clamor make drastic changes in the principles of this nation.

"Another institution, and I call it an institution, because it has done so much for our country, is the protective tariff, favored and sponsored by the Republican party, under which this nation has lived during the greater part of its existence. There never was a time when the protective tariff was not assailed by its enemies, as a robber, as placing unnecessary burdens upon the people for the benefit of a few. And there never was a time when a tariff for revenue only had been tried or when we had so-called free trade but that the people were glad, anxious to return to the protective system.

"It has been the means of building up the greatest pottery industry of the world within our own country. It has been the foundation for our blast furnaces, our steel mills and for all the great manufacturing plants that we have.

"We must remember that revenue must be provided for the government.

"A tariff is one of the ways of raising revenue with which to pay the cost of government. If at the same time we raise the revenue we protect our industries and give employment to men and women, we are accomplishing two results.

"Exaggerated and unwarranted claims are made by the enemies of the protective tariff, that it increases the cost of living. Let's admit that the prices of some articles may be increased by reason of the tariff, and at the same time let us realize that it keeps our money at home, it furnishes employment and there is much more money with which to buy things."

Mrs. Ila Cronin, of East Liverpool, in her talk, stressed the importance of people voting, and urged that every one entitled to cast a ballot go to the polls at the November election.

The meeting was opened by Chairman David Rankin. A large crowd filled the Knights of Pythias hall. After Judge Riddle concluded his address, a number of Republican candidates who were present were introduced by the speaker.

CITIZENS CALLED FOR JURY SERVICE

The following names have been withdrawn from the jury wheel and summons will be served, which will compel the new jurors to report Monday next. They are: James C. Duffy and Samuel C. Whittenberger, East Liverpool; J. B. Lehman, Columbiana; Howard Harris, Salem; Beulah Larkins and Lillie Smith, Salineville; Howard Cattell, R. F. D., Beloit; Jester Redfoot, Leetonia; Henry Burnett, Lisbon.

TWO COURTS WILL HEAR CASES HERE

There will be two sessions of common pleas court operating the week of October 20, and the "double" court will continue for two weeks.

Judge Charles S. Turnbaugh, of Cambridge, Guernsey county, has been assigned by the state supreme court to assist Judge James G. Moore during this period.

This is the first time that a twin court has been in session in Columbiana county since Judge Carl Smith, of Steubenville, was on the bench last spring.

BAYARD GRANGE PLANS MEETING

Two meetings have been arranged by the members of Bayard grange for next week. On Tuesday evening Fairmount grange will be entertained by Bayard grange, and on the following Saturday, Pomona grange will meet with Bayard grange for an all-day session.

This is the first time that the county Pomona grange has gone outside of the county to hold its quarterly meeting.

The joint meeting of Bayard grange and Pomona will be held in the Minerva Presbyterian church. William Morris, lecturer for Pomona grange will complete his program for this joint meeting within the next few days.

Goes To Penitentiary

Charles Anderson, indicted for robbery and who pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob, was taken to the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus Friday morning, where he was sentenced to a term of from two to 15 years.

Earl Hoffman, of Leetonia, who was also given a sentence to the penitentiary on a charge of burglary, was also taken to Columbus.

Three boys were sentenced to the industrial school at Lancaster were taken away Friday morning.

H. C. LEONARD WILL HEAD SEAL DRIVE

County Superintendent of Schools H. C. Leonard has been selected as chairman for the county Christmas health seal drive for all districts outside of the cities of Salem, East Liverpool and Wellsville, where this work will be in charge of local organization.

Last year the sale of these seals showed an increase in the county districts over that of 1922, and it is proposed that the record be exceeded this season through the inauguration of a more intensified campaign.

As before, the rural schools will be organized and made a part of the township units.

Attorney Charles S. Speaker is president of the county organization, while Attorney George Lafferty is secretary.

AWAIT RESULTS OF STATE TESTS

The Leetonia-Lisbon road may be opened within two weeks, perhaps sooner, should the state highway department put its approval upon the samples of concrete mix from this road, which were sent to the department while construction was in progress.

About 200 feet of concrete is all of the road that is now "green" as the balance of the length of the road has been "set" for a longer period than three weeks.

"It is our intent to open this road just as soon as possible, and if we can do it next week, it will be quickly announced," County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk announced Friday.

The road was widened in Salem township fine north to the Leetonia cemetery, a seven foot width of concrete being added to the brick road.

Licensed to Wed.

A marriage license has been issued to C. F. Zellers, of New Waterford, and Viola Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Berry, of Rogers. They are to be married by the Rev. Ball.

How Skinny Kids Can Grow Robust

Weak, undernourished, underweight boys and girls who are peevish, fretful and sickly need McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

Cod Liver Oil would do just as well, but what parent would be so cruel as to give them the horrible nasty tasting, ill-smelling stuff, when sugar coated cod liver oil tablets made by McCoy's Laboratories of New York are as easy to take as candy and won't upset their delicate stomachs.

There's more vitamines of the first class in cod liver oil than in anything else and for that reason thin, scraggly, sickly children commence to liven up and take on good healthy flesh after McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets have been taken for just a few days.

"The listless, backward boy needs McCoy's"

Be sure and ask Anderson, Larkin, Carnahan and Mathews' Medicine Store, or any good druggist for McCoys, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet, if you want your delicate children to become strong, robust and active.

For grown-ups they are just as wonderful—one woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, 60 tablets 60 cents and if they don't put 5 pounds of good firm flesh on any thin man or woman in 30 days get your money back.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CAMPAIGN OPENS WITH LEETONIA MEETING

Principal Address Delivered by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle — Lauds Protective Tariff Policy of Party.

The Republicam campaign in Columbiana county opened with a meeting at Leetonia Thursday night which was well attended. From now on until the close of the campaign, political meetings will be held in every part of the county, with a "field day" the night of October 24, when about six Republican meetings will be held the same evening.

Probate Judge Lodge Riddle, who is a candidate for his second term on the judicial ticket at the November election, was the principal speaker at the Leetonia meeting.

Judge Riddle declared that because of Republican administration the people of the country should look at the future with a spirit of optimism, continued as follows:

"It seems to me that now is the time for optimism. Never before in the history of the world, or in American history, has there been such splendid opportunities for achievement, for culture, for progress, for individual advancement as at the present time in our nation.

"While many nations are now rocked with storm and stress, and facing enormous burdens of taxation, and almost bankruptcy, our nation is reducing its taxes and now stands at its highest peak of prosperity.

"No nation has ever attained the enviable position we occupy in prosperity, in intelligence and in opportunity.

"And all these things have been attained under a government dedicated to the highest ideals, and this advancement has been made under institutions established by our forefathers, under which there are boundless opportunities in reach of every man, woman, boy or girl possessing energy, ability and industry.

"We ought to be a happy and a hopeful people, we should look to the future with optimism.

"At every opporunity we ought to speak up for American institutions. We ought to spread the gospel of confidence and hopefulness. We should give more heed to those who base their hopes of the future upon our good experience of the past than to the propaganda of despair, fault-finding and destruction.

"We forget the marvelous growth, the great prosperity of our country and inexampled happiness of our people when we give too much attention to calamity howlers.

"Let us examine some of the evidences of our prosperity, and the reasons we should have continued confidence in our government.

"With 6 per cent of the world's population we consume 42 per cent of the world's entire production of coal, 53 per cent of its output of iron, 57 per cent of its steel, 44 per cent of its copper, 39 per cent of all the shoes manufactured in the world, 51 per cent of the timber used, 72 per cent of the petroleum produced, and 90 per cent of the print paper manufactured, 40 per cent of the railroad mileage of the world, and we use approximately 90 per cent of the automobiles that are manufactured in the world.

"In Ohio alone we own more automobiles than Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain and Italy combined.

"This marvelous prosperity is made possible by the form of government and the institutions under which we live and which so many people seem to want to change.

"One of the institutions under which this nation has been guided through the storm and stress of its history, and over and past the rocks of adversity is the supreme court of the United States and the judicial system of the country.

"One of the co-ordingte branches of the government it has stood as a bulwark for the liberties of the people. It has at all times been the institution to which the minority could appeal against the tyranny of the majority.

"In its early history it was severely criticised because it did not declare certain enactments of congress unconstitutional, lately it has been criticised because it has declared some enactments of congress unconstitutional, 14 of those laws infringed upon the authority of the supreme court itself and 34 of those acts infringed individual rights guaranteed by the bill of rights.

"You will agree with me, considering the thousands upon thousands of laws that have been enacted by congress, that the supreme court has been very sparing of its right to declare acts of congress void, and that the third party makes a statement unwarranted by the facts when in its platform it says, 'It is essential that the constitution shall give congress the right to override such judicial veto, otherwise the court will make itself master over the other co-ordinate branches of the government.'

"You realize that when this same third party proposes an amendment to the constitution, giving congress the power by re-enactment to make a statute effective over a judicial decision, finding it unconstitutional it must have in view the passage of some laws, now clearly unconstitutional.

"If such an amendment could be passed it would place all power in the congress, contrary to the intention of the makers of the constitution who wove and shaped the fabric of the constitution to fit human nature and conditions as near as human achievemenf could make it.

"They made the courts a co-ordinate branch of the government so the executive could not be a tyrant, and so a mere temporary majority in congress could not be a tyrant.

"They devised a system of government making it difficult for majorities to put through any violent changes without mature deliberation, so that a mere temporary majority could not caprice and temporary public clamor make drastic changes in the principles of this nation.

"Another institution, and I call it an institution, because it has done so much for our country, is the protective tariff, favored and sponsored by the Republican party, under which this nation has lived during the greater part of its existence. There never was a time when the protective tariff was not assailed by its enemies, as a robber, as placing unnecessary burdens upon the people for the benefit of a few. And there never was a time when a tariff for revenue only had been tried or when we had so-called free trade but that the people were glad, anxious to return to the protective system.

"It has been the means of building up the greatest pottery industry of the world within our own country. It has been the foundation for our blast furnaces, our steel mills and for all the great manufacturing plants that we have.

"We must remember that revenue must be provided for the government.

"A tariff is one of the ways of raising revenue with which to pay the cost of government. If at the same time we raise the revenue we protect our industries and give employment to men and women, we are accomplishing two results.

"Exaggerated and unwarranted claims are made by the enemies of the protective tariff, that it increases the cost of living. Let's admit that the prices of some articles may be increased by reason of the tariff, and at the same time let us realize that it keeps our money at home, it furnishes employment and there is much more money with which to buy things."

Mrs. Ila Cronin, of East Liverpool, in her talk, stressed the importance of people voting, and urged that every one entitled to cast a ballot go to the polls at the November election.

The meeting was opened by Chairman David Rankin. A large crowd filled the Knights of Pythias hall. After Judge Riddle concluded his address, a number of Republican candidates who were present were introduced by the speaker.

AWAIT RESULTS OF STATE TESTS

The Leetonia-Lisbon road may be opened within two weeks, perhaps sooner, should the state highway department put its approval upon the samples of concrete mix from this road, which were sent to the department while construction was in progress.

About 200 feet of concrete is all of the road that is now "green" as the balance of the length of the road has been "set" for a longer period than three weeks.

"It is our intent to open this road just as soon as possible, and if we can do it next week, it will be quickly announced," County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk announced Friday.

The road was widened in Salem township from the Centre-Salem township line north to the Leetonia cemetery, a seven foot width of concrete being added to the brick road.

How Skinny Kids Can Grow Robust

Weak, undernourished, underweight boys and girls who are peevish, fretful and sickly need McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

Cod Liver Oil would do just as well, but what parent would be so cruel as to give them the horrible nasty tasting, ill-smelling stuff, when sugar coated cod liver oil tablets made by McCoy's Laboratories of New York are as easy to take as candy and won't upset their delicate stomachs.

There's more vitamines of the finest class in cod liver oil than in anything else and for that reason thin, scraggly, sickly children commence to liven up and take on good healthy flesh after McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets have been taken for just a few days.

"The listless, backward boy needs McCoy's"

Be sure and ask Anderson, Larkin, Carnahan and Mathews' Medicine Store, or any good druggist for McCoys, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet, if you want your delicate children to become strong, robust and active.

For grown-ups they are just as wonderful—one woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, 60 tablets 60 cents and if they don't put 5 pounds of good firm flesh on any thin man or woman in 30 days get your money back.

Musical Comedy Successes Coming to Ceramic.

English folks who wonder if we are still running Niagara Falls or have turned them off and Americans who think there are but two kinds of Englishmen—those who drink tea all day and those who serve it to them—are all amusingly presented in "So This is London" the George M. Cohan Comedy masterpiece which the Chicago Stock Company will elaborately produce at the Ceramic next Monday evening as the opening play of their week's engagement.

We have the compensation however, of laughing at our stupid English friends, and there is a fair stand-off and a 50-50 division of the ridicule because they can also laugh at us.

The three scenes of the play are all laid in London at the Ritz, Sir Percy Beauchamp's living room and Lady Duckworth's drawing room. British stolidity and conversation are contrasted with American vivacity, enterprise and slang. At the end there is a union of the second generation of the two leading characters and the combination of their parents for the future of the wholesale shoe business.

You are guaranteed at least one laugh every minute at "So This Is London." This is going to be one of the greatest comedy offerings ever offered in East Liverpool. Seats on sale Saturday, 9 a. m.

Solitude of Indian Reservation Sought By Machine Petters

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Driven hither and thither from byway to highway by persistent patrolmen, Cupid has been having a trying time in managing the affairs of automobile petters. Even the most remote back roads available for motor cars have failed to offer protection from interruption by people in the neighborhoods of the noisy officers; but petters today have found a haven of refuge, where love's young dream may be free from such annoyance — the Onondaga Indian Reservation.

Here the white suiter and his maid may find shelter to bill and coo, but there is a question. Sheriff Isaac C. Davis is looking into the law to find out whether his men and the troopers have jurisdiction over love-making within the boundaries of the Indian lands, or whether it is up to the red men.

Cocoanuts from the Philippines

IN ALL the southlands there are no cocoanuts grown that can compare with those from our own Philippines.

In this climate, which varies but little throughout the year, cocoanuts grow to an ideal size, to be sweeter, more appetizing and nourishing than in any other spot on earth.

It is from cocoanuts grown on these isles that one of the nourishing foods in Kingnut is obtained.

Kingnut is made from three pure foods—cocoanuts from our Philippines, peanuts from the Sunny South and milk from our finest farms.

SYRACUSE GIRL IS WINNER IN ART, BUT CHIEF RIVAL CLAIMS HER AS BRIDE

Romance Marks Contest With Brush and Palette in Which Rollon F. Thurlow and Helen V. Palmer are Principals.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—She won the prize, but he won her.

And today they're married.

That, briefly, is the story of two young artists Rollon F. Thurlow and Helen V. Palmer—the story of their rivalry with the brush and pelette and the romance that ends it.

Two years ago, students in the College of Fine Arts, Syracuse University, were invited to participate in a poster contest, the winning design to be accepted as the official poster for Spring Display Week.

When the judges completed the elimination from the fifty drawings and paintings submitted, they found themselves deadlocked over two paintings—one by Thurlow, the other by Miss Palmer. The latter was finally selected, and Thurlow's was given second place.

What the judges did not know was that Thurlow and Miss Palmer had been friends from the beginning of their high school days, that they had studied their art work in the same classrooms, under the same instructors. But it was rumored that they were engaged, and reporters interviewed them. They smilingly denied it.

Thurlow went abroad and studied. His work won him considerable praise. He returned to America and established himself in New York, where he continued his success. He made several magazine covers and became fairly well established in the art colony.

Then, a few weeks ago, he returned to Syracuse, and the marriage license clerk at the City Hall handed one of his precious documents across the desk to Thurlow and Miss Palmer.

Foreign-born citizens take more interest in voting than native-born Americans, according to figures of the presidential elections of 1920.

SHE HOPES FOR COMPLETE RELIEF

Lisbon lady is feeling full of pep now since taking only 1 bottle and hopes for complete relief from "VENDOL."

"If the Vendol I'm getting does as much good as the first I got for my wife she'll soon be an entirely new woman," enthusiastically stated Mr. Wm. Blankenship, living at Lisbon, O., R. D. No. 2, a well known farmer to the Vendol Specialist when replenishing his supply at Mathews' Medicine Store.

"Vendol has practically completely relieved her stomach of gas and sourness and she can eat anything now without distress. The pains in her back have disappeared and her liver has been fixed up which overcame the dizziness, bad breath and foul taste in her mouth. She's sleeping fine now, her bowels move regularly and she's full of pep.

"My wife also had quite a cough but it is not nearly so bad now that she started taking Vendol."

By strengthening the liver, kidneys, stomach and moving the bowels to action Vendol promptly relieved the complaints mentioned above and also rheumatism, catarrh, impure blood, headaches, nervousness and female weaknesses. Try it just one week and note the remarkable change in your feelings.

The Vendol Specialist at Mathews' Medicine Store says: "No one should confuse Vendol with any other medicine they have taken for this new tonic discovery will prove different. I want everyone to call on me and hear the merits of this great remedy."

"I didn't know there was a market of this kind in the city," was what a lady told us the other day.

Everybody don't read the ads, but the people who do tell their neighbors and friends and that's what helps to make advertising pay.

Moral: If you learn of a good thing, tell your neighbors and friends.

We now have fine eating and cooking apples. Also Grapes, Plums, Quinces, Peaches and Southern Fruits. Sweet Corn, Tomatoes, Cabbage, Carrots, Turnips, Beets, Onions, Parsnips, Sweet Potatoes. Also home grown Potatoes, and all kinds of vegetables in season.

We will have country dressed chicken for Saturday, Butter, Eggs, Cheese and Bacon. Come in and look around.

SYRACUSE GIRL IS WINNER IN ART, BUT CHIEF RIVAL CLAIMS HER AS BRIDE

Romance Marks Contest With Brush and Palette in Which Rollon F. Thurlow and Helen V. Palmer are Principals.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—She won the prize, but he won her.

And today they're married.

That, briefly, is the story of two young artists Rollon F. Thurlow and Helen V. Palmer—the story of their rivalry with the brush and pelette and the romance that ends it.

Two years ago, students in the College of Fine Arts, Syracuse University, were invited to participate in a poster contest, the winning design to be accepted as the official poster for Spring Display Week.

When the judges completed the elimination from the fifty drawings and paintings submitted, they found themselves deadlocked over two paintings—one by Thurlow, the other by Miss Palmer. The latter was finally selected, and Thurlow's was given second place.

What the judges did not know was that Thurlow and Miss Palmer had been friends from the beginning of their high school days, that they had studied their art work in the same classrooms, under the same instructors. But it was rumored that they were engaged, and reporters interviewed them. They smilingly denied it.

Thurlow went abroad and studied. His work won him considerable praise. He returned to America and established himself in New York, where he continued his success. He made several magazine covers and became fairly well established in the art colony.

Then, a few weeks ago, he returned to Syracuse, and the marriage license clerk at the City Hall handed one of his precious documents across the desk to Thurlow and Miss Palmer.

Foreign-born citizens take more interest in voting than native-born Americans, according to figures of the presidential elections of 1920.

SHE HOPES FOR COMPLETE RELIEF

Lisbon lady is feeling full of pep now since taking only 1 bottle and hopes for complete relief from "VENDOL."

"If the Vendol I'm getting does as much good as the first I got for my wife she'll soon be an entirely new woman," enthusiastically stated Mr. Wm. Blankenship, living at Lisbon, O., R. D. No. 2, a well known farmer to the Vendol Specialist when replenishing his supply at Mathews' Medicine Store.

"Vendol has practically completely relieved her stomach of gas and sourness and she can eat anything now without distress. The pains in her back have disappeared and her liver has been fixed up which overcame the dizziness, bad breath and foul taste in her mouth. She's sleeping fine now, her bowels move regularly and she's full of pep.

"My wife also had quite a cough but it is not nearly so bad now that she started taking Vendol."

By strengthening the liver, kidneys, stomach and moving the bowels to action Vendol promptly relieved the complaints mentioned above and also rheumatism, catarrh, impure blood, headaches, nervousness and female weaknesses. Try it just one week and note the remarkable change in your feelings.

The Vendol Specialist at Mathews' Medicine Store says: "No one should confuse Vendol with any other medicine they have taken for this new tonic discovery will prove different. I want everyone to call on me and hear the merits of this great remedy."

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

A BRIDE'S MOTHER.

Mrs. Thompson: I am 23 years and have been married a year. My husband is good to me in some ways but he is awfully quick tempered and when he is angry he doesn't respect me at all. He doesn't care how he curses in my presence or how vulgar he talks. I can't stand to hear any one talk that way because I have been raised to be refined and mannerly. If some of his relations see me on the street or anywhere and I don't see them they say I am stuck up and don't care to speak to them. Nearly every morning I have quite a time waking him and if breakfast doesn't suit him he fusses. I get breakfast and if he doesn't want to get up when I call him several times I eat alone. If breakfast isn't warm when he gets up he is angry at me and fusses with me. I feel as if he can get up as well as I can. He also makes remarks about my cooking, always comparing it with his mother's. I do my best and I think he should remember that everybody has a different way of cooking. I have a good home to go to and a dear mother and father and I am always welcome to come if I am not treated right by my husband. But mother always tells me that I should do my part. Would you advise me to leave him? I have tried to talk to him about these things but I don't get much of an answer. One time he promised to be different but it didn't last very long. Sometimes he will say I should't make him angry and that is why he is that way. I know I have faults but I would feel differently toward him if he wouldn't talk the way he does for he certainly hurts my feelings and I am getting so dissatisfied that I don't have very much love for him. He is also jealous of me and he thinks I should tell him every time I go away. I feel I give him no reason on earth to be jealous only that I speak to my friends in a friendly way. I know I am able to take care of myself and I know what a married woman should not do.

UNHAPPY.

It would do you worlds of good to go home for a visit. After two or there weeks away from your husband you would probably return to him eagerly with the feeling that you love him for the good things about him and can make the best of his failings. Have patience with him and try to explain the things you do so that he will not suffer from jealousy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 18 years of age. My sister, six years my senior, and I have kept home for father since my mother left us six sad long years ago. My sister wants to be boss in everything, even to bossing father. When I was young I did not miss going away and having fine clothes, but now that I am older I too would like a new dress now and then, and I would like to go away once in a while, not to jazz music, bright lights and dance halls, but to church and a few home town doings. Because I am younger she thinks I should have nothing. She tells things about me which are not true, and she will do anything to make trouble for me. Father has not paid either one of us wages and never will. I want to work away where I can decide about my own clothes and finish my education. How can I go without running away or without a grouch? My sister does not want to work away. For that reason she doesn't think I ought to either. I have had heart to heart talks with her and they have been of no use. I had a neighbor tell her if father died we would have nothing. I must look out for my future while young and will not make a cent at home. My pillow is like thorns trying to solve my problem. I am not afraid to work in a kitchen and think a girl can go straight if she wants to anywhere. I can't be as mean to my sister as she is to me, or talk and make trouble between people. SAD SALLY MAE.

You are entirely right in feeling that you must be independent and if you cannot live at home and work you would be justified in leaving hom. If possible I would suggest that you obtain office work and continue to live at home. If that is impossible you might turn to house work and at the same time take a business course. To go on living under conditions which make you so unhappy and so dependent would be a great mistake.

The Girl Who Sinned-to Save

Has every woman her price? When the life of a loved one is at stake, is there a degree of desperation, that over-rides every instinct of honor in a woman's soul?

In the November issue of True Story Magazine is the story of a girl who faced that tragic problem. Her bitter fight against the cruel conditions that threatened to destroy her soul—and her final triumph is one of the most heart-stirring, powerfully dramatic true-life stories ever told. It is entitled "A Modern Magdalen," and is only one of the great features in the November issue of True Story Magazine.

When I was young I did not miss going away and having fine clothes, but now that I am older I too would like a new dress now and then, and I would like to go away once in a while, not to jazz music, bright lights and dance halls, but to church and a few home town doings. Because I am younger she thinks I should have nothing. She tells things about me which are not true, and she will do anything to make trouble for me. Father has not paid either one of us wages and never will. I want to work away where I can decide about my own clothes and finish my education. How can I go without running away or without a grouch? My sister does not want to work away. For that reason she doesn't think I ought to either. I have had heart to heart talks with her and they have been of no use. I had a neighbor tell her if father died we would have nothing. I must look out for my future while young and will not make a cent at home. My pillow is like thorns trying to solve my problem. I am not afraid to work in a kitchen and think a girl can go straight if she wants to anywhere. I can't be as mean to my sister as she is to me, or talk and make trouble between people.

SAD SALLY MAE.

You are entirely right in feeling that you must be independent and if you cannot live at home and work you would be justified in leaving hom. If possible I would suggest that you obtain office work and continue to live at home. If that is impossible you might turn to house work and at the same time take a business course. To go on living under conditions which make you so unhappy and so dependent would be a great mistake.

The Girl Who Sinned-to Save

Has every woman her price? When the life of a loved one is at stake, is there a degree of desperation, that over-rides every instinct of honor in a woman's soul?

In the November issue of True Story Magazine is the story of a girl who faced that tragic problem. Her bitter fight against the cruel conditions that threatened to destroy her soul—and her final triumph is one of the most heart-stirring, powerfully dramatic true-life stories ever told. It is entitled "A Modern Magdalen," and is only one of the great features in the November issue of True Story Magazine.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
By MRS. HORTON

Braised Tongue — Cook fresh tongue slowly for two hours or more; skin and remove roots. Place in casserole and surround with one-third cup each diced carrot, onion and celery and a sprig of parsley. Add sauce, cover closely and bake two hours, turning once. Serve on platter with strained sauce. For sauce brown four tablespoons butter or beef fat and four tablespoons flour. Add gradually two and one-half cups liquor in which tongue was cooked and two cups stewed tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper and one teaspoon Worcester sauce. If tomato flavor is not liked, use four cups tongue liquor.

Molded Egg Salad — Chop five hard-boiled eggs — or put through ricer. Season with salt and pepper. Cream two tablespoons butter in this and press into ginger ale glasses. Place in ice chest for at least six hours. Remove from molds and slice about one inch thick. Place a few rings on lettuce on each salad plate, and serve with a little mayonnaise.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Creamed Eggs — Break eggs into deep platter, buttered, or shallow baking dish. Pour over them cream to cover, dot with butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake in slow oven until eggs are firm.

INHERITS ESTATE OF MAN HE SENT TO FIRING SQUAD

It has just become known that Kevin O'Higgins (above) is the chief beneficiary in the will of Rory O'Connor (below), whose death warrant he signed. Long bosom pals, they remained friends even after O'Higgins became home minister in the Irish Free State cabinet, and O'Connor a rebel leader. When O'Connor was captured, he was sentenced to death, and O'Higgins felt himself compelled to send to the firing squad the best friend he had in the world.

Corn Fritters — One cup green corn, two eggs, four tablespoons milk, four tablespoons melted butter, two teaspoons baking powder, five tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt. Cook like pancakes, using plenty of fat to prevent sticking.

Black Salad Set

Among the new salad sets is one of heavy china painted black, with rim and center decorated with hand painted flowers. Red predominates in the color scheme. The greens of salads are particularly attractive against a black background. A wooden salad spoon and fork should be used with the set to get the most artistic effect.

Rather than scrub linoleum with strong soaps and washing powders, use clear water and a soft cloth or mop. If the housewife feels that soap is necessary, use a mild soap. Linoleum may be waxed as a floor is waxed, the finished result giving great satisfaction, as this waxing fills up the pores of linoleum, causing it to resist soil.

Prison Cells To Have Radio Loud Speakers

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. Oct. 1.—Inmates of the state prison here have become avowed radio fans.

Prison officials recently installed a radio set in the recreation yard for the entertainment of the inmates after they had completed their day's work.

But the Winter months are approaching, and the prisoners soon will not be able to gather around the radio set in the recreation yard to listen to air concerts, speeches and news reports.

So prison officials are planning to install a loud speaker in each cell of the prison.

The prison radio set is one of the most up-to-date available, a five-tube neutrodyne.

ALL-BRAN is a necessity!

When constipation is ripping the health out of your body, you can't afford to temporize! For health's sake—DON'T—when Kellogg's, because it is ALL BRAN, is guaranteed to give you positive, permanent relief!

Know the truth about bran! To be efficacious, to give you sought-for relief, bran must be ALL BRAN! Foods with a part bran content cannot be considered as a relief for constipation sufferers! These foods do not have the bulk or "roughage" to drive out the conditions that are undermining your health!

What you need for 100 per cent relief is 100 per cent bran, and that is what you get when you buy Kellogg's—IT IS ALL BRAN! And it is 100 per cent efficient, as your physician will tell you!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, all cooked, krumbled and ready to eat, is delicious as a cereal or used in baking and cooking. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily, or as much with each meal in chronic cases—and rid yourself of constipation and the toxic poisons that lead to many of the most dreaded human ailments!

Remember—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to give you 100 per cent relief! DON'T GO HALF-WAY! All grocers.

HOW TO END BLADDER TROUBLE

Remarkable results in quickly clearing up long-standing cases of bladder trouble and weak kidneys are being obtained with a valuable oil that has been known for many years, but has only recently been put up in easy-to-take, tasteless, capsule form. Too frequent or painful urination, backaches, tired feeling, headaches, indigestion, insomnia, rheumatic twinges, etc., disappear almost overnight when the real cause is removed.

This remarkable remedy is known as Haarlem Oil, and was originally compounded by a famous Holland chemist. It goes direct to the overworked and congested kidneys and bladder, and tones them up and restores them to normal working order often in 24 hours. But be sure you get the genuine RED MILL Haarlem Oil, imported direct from Holland and put up in tasteless capsules. Costs only 50c, and sold under an absolute money-back guarantee. Ask these druggists: C. G. Anderson, J. C. Carnahan, Gambles Drug Store.

Rare Trunk Hose In Metropolitan Museum of Art

NEW YORK—One of only three sets of slashed trunk hose, worn by the well-dressed dandy of 325 years ago, now is the property of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and has been placed on display in this city. It was discovered in an old castle in the Carpathian Mountains by Dr. Bashford Dean, curator of the museum, who urged its owner to present it to the museum.

The garment, a gorgeous affair, is made shirt-like, slit into many parts, extending from the waist nearly to the knees and gathered back again at the waist. The figure on which it is draped wears, above the garment, a pourpoint, or jacket, covered with lace and frills—quite the thing in Shakespeare's day.

Dr. Dean, explaining his discovery of the trunk hose, said he was admiring a picture in an old gallery, paying particular attention to the trunk hose and was asked by his guide if he did not consider the painting an excellent family likeness. He explained that it was the trunk hose he was admiring and impressed on the castle's owner the value of such a garment as a relic.

The host immediately declared he had seen the very garment often—had, in fact, played with it when a child. It had become misplaced, but was located without great difficulty and presented to Dr. Dean.

Busses Still Operating.

COLUMBUS.—Virtually every motor bus line that was in operation in Ohio April 28, 1923, when the Freeman-Collister motor bus law went into effect, has applied to the state utilities commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity, according to the Ohio Motor Bus Owners' association. Those lines in operation before the law was enacted were required merely to file an affidavit to continue operation, but lines starting since April 23, were obliged to make formal application.

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

HOW TO END BLADDER TROUBLE

Remarkable results in quickly clearing up long-standing cases of bladder trouble and weak kidneys are being obtained with a valuable oil that has been known for many years, but was only recently been put up in easy-to-take, tasteless, capsule form. Too frequent or painful urination, backaches, tired feeling, headaches, indigestion, insomnia, rheumatic twinges, etc., disappear almost overnight when the real cause is removed.

This remarkable remedy is known as Haarlem Oil, and was originally compounded by a famous Holland chemist. It goes direct to the overworked and congested kidneys and bladder, and tones them up and restores them to normal working order often in 24 hours. But be sure you get the genuine RED MILL Haarlem Oil, imported direct from Holland and put up in tasteless capsules. Costs only 50c, and sold under an absolute money-back guarantee. Ask these druggists: C. G. Anderson, J. C. Carnahan, Gambles Drug Store.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

Judith shrugged her shoulders as though it did not in the least matter to her.

"I'm giving it for Marcia," she said. "Do you think it would be quite nice to her to stay away? I am afraid that she will be hurt."

Not Judith's words, but the look in her eyes changed Lee's intentions.

"If it's for Miss Langworthy," he said quietly, "I'll come."

The day came and Bud Lee began to regret that he had given his promise to go to Marcia's dance. All day he was taciturn, aloof, avoiding not only the visitors from Rocky Bend and the other ranches, but his own fellows as well. He took no part in the races, was missing when the blazing trenches and smell of broiling meat told that the barbecue was in progress. He worked with his horses as he had worked yesterday, as he would work tomorrow. With the dusk he went, not to the men's quarters, but to the old cabin at the Upper End.

Again and again that day he had thought of that look in Judith's eyes when she had asked him to come for Marcia's sake. What the devil did she mean by it? He didn't know exactly, but he did know that in its own vague way it irritated him. Her eyes had laughed at him, they had teased, they had told him that Judith herself wasn't wasting a single thought upon Mr. Bud Lee, but that she had noticed his obvious interest in Miss Langworthy.

"D—n it," muttered Lee. "I won't go."

But he had said he would go, and in little things as in big ones he was scrupulous. He would go, just to dance with Marcia and show Miss Judith a thing or two. He felt unreasonably like taking Miss Judith across his knee and spanking her. And he did have a curiosity to see just what Judith would look like in a real party dress.

"Pool little wild Indian," he grumbled. She's got the making of a wonder in her, and she doesn't even know it. What's worse, doesn't care."

He sat with a dead cigarette between his fingers, staring at the wind-blown flame of his coal-oil lamp. Judith was doing this as she did everything that she set her two hands on, thoroughly and with her whole heart and soul. In that lay the key to her character. There was no half-way with her. When she gave, it was open-heartedly, with no reservation; where she loved or hated, it was unreservedly; if she gave a dance it would be a dance for the countryside to remember.

Yesterday Hampton had wondered, grinning, what he'd look like in a dress-suit again. Hadn't had a thing on here of late but his war togs. Whereby he called attention to his turned-up overalls, soft shirt, battered hat, and flapping vest with the tobacco-tag hanging out.

Bud Lee turned down the wick of his lamp, which had been smoking, and sat staring at it another five minutes. "By thunder," he said softly to himself, "I'll do it."

He shoved the bunk away from its place in the corner, opened a trap-door in the floor and, lamp in hand, went down into the cabin's cellar. Here was a long pine box, hooped with tin bands for shipping, its lid securely nailed on. He set down his lamp and with shirt-sleeve wiped off some of the accumulation of dust and spider-web. A card with the words, "David Burrill Lee, Rocky Bend," tacked to it made its appearance. Lee shook his head and attacked the lid.

It was a box of odds and ends. Clothing, a few books, a pack of photographs, an ornate bridle, a pair of gold-chased spurs, a couple of hats, gloves, no end of the varied articles which might have gone hastily into such a receptacle as this from the hurried packing in a bachelor's apartments. Bud Lee, with a dress-suit and the articles it demands, even to a tie and dancing shoes, went back into the room above.

"Like Hampton," he mused, looking at the things in his hands, "I wonder what it'll feel like to get back into these! I'm a fool." He laughed shortly and set to work to improvise a flatiron to take the worst wrinkles out of the cloth. "Once a fool, always a fool. You can't get away from it."

It was settled. He was going to Marcia's party. He insisted upon calling it in his mind, "Marcia's party." And he was wondering, as he shaved, how Judith was going to look.

As Bud Lee came through the lilacs into the courtyard, he heard the tinkle of a distant piano and the tremolo of a violin, so faint as hardly to be distinguished above the splash and gurgle of the fountains. The court, bathed in soft light, seemed a corner of fairyland, the music vanishing erfin strains to some mischievous troop putting sighs and love dreams into a sleeping maid's breast. The night was rich with stars, warm with summer, serene with the peace of the mountains. He was late. They were already dancing within.

He stood a moment, looking in at the outer edge of the flood of light which gushed through the wide doors. Behind him Japanese lanterns hanging from a vine-covered trellis; before him flowers, bright chandeliers, girls' dresses like fluttering, many-colored, diaphanous butterfly wings. He had been saying to himself: "I must hurry if I want to dance with Marcia." And something stirring restlessly within him shoved aside the thought of Marcia and put in its stead the old wonder: "What sort of a Judith would he see tonight?"

He found it difficult to form any picture of her here, among these gay, inconsequent merry-makers. Judith to him spelled a girl upon a horse, booted, spurred, with a scarf about her neck fluttering wildly behind her as she rode, the superb, splendid figure of a girl of the out-of-doors, alive with the hot pioneer blood which had been her rich inheritance, a sort of wonderful boy-girl. Remove her flapping hat, her boots and spurs and riding-suit, and what was left of Judith?

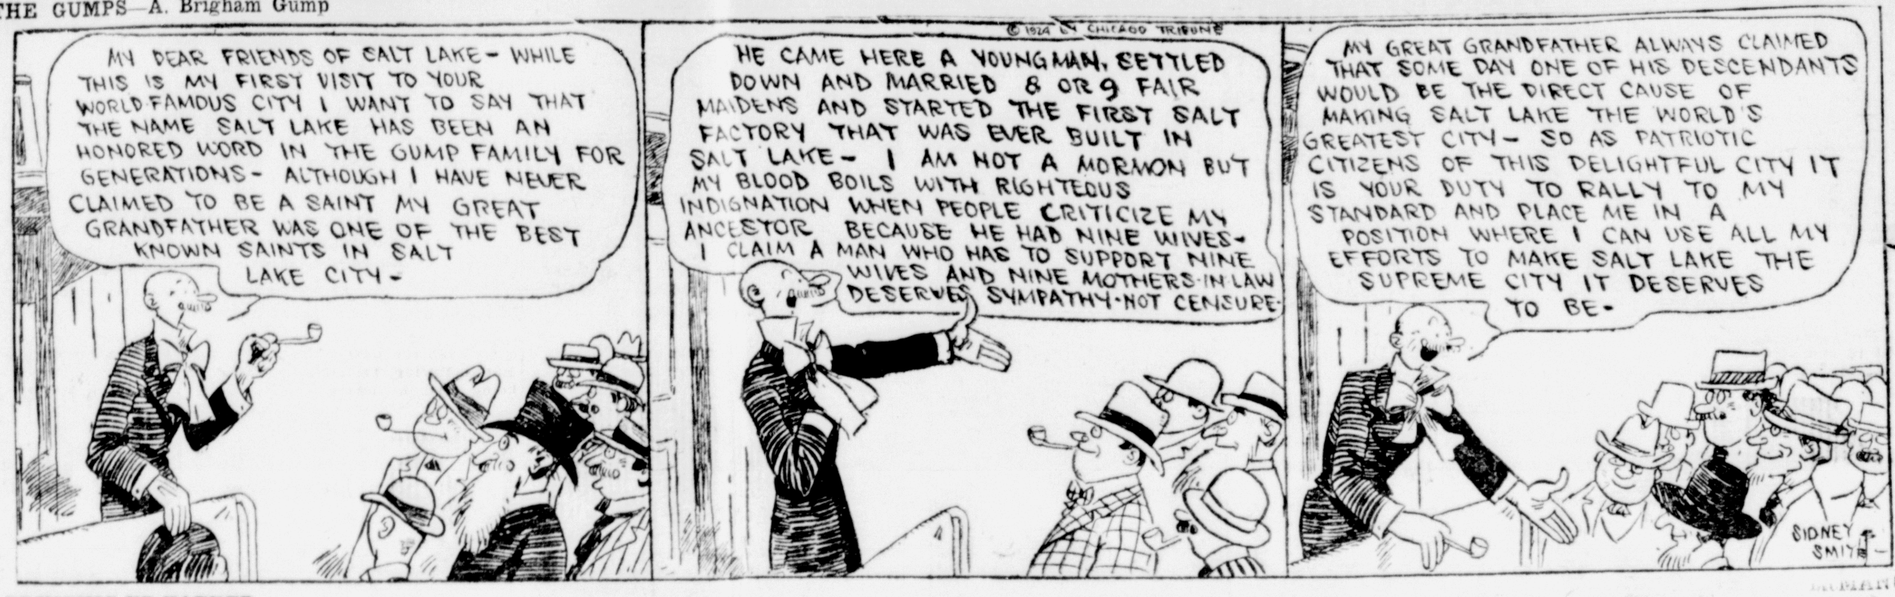

Outside were half a dozen of the boys who had not mustered courage to set foot on the polished floors, Carson and Tommy Burkitt among them. Tommy stared at Bud Lee and his jaw dropped in amazement. Carson took swift stock of such clothes as he had never suspected a good horse foreman owned, and gasped faintly:

He shoved the bunk away from its place in the corner, opened a trap-door in the floor and, lamp in hand, went down into the cabin's cellar. Here was a long pine box, hooped with tin bands for shipping, its lid securely nailed on. He set down his lamp and with shirt-sleeve wiped off some of the accumulation of dust and spider-web. A card with the words, "David Burrill Lee, Rocky Bend," tacked to it made its appearance. Lee shook his head and attacked the lid.

"It's like digging out a dead man," he muttered. "Well' we'll bury him again tomorrow."

It was a box of odds and ends. Clothing, a few books, a pack of photographs, an ornate bridle, a pair of gold-chased spurs, a couple of hats, gloves, no end of the varied articles which might have gone hastily into such a receptacle as this from the hurried packing in a bachelor's apartments. Bud Lee, with a dress-suit and the articles it demands, even to a tie and dancing shoes, went back into the room above.

"Like Hampton," he mused, looking at the things in his hands, "I wonder what it'll feel like to get back into these! I'm a fool." He laughed shortly and set to work to improvise a flatiron to take the worst wrinkles out of the cloth. "Once a fool, always a fool. You can't get away from it."

It was settled. He was going to Marcia's party. He insisted upon calling it in his mind, "Marcia's party." And he was wondering, as he shaved, how Judith was going to look.

As Bud Lee came through the lilacs into the courtyard, he heard the tinkle of a distant piano and the tremolo of a violin, so faint as hardly to be distinguished above the splash and gurgle of the fountains. The court, bathed in soft light, seemed a corner of fairyland, the music vanishing erfin strains to some mischievous troop putting sighs and love dreams into a sleeping maid's breast. The night was rich with stars, warm with summer, serene with the peace of the mountains. He was late. They were already dancing within.

He stood a moment, looking in at the outer edge of the flood of light which gushed through the wide doors. Behind him Japanese lanterns hanging from a vine-covered trellis; before him flowers, bright chandeliers, girls' dresses like fluttering, many-colored, diaphanous butterfly wings. He had been saying to himself: "I must hurry if I want to dance with Marcia." And something stirring restlessly within him shoved aside the thought of Marcia and put in its stead the old wonder: "What sort of a Judith would he see tonight?"

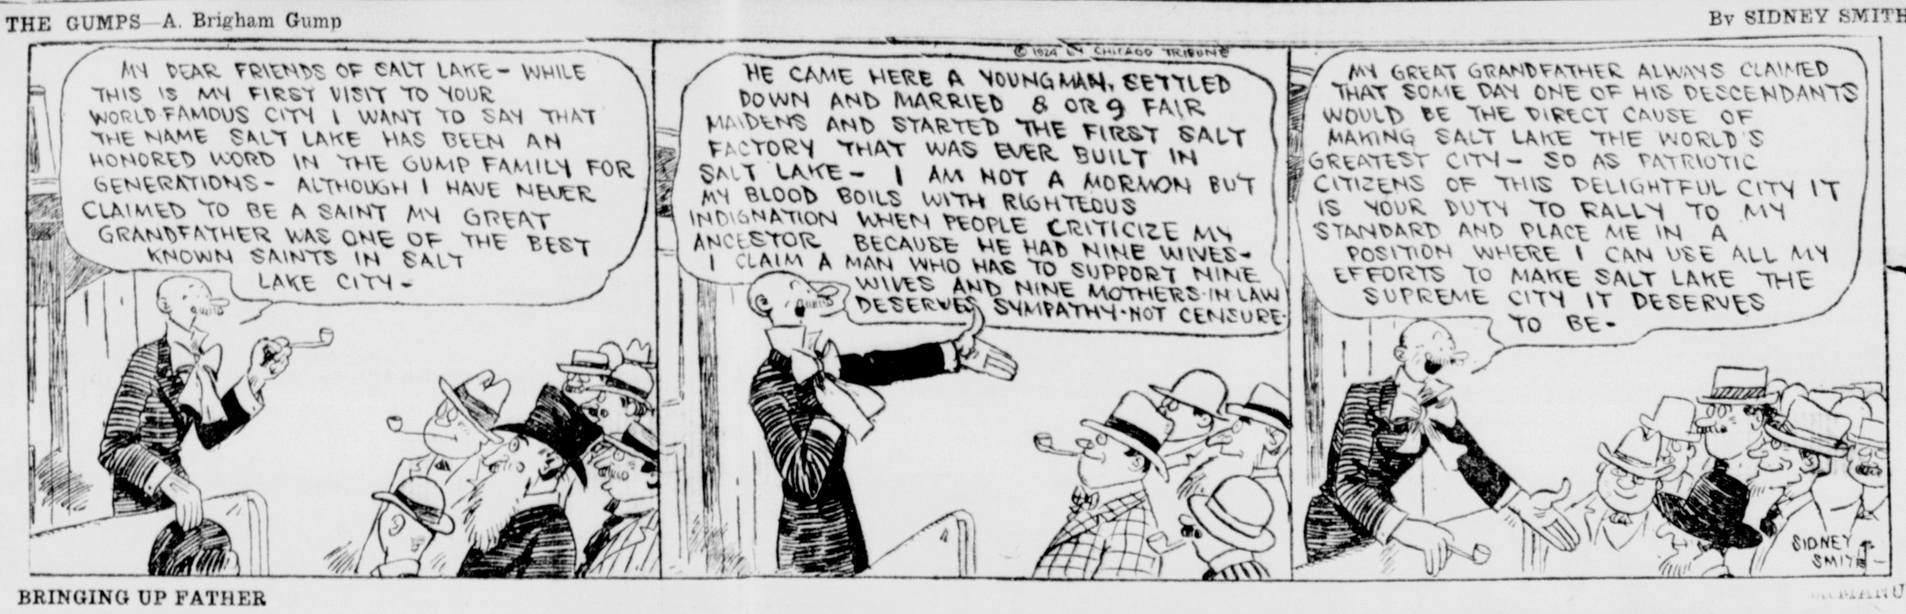

He found it difficult to form any picture of her here, among these gay, inconsequent merry-makers. Judith to him spelled a girl upon a horse, booted, spurred, with a scarf about her neck fluttering wildly behind her as she rode, the superb, splendid figure of a girl of the out-of-doors, alive with the hot pioneer blood which had been her rich inheritance, a sort of wonderful boy-girl. Remove her flapping hat, her boots and spurs and riding-suit, and what was left of Judith?

Outside were half a dozen of the boys who had not mustered courage to set foot on the polished floors, Carson and Tommy Burkitt among them. Tommy stared at Bud Lee and his jaw dropped in amazement. Carson took swift stock of such clothes as he had never suspected a good horse foreman owned, and gasped faintly:

Women Who Look Old

In many cases they are not old in years, but because they are overworked, over-tired, nervous and run-down, ailments have developed peculiar to their sex and this condition makes them look years older than they actually are. Such women should consider the remarkable record held by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent canvass among over one hundred and twenty-one thousand women who had used it, ninety-eight out of every one hundred women reported benefit from its use.

South African motorists bought 9,750 passenger automobiles last year.

Florenz Ziegfeld Clashes With French Painter on Beauties.

NEW YORK — Florenz Ziegfeld, the "Follies" producer, clashed today with Jean Gabriel Doumergue, French painter and scenic artist. The beauty of woman is the point of issue.

The French painter said in Paris that women were 50 per cent prettier 50 years ago than they are today.

"It is the silliest statement that I have ever read," said Mr. Ziegfeld, "and it is absolutely out of harmony with everything that is modern and representative of the spirit of the times. In science and invention we have gone ahead at such an astonishing rate that we have virtually revolutionized the entire trend of affairs. Then how thoroughly ridiculous it is for any one to say that we have gone backward in the development of the beauty in our women.

"If the truth could really be ascertained, I believe that we would find that women of today are 50 times more beautiful than those of 50 years ago. For all that science has learned for the development of health and beauty is now being utilized by our women, especially American women.

"Mr. Doumergue said that he had painted more than 500 women in the last 10 years, and the percentage of the really beautiful ones has been very small. I would say that the gentleman has been very unfortunate in his selection and that he has likewise been very unwise in letting his own limited experience serve as the world standard. He just happened to paint 500 women who were not blessed with beauty. I might just as well say that I saw Bull Montana on the screen and that there were no handsome actions in motion pictures.

Mr. Doumergue further says that society women are not beautiful; that American women 'look spoiled and peevish.' This is positively monstrous. I am surprised that some of our important women's organizations do not rise in protest. Our society women are not spoiled and peevish, because they are too active in their life; too much interested in sports, too busy in their charities and business activities. Yes, I say business activities, for most of them are eager SYRIA RE-EORN UNDER FRENCH RULE, SAYS PARIS WRITER.

A report by General Weygrand, High Commissioner for Syria, for which France is the mandatory under the League of aNtions, is before the League Commission on Mandates.

In anticipation of official release of the report by the commission, the Temps of Paris had its correspondent, M. P. Gentizon, on the spot to vitalize the facts that are discussed in the document.

M. Gentizon contrasting the Syria of the Turks with that under the mandatory, writes:

"Instead of a Syria ruined by Turkish and German exacations, by requisitions, deportations, famine, epidemics and disorganization, one sees now a new Syria in which the traveler finds everywhere proofs of organized activity, of a creative energy developed in the feeling of absolute security.

"Banditry, in the first place, has been completely eliminated in the regions living under French protection, so much so, that one can travel through the most deserted regions of the country of the Occident. We ourselves have crossed Lebanon twice, have skirted the coast from Beirut to Lattakieh, have followed the frontier line from Aleppo to Alexandretta, and have passed through the plain of Antioch without once finding any indication of trouble or unrest.

Improvements in Highways.

"The country which, in 1918, only offered the crudest sort of roads, is now provided with innumerable and excellent roadways. Two large arteries running parallel, one along the coast, the other connecting Damascus and Aleppo, now run through the full length of Syria. Between these highways numerous smaller roads have been built connecting the interior with the sea, such as the Hama-Banias, or, simply rebuilt, like the Aleppo-Alexandretta.

"Translated into figures, such improvements mean that, where in 1918 hardly ten automobile could be found in the entire country, thousands are now in operation, of which 1,800 are owned in Beirut alone.

"In Damascus, the Technical Department has organized a street cleaning department—something hitherto quite unknown in the Levantine cities—equipped with automobiles for sweeping and spraying the streets; several fine fighting automobiles are now part of the fire department; 67,000 square meters of cobble stones and 34,000 square meters of new sidewalk have been laid, while a four kilometer sewerage system was installed in 1923."

M. Gentizon shows that agricultural products have increased more than 400 per cent, since 1921, and that the increase of cultivated land during the same period has been in corresponding ratio. Much of this, he admits, is due to the free distribution of seed and the free use of agricultural implements allowed by the State.

Get rid of it!

NO amount of cosmetics can conceal an ugly skin. They only fill in the pores and make the condition worse. Resinol Soap cleanses the pores, giving them a chance to breathe and throw off clogging impurities—the first step in overcoming skin defects.

A touch of Resinol Ointment for blotches and inflamed spots, relieves the soreness and reduces the angry look. The soothing, healing medication in the Resinol products makes it so easy to get rid of excessive oiliness, blackheads, blotches, redness, etc., why waste time trying to hide them.

SENATORS FACE GIANTS IN FINAL STRUGGLE OF SERIES

Both Clubs Go Into Crucial Battle With Hurling Staffs Riddled; Peck Lost To Nats

Mogridge or Ogden Will Fire Nationals' Final Blast at Gotham Stronghold; According to Guessers, McQuillen May be McGraw's Ace; Capacity Crowd Expected at Griffith Park.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The seventh game of the world series today may be pitched by Robert M. La Follette and Tammany Young with one-orb Connelly calling the balls and strikes.

It may not be quite that bad in the final analysis but if the Washington Senators and the New York Giants summon better pitchers than Messrs. La Follette and Youn; for the final game of the world series this exceedingly fair afternoon this writer will be considerably surprised. It promises to be rather a spacious occasion.

Both clubs were prepared to enter the so-called crucial game for the championship of the world with every pitcher pitched to his ultimate limit and the Wasaington club badly shot by the inevitable indisposition of Roger Peckinbaugh, short stop, captain, and mainspring of the Senators in general.

Neither has a fair hand to draw to but the Senators have a pair of deuces and if they fill on the final draw it will only be luck. They are down to their last chip and the Giants are ready to bet the size of the pot.

Unless a certain young man by the name of Taylor can play baseball according to major league requirements, the Senators are all over and done with. They tried to get by with Miller at third, in the third, fourth and fifth games and woe was theirs. Miller was just about as good a third baseman as Uncle Joe Cannon. Perhaps Taylor is a better performer. He couldn't be worse.

In spite of which the citizenry of this fair city bought tickets today with two-handed enthusiasm. They began lining up outside the box office after yesterday's general excitement and were still at it when the sun peeped over the Potomac hills this morning. The chance of a capacity crowd this afternoon was no less imminent than the dawn of tomorrow.

Peckinpaugh may be out for the rest of the series and Johnson, Zachary and Marberry cooked for all the good they might do today, but Washington was the same loyal city it was at the start of the series. It still felt that the Senators were the best ball club and was willing to back its judgment at even money and let the worst man lose. There was a superfluity of loose Washington money to be had for the asking in any of the downtown hotels.

The identity of the boys who will pitch this ball game is something that Einstein and the rest of the scientists should decide. The Senators have George Mogridge, Marberry, Ogden and Nick Altrock; the Giants, McQuillan, Watson and Hughey Jennings. We will eliminate Altrock and Jennings because their duties on the coaching lines are too confining.

Harking back to the others, Mogridge was about pitched out in beating the Giants for eight and a fraction innings the other day; Marberry most certainly will be held for relief, if any, and the Giants have no confidence whatsoever in Watson. Somehow, he lost the needle during the late campaign and naturally the ball club has lost all faith in him.

That leaves the situation to the tender mercies of Ogden and Zahniser, of the Senators, and McQuillan of the Giants. It should be the end of a perfect series. In a choice of two evils, the writer would incline toward Ogden over Zahniser. He happens to be a better pitcher, in the first place, and regardless of whether the bonesetting gentleman was able to effect a cure of his warped arm, is a better money player than his rival pitcher.

Now for the Giants. They have McQuillan only and none other. Barnes was knocked off in the fourth game and will not return unless under pain of someone's dismissal. Nehf and Bentley have been pitched right out. Watson is a ne'r do-well. That puts the situation up to the man who was not able to last more than four innings against the Senators in the third game. It is a patchwork quilt, no matter how you care to take it, if at all.

The writer, speaking strictly for himself, wouldn't give a dime a dozen for any man either team might care to pitch today. The pitching is a very poor dead heat with hitting and the breaks likely to decide the issue.

The Senators, minus Peckinpaugh, made ready to enter the final game at a great disadvantage. They were forced to the expediency of shifting Bluege out of his natural position, to shortstop, and placing Taylor, a recruit with a mashed hand, on third base. It was not a very heartening shift with the odds as great as they happen to be.

Yet Washington today was a city that would not accept no for an answer. It went after all the available tickets in sight, and at an early hour this morning, the line outside the box office windows at Griffith park numbered thousands where mere hundreds waited at the Polo grounds. They had no pitcher in particular but they felt they had a ball club and conducted themselves accordingly.

A price of 50 dollars, almost prohibitive for ordinary occasions, was set upon single tickets in the lobbies of down town hotels. Anything that would admit a Washington man to the park was snapped up with avidity. A man selling tickets at any price was in the position of a party selling cars in Venice. He just simply couldn't go wrong.

The Senators' lineup, aside from the inevitable shift of Taylor into the infield, promised to remain the same. The Giants, however, expected to return to the left hand hitting combination of Terry at first base, Kelly in center field and Wilson in left in prospect of facing Ogden.

Somehow, these ball clubs contrived to finish a game without a home run or without a ninth inning rally. That made the proceedings almost unofficial.

SIDELIGHTS ON SERIES GAMES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Rice was the Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde of the series. At the Polo grounds on Wednesday, he couldn't have been worse if he had a club foot, in the sixth game yesterday he was the perfect outfielder.

Ruel is still the hitless wonder of the series. Sometime this young man is going to step up in a pinch and bust one to uninhabited spots. That may happen in the season of 1925. Then, again, it may happen today.

Some of the dissenters took issue with McNeely on his steal of second in the fifth. The fact of the matter is that the youth was sent down by Harris who signaled for the hit and run play. Furthermore he got away with a clean steal which should silence all debate.

Perhaps, somewhere in the annals of baseball, there has been a more disheartening play than Judge made on Kelly's grounder in the ninth. There was absolutely no sense in the first baseman deserting the ball to cover first.

The incident was a most disorganizing one for a pitcher. Yet Zachary carried on. The third strike on Wilson for the final out fairly burned the buttons off the Giant outfielder's chest.

Frisch seemed to loaf turning first on each of his doubles in the early innings, but he beat the throw by Rice on each occasion.

Someone may have a clear idea as to why Harris always hits the first ball pitched when the opposing pitching is wavering but thus far that perspicacious gentleman has not been found. Nehlf opened the game by passing McNeely on four pitched balls. Whereupon Harris smacked the first one for a force-out at second. Then just to multiply his sins he was caught off first base a moment later.

Goslin stepped out of the box in the late innings but Klem motioned Nehf to thrown the ball regardless. It missed the plate and the umpire was forced to call a ball. Whereupon Harris gave vent to a distended argument, the object of which was not clear. He had everything he wanted as it was.

Taylor, the Senators' sub-third baseman, entered the game in the ninth in spite of the fact that he had and has a compound fracture of one of the bones in his throwing hand. He didn't get a chance to handle the ball, which may or may not have been just as well.

Meusel seems to have the old timer's idea of playing left field. The first bounce is out as far as Irish is concerned.

Industrial League Champs Are Given Title Trophies At Fourth Annual Banquet

Manager Sprague and Former Captain Shaw Accept Y. M. C. A. and Spalding Cups; Awards are Made to Leading Players of Circuit; Speeches and Music Round Out Program.

Contributing to an elaborate program, with song, story and incident all reminiscent of the diamond during 1924 and preceding years, players, managers, league officials and business men sat about the Y. M. C. A. festal board Thursday night at the fourth annual banquet of the "Y" industrial league.

More than 80 persons attended. W. T. McNutt, past president of the circuit, presided as toastmaster. About the speakers' table were seated W. E. Wells, of the Homer Laughlin China Co.; his sons, Joseph and W. E. Wells, Jr., executives of the same concern; Attorney Samuel Crawford; W. H. Vodrey, president of the Y. M. C. A.; D. Trotter, president of the Y. M. C. A. baseball league; C. H. Davis and J. Hall, of the K. T. K. pottery.

In charge of the music was Prof. Hugh Laughlin, of the city schools. Blaine Cochran gave several vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. Danks Cochran.

For the league, Attorney Crawford presented Manager J. Sprague of the champion Hall China club the silver cup emblematic of the title. "To retain this trophy permanently, you must hold this cup two more years in succession," asserted Attorney Crawford. "I hope I shall have the pleasure a year from now of again presenting you the same token of your club's prowess that I am now handing you."

Manager Sprague accepted the cup and carried it to the section reserved for the champions. The Spalding trophy, presented each year by the company, was given to the club by C. H. Davis. In the temporary absence of Captain Lester McMath, former Captain Shaw accepted and expressed the club's apprec iation.

Toastmaster McNutt called upon the Hall club quartet, consisting of Parsons, R. Pollock, S. Deshler and B. Shaw, to sing, and the vocalists, responding with "Old Black Joe," knocked a home run into the left field bleachers. Not to be outdone, a quartet from Laughlin, defeated in the final league series, responding to Toastmaster McNutt's request, swatted out a few vocal base hits themselves. The singers were Barr, Brown, Reardon and Riser. Manager Hap Jackson, Grafton, Moore and Dustman, of the Potters were content with a musical triple to the right field fence. The latter quartet told all about "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," but was unable to render it in the exact way in which it was done a few minutes later by Toastmaster McNutt and Attorney Crawford.

W. E. Wells felicitated the league for the high standard of play of the past several seasons, and narrated incidents of the days back in the eighties when he managed Homer Laughlin clubs playing for the benefit of the Johnstown flood survivors. "I used to play industrial ball when my younger contemporaries here were in swaddling clothes. We pitched the ball in then to the batter. Later came the thrown ball. Unless a team made 20 runs it invariably lost." He paid high tribute to the game as an American institution, its part in the development of right sensibilities and its marked freedom from dishonest tendencies despite the occasional flurry that comes from apparent individual lack of moral turpitude.

In kindred vein, extolling the virtues of baseball and the growing strength of the Y. M. C. A. industrail league, President Don Trotter, vice president David Buzzard, Managers Sol McCoy and Will Ashbaugh, W. H. Vodrey, Joseph and W. E. Wells, Jr., T. T. Jones and W. J. Scott, industrial secretary, spoke.

As a final feature and in keeping with former post season banquets, Lee C. Cooper, of the baseball commission presented the players leading in various departments with appropriate gifts contributed by local merchants as a mark of their interest in the league and the players.

The prize winners follow:

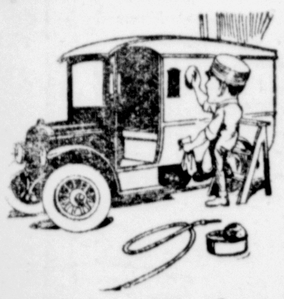

Leading hitter—Bill Mundy, Laughlin, N., .467, hat by the Erlanger Co.; leading base stealer—E. Bayley, Smith Phillips, 20 bases—stick pin by Leon Rubin; leading run getters—C. Finley and Kent McConnell, of Laughlin, N., 32 each—umbrellas given by Ogilvies and Moyer Co.; leading pitchers—Sanior, of Hall and Lon Rees, of E. M. Knowles—fielders' gloves by C. H. Davis and C. O. Weaver; leading walker—Roy Rariden, Laughlin, N., 16 passes—box of candy, by Harry Fleming; most aggressive manager—Hap Jackman, of Potters—safety razor by C. C. Anderson.

Responses were made by the players who received gifts.

Mogridge or Ogden Will Fire Nationals' Final Blast at Gotham Stronghold; According to Guessers, McQuillen May be McGraw's Ace; Capacity Crowd Expected at Griffith Park.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The seventh game of the world series today may be pitched by Robert M. La Follette and Tammany Young with one-orb Connelly calling the balls and strikes.

It may not be quite that bad in the final analysis but if the Washington Senators and the New York Giants summon better pitchers than Messrs. La Follette and Youn; for the final game of the world series this exceedingly fair afternoon this writer will be considerably surprised. It promises to be rather a spacious occasion.

Both clubs were prepared to enter the so-called crucial game for the championship of the world with every pitcher pitched to his ultimate limit and the Wasaington club badly shot by the inevitable indisposition of Roger Peckinbaugh, short stop, captain, and mainspring of the Senators in general.

Neither has a fair hand to draw to but the Senators have a pair of deuces and if they fill on the final draw it will only be luck. They are down to their last chip and the Giants are ready to bet the size of the pot.

Unless a certain young man by the name of Taylor can play baseball according to major league requirements, the Senators are all over and done with. They tried to get by with Miller at third, in the third, fourth and fifth games and woe was theirs. Miller was just about as good a third baseman as Uncle Joe Cannon. Perhaps Taylor is a better performer. He couldn't be worse.

In spite of which the citizenry of this fair city bought tickets today with two-handed enthusiasm. They began lining up outside the box office after yesterday's general excitement and were still at it when the sun peeped over the Potomac hills this morning. The chance of a capacity crowd this afternoon was no less imminent than the dawn of tomorrow.

Peckinpaugh may be out for the rest of the series and Johnson, Zachary and Marberry cooked for all the good they might do today, but Washington was the same loyal city it was at the start of the series. It still felt that the Senators were the best ball club and was willing to back its judgment at even money and let the worst man lose. There was a superfluity of loose Washington money to be had for the asking in any of the downtown hotels.

The identity of the boys who will pitch this ball game is something that Einstein and the rest of the scientists should decide. The Senators have George Mogridge, Marberry, Ogden and Nick Altrock; the Giants, McQuillan, Watson and Hughey Jennings. We will eliminate Altrock and Jennings because their duties on the coaching lines are too confining.

Harking back to the others, Mogridge was about pitched out in beating the Giants for eight and a fraction innings the other day; Marberry most certainly will be held for relief, if any, and the Giants have no confidence whatsoever in Watson. CHICK COLEMAN TO HELP BOONE

Greys Add Assistant Coach as Result of Big Squad.

Coincident with his summons to members of the East Liverpool Greys for the final practice drill of the week, Friday evening at city park, Manager George Cochrane of the local semi-pros, announced that Charles "Chick" Coleman, of this city, will assist Casey O. V. Boone during the remainder of the season.

The increase to the coaching staff has been made necessary, it was pointed out, as a result of the ever increasing squad. In former years Coleman played with the Greys and lately has been officiating at various games in the valley.

Next week the squad will be cut to approximately 20 players, it was announced. At the present there are between 30 and 40 candidates drilling.

In previous years the club has been classified as a lightweight aggregation, but, within the past few weeks, has added enough poundage to make it a heavyweight eleven. Manager Cochran is getting in touch with a number of semi-pro teams throughout the state for games. These games will be played on the road as a result of the team's inability to obtain grounds at home.

Practice will start on Friday evening at 6 o'clock.

NARDACCI BACK FOR PITT GAME

W. Va., Officials Confirm Report of Star's Return.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—On their arrival in Pittsburgh this evening members of the West Virginia University football squad will be hurried to a quiet hotel where they will rest until time for the kickoff of the twentieth Mountaineer-Pitt gridiron battle to be fought at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon.

There will be about 25 athletes in the advance party. The remaining members of the varsity squad will not be taken to Pittsburgh until Saturday morning and are to make the trip on a special train scheduled to leave here at 7:45 a. m.

Although the team will not be quartered at the William Penn hotel this year that hostelry will be West Virginia's headquarters for tickets, alumni and stadium campaign workers.

The Mountaineers are to practice here early this afternoon and following the short workout will get ready to leave for Pittsburgh in a special car to be attached to the regular afternoon Pennsylvania train.

University athletic officials confirmed the report that Nick Nardacci, diminutive halfback, had returned to the squad. He has been making a valiant effort to get back into condition after being out of uniform for more than three weeks. At this time he is only in fair shape.

Besides second string material Saturday's special train will carry the university cadet band and hundreds of Mountaineer fans to the scene of the battle. On their arrival the crowd will parade from Union station to the William Penn hotel. Returning the special train will leave Union station at 11:15 p. m.

Very little of a definite nature has come out of the Mountaineer football camp this week. All practices have been secret. Even newspapermen have been barred at certain times. Never has Dr. Spears been more successful in keeping his battle plans under cover. All that could be learned today was "the men are in good shape and working hard."

Influence of series on politics is enormous. If Senators win, Republicans will claim the credit as campaign asset. If team loses, Democrats will cite Washington's flop as new evidence of administration's inefficiency

"Newell's Black Jack," eagle hound owned by W. E. Wells Jr. of Newell, proved his class in the field trials of the Ohio Northern Beagle club, under way this week at Chippewa Lake, when he finished in front of a record breaking field in the 15-inch derby. He was awarded first prize.

In addition to "Newell's Black Jack," there were 28 starters, considered as an exceptionally large field. As a result of his brilliant performance the beagle is being taking in the 15-inch all-age trials which will finish on Saturday.

YALE-GEORGIA MEET IN EAST

Ohio State and Iowa U. Hold Spotlight in Mid-West.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The last touches preliminary to the opening of the heavy schedules in the 1924 football season will be provided in East, Mid-West and Far West in gridiron games set for tomorrow.

Of the lot there are few which appear to great advantage in attractiveness over others.

Probably outstanding among eastern games is that between Georgia University, generally considered very strong in the Southern Conference, and Yale, to be played in New Haven.

In the midwest the contest between Ohio State and Iowa University will hold the spot light, for it is a big ten game, and covers the days card for conference games in that sector.

California in the far west meets Pomnoa in what is little more than a practice contest. Other games scheduled include:

Alabama vs. Mississippi College at Tuscaloosa; Chicago vs. Brown at Chicago; Cornell vs. Williams at Ithaca; Dartmouth vs. Vermont at Hanover; Furman vs. Mercer at Greenville; Georgia Tech vs. Florida at Atlanta; Harvard vs. Middlebury at Cambridge; Illinois vs. Butler at Urbana; Indiana vs. Louisiana State at Indianapolis; Kansas vs. Iowa State at Lawrence; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies at East Lansing; Minnesota vs. Haskell at Minneapolis; Missouri vs. Missouri Wesleyan at Columbia; Northwestern vs. Cincinnati at Evanston; Notre Dame vs. Wabash at South Bend; Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, at Norman; Oregon vs. Pacific University at Eugene; Pennsylvania vs. Swarthmore at Philadelphia, Penn State vs. Gettysburg at State College; Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia at Pittsburgh; Princeton vs. Lehigh at Princeton; Purdue vs. Rose Holytechnic at La Fayette; Stanford vs. Olympic club at Palo Alto; Tulane vs. Louisiana Tech at New Orelans; Army vs. Detroit at West Point; Navy vs. Marquette at Annapolis; Southern California vs. Arizona at Los Angeles; Wisconsin vs. Coe at Madison.

STOOPS TO SHIFT LIBERTY LINEUP

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Coach Larry Stoops will probably start a changed lineup in Saturday's game against Fairmont Normal, as a result of injuries to the squad.

Several of the players have been idle during the past daily workouts, due to their injuries which have kept them out of scrimmages. Other men are getting the call in these practices and will probably be started Saturday.

In the backfield with McSwiggen and Captain Combs injured, Evans, Hand, McBride, Kady, Robinson and Hamilton are getting groomed.

Kiger, New Martinsville High product, who was injured in the California game, is again in uniform and has been shifted from a backfield position to a terminal post, and may fill the duties of Reece of East Liverpool, who is still feeling the effects of Bethany game.

BOLES DRILLS BACKFIELD MEN

WOOSTER, Ohio, Oct. 10—"Wooster needs a revival of interference" declared Coach Boles of the Wooster College football team. The Wooster mentor is far from satisfied with the way his backs have been protecting the man with the ball this season.

The scrimmage Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were directed mostly with this in minds of the men. Wooster will have to show better protection of the offense to show any strength.

The scrimmage Tuesday evening was a costly one. Joe Hurst, steller halfback, was injured and will probably be out of the next two games. It will be impossible for him to be in shape to start the Akron game here Saturday.

Wooster is expecting a record breaking crowd for this game which is the day of the dedication of the new $45,000 football stands. The new bleachers will seat 5,045 and the portable stands will take care of 1,500 more.

Next week Wooster goes to Oxford and will be the attraction for the Miami Homecoming.

BETHANY ELEVEN TO PLAY GENEVA

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Lots of snap and ginger characterizes the Bison practice sessions as they prepare for the Geneva game which will be staged Saturday afternoon at Beaver Falls, Pa. Coach McCandless and Backfield Coach Elder are working to put the final polish on the team and to try to develop considerable reserve material to back up the first eleven men in case of injuries.

SPORT SPARKS

By LES CONKLIN.

Attending games will seem natural to Congressman, who will pry themselves loose from the pork barrel and group themselves around the hot dog stands. Between innings they will make speeches.

If politician craves seat in Congress, voters must have seats in ball park. And that is why world's series slice of Washington team will be thinner than a flea's eyelash.

G. O. P. MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Headquarters Will be Established In Traction Terminal.

Formal opening of the East Liverpool Republican headquarters, situated on the second floor of the Broadway and Washington street traction terminal, will take place at a meeting of the Republican central committee at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Call for the meeting was issued Saturday by Chairman Willis Davidson. Plans for registration on Friday and Saturday of next week and a poll of the Republican voters of the city will be discussed. The meeting is open to all Republicans, men and women.

Beginning Monday, the headquarters will be open throughout the day and evening until after the general election on Tuesday, November 4. Campaign supplies and literature will be distributed from the headquarters.

Colored Republican women of the city were organized Friday evening at a meeting held in the Second Baptist church, Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Ila Marshall Cronin, city chairman of the Women's Republican club, who explained the necessity of registration

Two Die In Chemical Blast

MADRID, Oct. 11—Two persons were killed and numerous workers injured by explosions in the burning of a chemical products factory here.

Radio opens [illegible]senger Wounded In Hold-up Near Rexin, Pa.

PAYROLL STOLEN

Robbers Force Engineer to Stop Train at Wooded Spot.

CRESSON, Pa., Oct. 11.—Five bandits today held up and killed James Gorman, American Railway Express company agent, and seriously wounded Joseph Davis, messenger of the First National bank, Ebensburg, and escaped with the payrolls of the Cambria Indiana Mine company amounting to between $40,000 and $45,000.

Flee In Automobile

Two Italians, alleged to be implicated in the hold-up, were met by three others at Rexin. As the train stopped at Rexin, two of the bandits forced the engineer at the point of revolvers to take the train to a wooded spot near Rexin. When Gorman and Davis resisted, the Italians opened fire and Gorman was killed instantly and Davis fell seriously wounded.

The bandits then grabbed the satchel, containing the money, ran from the train, boarded an automobile waiting near the right of way and escaped.

ROBBERS SLAY NINE TRAINMEN

One American Among Victims of Hold-up In Mexico.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 11—Nine trainmen, employes of the Eruption Mining company, one of them an American, were lined up along the right of way embankment and shot to death by bandits who rifled the train of a $15,000 payroll. The murder and robbery occurred 50 miles south of the border near Candelarit station, old Mexico. B. F. Barker, of El Paso, auditor of the mining company, was the American shot.

The entire train crew, two roadmasters and one laborer were slain, and the only armed man on the train, a customs guard, is missing. It is believed there were five men in the bandit gang.

Word has been received, according to General Gomez, federal zone commander, that the hold-up would be attempted, and he declared he believed the attack and murder was planned in El Paso. A posse has been armed and sent in pursuit of the murderers. Bodies of the dead men were brought to Juarez on a special train early today and it was not until then that authorities had more than a meagre knowledge of the tragedy.

Two main line passenger trains met the scene of the killing during the [illegible] and [illegible] the story. [illegible] Coe [illegible] of Columbiana County, Ohio, and to [illegible] ected as Sheriff of said County.

CHICK COLEMAN TO HELP BOONE

Greys Add Assistant Coach as Result of Big Squad.

Coincident with his summons to members of the East Liverpool Greys for the first practice drill of the week, Friday evening at city park, Manager George Cochrane of the local semi-pros announced that Charles "Chick" Coleman, of this city, will assist Coach O. V. Boone during the remainder of the season.

The increase to the coaching staff has been made necessary, it was pointed out, as a result of the ever increasing squad. In former years Coleman played with the Greys and lately has been officiating at various games in the valley.

Next week the squad will be cut to approximately 20 players, it was announced. At the present there are between 30 and 40 candidates drilling.

In previous years the club has been classified as a lightweight aggregation, but, within the past few weeks, has added enough poundage to make it a heavyweight eleven. Manager Cochran is getting in touch with a number of semi-pro teams throughout the state for games. These games will be played on the road as a result of the team's inability to obtain grounds at home.

Practice will start on Friday evening at 6 o'clock.

NARDACCI BACK FOR PITT GAME

W. Va., Officials Confirm Report of Star's Return.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—On their arrival in Pittsburgh this evening members of the West Virginia University football squad will be hurried to a quiet hotel where they will rest until time for the kickoff of the twentieth Mountaineer-Pitt gridiron battle to be fought at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon.

There will be about 25 athletes in the advance party. The remaining members of the varsity squad will not be taken to Pittsburgh until Saturday morning and are to make the trip on a special train scheduled to leave here at 7:45 a. m.

Although the team will not be quartered at the William Penn hotel this year that hostelry will be West Virginia's headquarters for tickets, alumni and stadium campaign workers.

The Mountaineers are to practice here early this afternoon and following the short workout will get ready to leave for Pittsburgh in a special car to be attached to the regular afternoon Pennsylvania train.

University athletic officials confirmed the report that Nick Nardacci, diminutive halfback, had returned to the squad. He has been making a valiant effort to get back into condition after being out of uniform for more than three weeks. At this time he is only in fair shape.

Besides second string material Saturday's special train will carry the university cadet band and hundreds of Mountaineer fans to the scene of the battle. On their arrival the crowd will parade from Union station to the William Penn hotel. Returning the special train will leave Union station at 11:15 p. m.

Very little of a definite nature has come out of the Mountaineer football camp this week. All practices have been secret. Even newspapermen have been barred at certain times. Never has Dr. Spears been more successful in keeping his battle plans under cover. All that could be learned today was "the men are in good shape and working hard."

Influence of series on politics is enormous. If Senators win, Republicans will claim the credit as campaign asset. If team loses, Democrats will cite Washington's flop as new evidence of administration's inefficiency

"Newell's Black Jack," eagle hound owned by W. E. Wells Jr. of Newell, proved his class in the field trials of the Ohio Northern Beagle club, under way this week at Chippewa Lake, when he finished in front of a record breaking field in the 15-inch derby. He was awarded first prize.

In addition to "Newell's Black Jack," there were 28 starters, considered as an exceptionally large field. As a result of his brilliant performance the beagle is being taking in the 15-inch a.l-age trials which will finish on Saturday.

YALE-GEORGIA MEET IN EAST

Ohio State and Iowa U. Hold Spotlight in Mid-West.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The last touches preliminary to the opening of the heavy schedules in the 1924 football season will be provided in East, Mid-West and Far West in gridiron games set for tomorrow.

Of the lot there are few which appear to great advantage in attractiveness over others.

Probably outstanding among eastern games is that between Georgia University, generally considered very strong in the Southern Conference, and Yale, to be played in New Haven.

In the midwest the contest between Ohio State and Iowa University will hold the spot light, for it is a big ten game, and covers the days card for conference games in that sector.

California in the far west meets Pomona in what is little more than a practice contest. Other games scheduled include:

Alabama vs. Mississippi College at Tuscaloosa; Chicago vs. Brown at Chicago; Cornell vs. Williams at Ithaca; Dartmouth vs. Vermont at Hanover; Furman vs. Mercer at Greenville; Georgia Tech vs. Florida at Atlanta; Harvard vs. Middlebury at Cambridge; Illinois vs. Butler at Urbana; Indiana vs. Louisiana State at Indianapolis; Kansas vs. Iowa State at Lawrence; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies at East Lansing; Minnesota vs. Haskell at Minneapolis; Missouri vs. Missouri Wesleyan at Columbia; Northwestern vs. Cincinnati at Evanston; Notre Dame vs. Wabash at South Bend; Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, at Norman; Oregon vs. Pacific University at Eugene; Pennsylvania vs. Swarthmore at Philadelphia, Penn State vs. Gettysburg at State College; Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia at Pittsburgh; Princeton vs. Lehigh at Princeton; Purdue vs. Rose Holytechnic at La Fayette; Stanford vs. Olympic club at Palo Alto; Tulane vs. Louisiana Tech at New Orelans; Army vs. Detroit at West Point; Navy vs. Marquette at Annanolis; Southern California vs. Arizona at Los Angeles; Wisconsin vs. Coe at Madison.

STOOPS TO SHIFT LIBERTY LINEUP

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Coach Larry Stoops will probably start a changed lineup in Saturday's game against Fairmont Normal, as a result of injuries to the squad.

Several of the players have been idle during the past daily workouts, due to their injuries which have kept them out of scrimmages. Other men are getting the call in these practices and will probably be started Saturday.

In the backfield with McSwiggen and Captain Combs injured, Evans, Hand, McBride, Kady, Robinson and Hamilton are getting groomed.

Kiger, New Martinsville High product, who was injured in the California game, is again in uniform and has been shifted from a backfield position to a terminal post, and may fill the duties of Reece of East Liverpool, who is still feeling the effects of Bethany game.

BOLES DRILLS BACKFIELD MEN

WOOSTER, Ohio, Oct. 10—"Wooster needs a revival of interference" declared Coach Boles of the Wooster College football team. The Wooster mentor is far from satisfied with the way his backs have been protecting the man with the ball this season.

The scrimmage Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were directed mostly with this in minds of the men. Wooster will have to show better protection of the offense to show any strength.

The scrimmage Tuesday evening was a costly one. Joe Hurst, steller halfback, was injured and will probably be out of the next two games. It will be impossible for him to be in shape to start the Akron game here Saturday.

Wooster is expecting a record breaking crowd for this game which is the day of the dedication of the new $45,000 football stands. The new bleachers will seat 5,045 and the portable stands will take care of 1,500 more.

Next week Wooster goes to Oxford and will be the attraction for the Miami Homecoming.

BETHANY ELEVEN TO PLAY GENEVA

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Lots of snap and ginger characterizes the Bison practice sessions as they prepare for the Geneva game which will be staged Saturday afternoon at Beaver Falls, Pa. Coach McCandless and Backfield Coach Elder are working to put the final polish on the team and to try to develop considerable reserve material to back up the first eleven men in case of injuries.

SPORT SPARKS

By LES CONKLIN.

Attending games will seem natural to Congressman, who will pry themselves loose from the pork barrel and group themselves around the hot dog stands. Between innings they will make speeches.

If politician craves seat in Congress, voters must have seats in ball park. And that is why world's series slice of Washington team will be thinner than a flea's eyelash.

G. O. P. MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Headquarters Will be Established In Traction Terminal.

Formal opening of the East Liverpool Republican headquarters, situated on the second floor of the Broadway and Washington street traction terminal, will take place at a meeting of the Republican central committee at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Call for the meeting was issued Saturday by Chairman Willis Davidson. Plans for registration on Friday and Saturday of next week and a poll of the Republican voters of the city will be discussed. The meeting is open to all Republicans, men and women.

Beginning Monday, the headquarters will be open throughout the day and evening until after the general election on Tuesday, November 4. Campaign supplies and literature will be distributed from the headquarters.

Colored Republican women of the city were organized Friday evening at a meeting held in the Second Baptist church, Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Ila Marshall Cronin, city chairman of the Women's Republican club, who explained the necessity of registration

Radio opens Passenger Wounded In Hold-up Near Rexin, Pa.

PAYROLL STOLEN

Robbers Force Engineer to Stop Train at Wooded Spot.

CRESSON, Pa., Oct. 11.—Five bandits today held up and killed James Gorman, American Railway Express company agent, and seriously wounded Joseph Davis, messenger of the First National bank, Ebensburg, and escaped with the payrolls of the Cambria Indiana Mine company amounting to between $40,000 and $45,000.

Flee In Automobile

Gorman and Davis were carrying the payroll in a satchel from Ebensburg on a Pennsylvania passenger train to the Cambria mine near here.

Two Italians, alleged to be implicated in the hold-up, were met by three others at Rexin. As the train stopped at Rexin, two of the bandits forced the engineer at the point of revolvers to take the train to a wooded spot near Rexin. When Gorman and Davis resisted, the Italians opened fire and Gorman was killed instantly and Davis fell seriously wounded.

The bandits then grabbed the satchel, containing the money, ran from the train, boarded an automobile waiting near the right of way and escaped.

ROBBERS SLAY NINE TRAINMEN

One American Among Victims of Hold-up In Mexico.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 11—Nine trainmen, employes of the Eruption Mining company, one of them an American, were lined up along the right of way embankment and shot to death by bandits who rifled the train of a $15,000 payroll. The murder and robbery occurred 50 miles south of the border near Candelarit station, old Mexico. B. F. Barker, of El Paso, auditor of the mining company, was the American shot.

The entire train crew, two roadmasters and one laborer were slain, and the only armed man on the train, a customs guard, is missing. It is believed there were five men in the bandit gang.

Word has been received, according to General Gomez, federal zone commander, that the hold-up would be attempted, and he declared he believed the attack and murder was planned in El Paso. A posse has been armed and sent in pursuit of the murderers. Bodies of the dead men were brought to Juarez on a special train early today and it was not until then that authorities had more than a meagre knowledge of the tragedy.

Two main line passenger trains met the scene of the killing during the

Mogridge or Ogden Will Fire Nationals' Final Blast at Gotham Stronghold; According to Guessers, McQuillen May be McGraw's Ace; Capacity Crowd Expected at Griffith Park.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The seventh game of the world series today may be pitched by Robert M. La Follette and Tammany Young with one-orb Connelly calling the balls and strikes.

It may not be quite that bad in the final analysis but if the Washington Senators and the New York Giants summon better pitchers than Messrs. La Follette and Youn; for the final game of the world series this exceedingly fair afternoon this writer will be considerably surprised. It promises to be rather a spacious occasion.

Both clubs were prepared to enter the so-called crucial game for the championship of the world with every pitcher pitched to his ultimate limit and the Wasaington club badly shot by the inevitable indisposition of Roger Peckinbaugh, short stop, captain, and mainspring of the Senators in general.

Neither has a fair hand to draw to but the Senators have a pair of deuces and if they fill on the final draw it will only be luck. They are down to their last chip and the Giants are ready to bet the size of the pot.

Unless a certain young man by the name of Taylor can play baseball according to major league requirements, the Senators are all over and done with. They tried to get by with Miller at third, in the third, fourth and fifth games and woe was theirs. Miller was just about as good a third baseman as Uncle Joe Cannon. Perhaps Taylor is a better performer. He couldn't be worse.

In spite of which the citizenry of this fair city bought tickets today with two-handed enthusiasm. They began lining up outside the box office after yesterday's general excitement and were still at it when the sun peeped over the Potomac hills this morning. The chance of a capacity crowd this afternoon was no less imminent than the dawn of tomorrow.

Peckinpaugh may be out for the rest of the series and Johnson, Zachary and Marberry cooked for all the good they might do today, but Washington was the same loyal city it was at the start of the series. It still felt that the Senators were the best ball club and was willing to back its judgment at even money and let the worst man lose. There was a superfluity of loose Washington money to be had for the asking in any of the downtown hotels.

The identity of the boys who will pitch this ball game is something that Einstein and the rest of the scientists should decide. The Senators have George Mogridge, Marberry, Ogden and Nick Altrock; the Giants, McQuillan, Watson and Hughey Jennings. We will eliminate Altrock and Jennings because their duties on the coaching lines are too confining.

Harking back to the others, Mogridge was about pitched out in beating the Giants for eight and a fraction innings the other day; Marberry most certainly will be held for relief, if any, and the Giants have no confidence whatsoever in Watson. Somehow, he lost the needle during the late campaign and naturally the ball club has lost all faith in him.

That leaves the situation to the tender mercies of Ogden and Zahniser, of the Senators, and McQuillan of the Giants. It should be the end of a perfect series. In a choice of two evils, the writer would incline toward Ogden over Zahniser. He happens to be a better pitcher, in the first place, and regardless of whether the bonesetting gentleman was able to effect a cure of his warped arm, is a better money player than his rival pitcher.

Now for the Giants. They have McQuillan only and none other. Barnes was knocked off in the fourth game and will not return unless under pain of someone's dismissal. Nehf and Bentley have been pitched right out. Watson is a ne'r do-well. That puts the situation up to the man who was not able to last more than four innings against the Senators in the third game. It is a patchwork quilt, no matter how you care to take it, if at all.

The writer, speaking strictly for himself, wouldn't give a dime a dozen for any man either team might care to pitch today. The pitching is a very poor dead heat with hitting and the breaks likely to decide the issue.

The Senators, minus Peckinpaugh, made ready to enter the final game at a great disadvantage. They were forced to the expediency of shifting Bluege out of his natural position, to shortstop, and placing Taylor, a recruit with a mashed hand, on third base. It was not a very heartening shift with the odds as great as they happen to be.

Yet Washington today was a city that would not accept no for an answer. It went after all the available tickets in sight, and at an early hour this morning, the line outside the box office windows at Griffith park numbered thousands where mere hundreds waited at the Polo grounds. They had no pitcher in particular but they felt they had a ball club and conducted themselves accordingly.

A price of 50 dollars, almost prohibitive for ordinary occasions, was set upon single tickets in the lobbies of down town hotels. Anything that would admit a Washington man to the park was snapped up with avidity. A man selling tickets at any price was in the position of a party selling cars in Venice. He just simply couldn't go wrong.

The Senators' lineup, aside from the inevitable shift of Taylor into the infield, promised to remain the same. The Giants, however, expected to return to the left hand hitting combination of Terry at first base, Kelly in center field and Wilson in left in prospect of facing Ogden.

Somehow, these ball clubs contrived to finish a game without a home run or without a ninth inning rally. That made the proceedings almost unofficial.

Brown-Chicago Tilt First East-West Grid Game

The first intersectional grid game of prominence this season will be between the University of Chicago and Brown University of Provindence, R. I., at Chicago, Oct. 11. At left, Captain Jim Sheldon of Brown making a goal from placement. At right Coach Stagg, in his thirty-third year as coach of Chicago, talking over the makeup of his team with Captain Franklin Gowdy.

SIDELIGHTS ON SERIES GAMES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Rice was the Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde of the series. At the Polo grounds on Wednesday, he couldn't have been worse if he had a club foot. In the sixth game yesterday he was the perfect outfielder.

Ruel is still the hitless wonder of the series. Sometime this young man is going to step up in a pinch and bust one to uninhabited spots. That may happen in the season of 1925. Then, again, it may happen today.

Some of the dissenters took issue with McNeely on his steal of second in the fifth. The fact of the matter is that the youth was sent down by Harris who signaled for the hit and run play. Furthermore he got away with a clean steal which should silence all debate.

Perhaps, somewhere in the annals of baseball, there has been a more disheartening play than Judge made on Kelly's grounder in the ninth. There was absolutely no sense in the first baseman deserting the ball to cover first.

The incident was a most disorganizing one for a pitcher. Yet Zachary carried on. The third strike on Wilson for the final out fairly burned the buttons off the Giant outfielder's chest.

Frisch seemed to loaf turning first on each of his doubles in the early innings, but he beat the throw by Rice on each occasion.

Someone may have a clear idea as to why Harris always hits the first ball pitched when the opposing pitching is wavering but thus far that perspicacious gentleman has not been found. Nehlf opened the game by passing McNeely on four pitched balls. Whereupon Harris smacked the first one for a force-out at second. Then just to multiply his sins he was caught off first base a moment later.

Goslin stepped out of the box in the late innings but Klem motioned Nehf to thrown the ball regardless. It missed the plate and the umpire was forced to call a ball. Whereupon Harris gave vent to a distended argument, the object of which was not clear. He had everything he wanted as it was.

Taylor, the Senators' sub-third baseman, entered the game in the ninth in spite of the fact that he had and has a compound fracture of one of the bones in his throwing hand. He didn't get a chance to handle the ball, which may or may not have been just as well.

Meusel seems to have the old timer's idea of playing left field. The first bounce is out as far as Irish is concerned.

Regardless of his winning single yesterday and his dazzling fielding in New York on Tuesday, Harris must finish second to Frisch as a ball player in this particular series.

Maypoles once were forbidden in England.

Manager Sprague and Former Captain Shaw Accept Y. M. C. A. and Spalding Cups; Awards are Made to Leading Players of Circuit; Speeches and Music Round Out Program.

Contributing to an elaborate program, with song, story and incident all reminiscent of the diamond during 1924 and preceding years, players, managers, league officials and business men sat about the Y. M. C. A. festal board Thursday night at the fourth annual banquet of the "Y" industrial league.

More than 80 persons attended. W. T. McNutt, past president of the circuit, presided as toastmaster. About the speakers' table were seated W. E. Wells, of the Homer Laughlin China Co.; his sons, Joseph and W. E. Wells, Jr., executives of the same concern; Attorney Samuel Crawford; W. H. Vodrey, president of the Y. M. C. A.; D. Trotter, president of the Y. M. C. A. baseball league; C. H. Davis and J. Hall, of the K. T. K. pottery.

In charge of the music was Prof. Hugh Laughlin, of the city schools. Blaine Cochran gave several vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. Danks Cochran.

For the league, Attorney Crawford presented Manager J. Sprague of the champion Hall China club the silver cup emblematic of the title. "To retain this trophy permanently, you must hold this cup two more years in succession," asserted Attorney Crawford. "I hope I shall have the pleasure a year from now of again presenting you the same token of your club's prowess that I am now handing you."

Manager Sprague accepted the cup and carried it to the section reserved for the champions. The Spalding trophy, presented each year by the company, was given to the club by C. H. Davis. In the temporary absence of Captain Lester McMath, former Captain Shaw accepted and expressed the club's apprec iation.

Toastmaster McNutt called upon the Hall club quartet, consisting of Parsons, R. Pollock, S. Deshler and B. Shaw, to sing, and the vocalists, responding with "Old Black Joe," knocked a home run into the left field bleachers. Not to be outdone, a quartet from Laughlin, defeated in the final league series, responding to Toastmaster McNutt's request, swatted out a few vocal base hits themselves. The singers were Barr, Brown, Reardon and Riser. Manager Hap Jackson, Grafton, Moore and Dustman, of the Potters were content with a musical triple to the right field fence. The latter quartet told all about "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," but was unable to render it in the exact way in which it was done a few minutes later by Toastmaster McNutt and Attorney Crawford.

W. E. Wells felicitated the league for the high standard of play of the past several seasons, and narrated incidents of the days back in the eighties when he managed Homer Laughlin clubs playing for the benefit of the Johnstown flood survivors. "I used to play industrial ball when my younger contemporaries here were in swaddling clothes. We pitched the ball in then to the batter. Later came the thrown ball. Unless a team made 20 runs it invariably lost." He paid high tribute to the game as an American institution, its part in the development of right sensibilities and its marked freedom from dishonest tendencies despite the occasional flurry that comes from apparen: individual lack of moral turpitude.

In kindred vein, extolling the virtues of baseball and the growing strength of the Y. M. C. A. industrail league, President Don Trotter, vice president David Buzzard, Managers Sol McCoy and Will Ashbaugh, W. H. Vodrey, Joseph and W. E. Wells, Jr., T. T. Jones and W. J. Scott, industrial secretary, spoke.

As a final feature and in keeping with former post season banquets, Lee C. Cooper, of the baseball commission presented the players leading in various departments with appropriate gifts contributed by local merchants as a mark of their interest in the league and the players.

The prize winners follow:

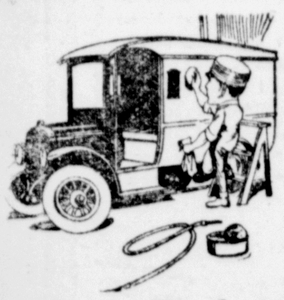

Leading hitter—Bill Mundy, Laughlin, N., .467, hat by the Erlanger Co.; leading base stealer—E. Bayley, Smith Phillips, 20 bases—stick pin by Leon Rubin; leading run getters—C. Finley and Kent McConnell, of Laughlin, N., 32 each—umbrellas given by Ogilvies and Moyer Co.; leading pitchers—Sanior, of Hall and Lon Rees, of E. M. Knowles—fielders' gloves by C. H. Davis and C. O. Weaver; leading walker—Roy Rariden, Laughlin, N., 16 passes—box of candy, by Harry Fleming; most aggressive manager—Hap Jackman, of Potters—safety razor by C. C. Anderson.

Responses were made by the players who received gifts.

CHICK COLEMAN TO HELP BOONE

Greys Add Assistant Coach as Result of Big Squad.

Coincident with his summons to members of the East Liverpool Greys for the final practice drill of the week, Friday evening at city park, Manager George Cochrane of the local semi-pro eleven announced that Charles "Chick" Coleman, of this city, will assist Coach O. V. Boone during the remainder of the season.

The increase to the coaching staff has been made necessary, it was pointed out, as a result of the ever increasing squad. In former years Coleman played with the Greys and lately has been officiating at various games in the valley.

Next week the squad will be cut to approximately 20 players, it was announced. At the present there are between 30 and 40 candidates drilling.

In previous years the club has been classified as a lightweight aggregation, but, within the past few weeks, has added enough poundage to make it a heavyweight eleven. Manager Cochran is getting in touch with a number of semi-pro teams throughout the state for games. These games will be played on the road as a result of the team's inability to obtain grounds at home.

Practice will start on Friday evening at 6 o'clock.

NARDACCI BACK FOR PITT GAME

W. Va., Officials Confirm Report of Star's Return.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—On their arrival in Pittsburgh this evening members of the West Virginia University football squad will be hurried to a quiet hotel where they will rest until time for the kickoff of the twentieth Mountaineer-Pitt gridiron battle to be fought at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon.

There will be about 25 athletes in the advance party. The remaining members of the varsity squad will not be taken to Pittsburgh until Saturday morning and are to make the trip on a special train scheduled to leave here at 7:45 a. m.

Although the team will not be quartered at the William Penn hotel this year that hostelry will be West Virginia's headquarters for tickets, alumni and stadium campaign workers.

The Mountaineers are to practice here early this afternoon and following the short workout will get ready to leave for Pittsburgh in a special car to be attached to the regular afternoon Pennsylvania train.

University athletic officials confirmed the report that Nick Nardacci, diminutive halfback, had returned to the squad. He has been making a valiant effort to get back into condition after being out of uniform for more than three weeks. At this time he is only in fair shape.

Besides second string material Saturday's special train will carry the university cadet band and hundreds of Mountaineer fans to the scene of the battle. On their arrival the crowd will parade from Union station to the William Penn hotel. Returning the special train will leave Union station at 11:15 p. m.

Very little of a definite nature has come out of the Mountaineer football camp this week. All practices have been secret. Even newspapermen have been barred at certain times. Never has Dr. Spears been more successful in keeping his battle plans under cover. All that could be learned today was "the men are in good shape and working hard."

Influence of series on politics is enormous. If Senators win, Republicans will claim the credit as campaign asset. If team loses, Democrats will cite Washington's flop as new evidence of administration's inefficiency

"Newell's Black Jack," eagle hound owned by W. E. Wells Jr. of Newell, proved his class in the field trials of the Ohio Northern Beagle club, under way this week at Chippewa Lake, when he finished in front of a record breaking field in the 15-inch derby. He was awarded first prize.

In addition to "Newell's Black Jack," there were 28 starters, considered as an exceptionally large field. As a result of his brilliant performance the beagle is being taking in the 15-inch all-age trials which will finish on Saturday.

YALE-GEORGIA MEET IN EAST

Ohio State and Iowa U. Hold Spotlight in Mid-West.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The last touches preliminary to the opening of the heavy schedules in the 1924 football season will be provided in East, Mid-West and Far West in gridiron games set for tomorrow.

Of the lot there are few which appear to great advantage in attractiveness over others.

Probably outstanding among eastern games is that between Georgia University, generally considered very strong in the Southern Conference, and Yale, to be played in New Haven.

In the midwest the contest between Ohio State and Iowa University will hold the spot light, for it is a big ten game, and covers the days card for conference games in that sector.

California in the far west meets Pomnoa in what is little more than a practice contest. Other games scheduled include:

Alabama vs. Mississippi College at Tuscaloosa; Chicago vs. Brown at Chicago; Cornell vs. Williams at Ithaca; Dartmouth vs. Vermont at Hanover; Furman vs. Mercer at Greenville; Georgia Tech vs. Florida at Atlanta; Harvard vs. Middlebury at Cambridge; Illinois vs. Butler at Urbana; Indiana vs. Louisiana State at Indianapolis; Kansas vs. Iowa State at Lawrence; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies at East Lansing; Minnesota vs. Haskell at Minneapolis; Missouri vs. Missouri Wesleyan at Columbia; Northwestern vs. Cincinnati at Evanston; Notre Dame vs. Wabash at South Bend; Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, at Norman; Oregon vs. Pacific University at Eugene; Pennsylvania vs. Swarthmore at Philadelphia, Penn State vs. Gettysburg at State College; Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia at Pittsburgh; Princeton vs. Lehigh at Princeton; Purdue vs. Rose Holytechnic at La Fayette; Stanford vs. Olympic club at Palo Alto; Tulane vs. Louisiana Tech at New Orelans; Army vs. Detroit at West Point; Navy vs. Marquette at Annapolis; Southern California vs. Arizona at Los Angeles; Wisconsin vs. Coe at Madison.

STOOPS TO SHIFT LIBERTY LINEUP

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Coach Larry Stoops will probably start a changed lineup in Saturday's game against Fairmont Normal, as a result of injuries to the squad.

Several of the players have been idle during the past daily workouts, due to their injuries which have kept them out of scrimmages. Other men are getting the call in these practices and will probably be started Saturday.

In the backfield with McSwiggen and Captain Combs injured, Evans, Hand, McBride, Kady, Robinson and Hamilton are getting groomed.

Kiger, New Martinsville High product, who was injured in the California game, is again in uniform and has been shifted from a backfield position to a terminal post, and may fill the duties of Reece of East Liverpool, who is still feeling the effects of Bethany game.

BOLES DRILLS BACKFIELD MEN

WOOSTER, Ohio, Oct. 10—"Wooster needs a revival of interference" declared Coach Boles of the Wooster College football team. The Wooster mentor is far from satisfied with the way his backs have been protecting the man with the ball this season.

The scrimmage Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were directed mostly with this in minds of the men. Wooster will have to show better protection of the offense to show any strength.

The scrimmage Tuesday evening was a costly one. Joe Hurst, steller halfback, was injured and will probably be out of the next two games. It will be impossible for him to be in shape to start the Akron game here Saturday.

Wooster is expecting a record breaking crowd for this game which is the day of the dedication of the new $45,000 football stands. The new bleachers will seat 5,045 and the portable stands will take care of 1,500 more.

Next week Wooster goes to Oxford and will be the attraction for the Miami Homecoming.

BETHANY ELEVEN TO PLAY GENEVA

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Lots of snap and ginger characterizes the Bison practice sessions as they prepare for the Geneva game which will be staged Saturday afternoon at Beaver Falls, Pa. Coach McCandless and Backfield Coach Elder are working to put the final polish on the team and to try to develop considerable reserve material to back up the first eleven men in case of injuries.

SPORT SPARKS

By LES CONKLIN.

Attending games will seem natural to Congressman, who will pry themselves loose from the pork barrel and group themselves around the hot dog stands. Between innings they will make speeches.

If politician craves seat in Congress, voters must have seats in ball park. And that is why world's series slice of Washington team will be thinner than a flea's eyelash.

CHICK COLEMAN TO HELP BOONE

Greys Add Assistant Coach as Result of Big Squad.

Coleman with his summons to members of the East Liverpool Greys for the first practice drill of the week, Friday evening at city park, Manager George Cochrane of the local semi-pros announced that Charles "Chick" Coleman, of this city, will assist Coach O. V. Boone during the remainder of the season.

The increase to the coaching staff has been made necessary, it was pointed out, as a result of the ever increasing squad. In former years Coleman played with the Greys and lately has been officiating at various games in the valley.

Next week the squad will be cut to approximately 20 players, it was announced. At the present there are between 30 and 40 candidates drilling.

In previous years the club has been classified as a lightweight aggregation, but, within the past few weeks, has added enough poundage to make it a heavyweight eleven. Manager Cochran is getting in touch with a number of semi-pro teams throughout the state for games. These games will be played on the road as a result of the team's inability to obtain grounds at home.

Practice will start on Friday evening at 6 o'clock.

NARDACCI BACK FOR PITT GAME

W. Va., Officials Confirm Report of Star's Return.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—On their arrival in Pittsburgh this evening members of the West Virginia University football squad will be hurried to a quiet hotel where they will rest until time for the kickoff of the twentieth Mountaineer-Pitt gridiron battle to be fought at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon.

There will be about 25 athletes in the advance party. The remaining members of the varsity squad will not be taken to Pittsburgh until Saturday morning and are to make the trip on a special train scheduled to leave here at 7:45 a. m.

Although the team will not be quartered at the William Penn hotel this year that hostelry will be West Virginia's headquarters for tickets, alumni and stadium campaign workers.

The Mountaineers are to practice here early this afternoon and following the short workout will get ready to leave for Pittsburgh in a special car to be attached to the regular afternoon Pennsylvania train.

University athletic officials confirmed the report that Nick Nardacci, diminutive halfback, had returned to the squad. He has been making a valiant effort to get back into condition after being out of uniform for more than three weeks. At this time he is only in fair shape.

Besides second string material Saturday's special train will carry the university cadet band and hundreds of Mountaineer fans to the scene of the battle. On their arrival the crowd will parade from Union station to the William Penn hotel. Returning the special train will leave Union station at 11:15 p. m.

Very little of a definite nature has come out of the Mountaineer football camp this week. All practices have been secret. Even newspapermen have been barred at certain times. Never has Dr. Spears been more successful in keeping his battle plans under cover. All that could be learned today was "the men are in good shape and working hard."

Influence of series on politics is enormous. If Senators win, Republicans will claim the credit as campaign asset. If team loses, Democrats will cite Washington's flop as new evidence of administration's inefficiency

STOOPS TO SHIFT LIBERTY LINEUP

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Coach Larry Stoops will probably start a changed lineup in Saturday's game against Fairmont Normal, as a result of injuries to the squad.

Several of the players have been idle during the past daily workouts, due to their injuries which have kept them out of scrimmages. Other men are getting the call in these practices and will probably be started Saturday.

In the backfield with McSwiggen and Captain Combs injured, Evans, Hand, McBride, Kady, Robinson and Hamilton are getting groomed.

Kiger, New Martinsville High product, who was injured in the California game, is again in uniform and has been shifted from a backfield position to a terminal post, and may fill the duties of Reece of East Liverpool, who is still feeling the effects of Bethany game.

BOLES DRILLS BACKFIELD MEN

WOOSTER, Ohio, Oct. 10—"Wooster needs a revival of interference" declared Coach Boles of the Wooster College football team. The Wooster mentor is far from satisfied with the way his backs have been protecting the man with the ball this season.

The scrimmage Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were directed mostly with this in minds of the men. Wooster will have to show better protection of the offense to show any strength.

The scrimmage Tuesday evening was a costly one. Joe Harst, steller halfback, was injured and will probably be out of the next two games. It will be impossible for him to be in shape to start the Akron game here Saturday.

Wooster is expecting a record breaking crowd for this game which is the day of the dedication of the new $45,000 football stands. The new bleachers will seat 5,045 and the portable stands will take care of 1,500 more.

Next week Wooster goes to Oxford and will be the attraction for the Miami Homecoming.

BETHANY ELEVEN TO PLAY GENEVA

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 10—Lots of snap and ginger characterizes the Bison practice sessions as they prepare for the Geneva game which will be staged Saturday afternoon at Beaver Falls, Pa. Coach McCandless and Backfield Coach Elder are working to put the final polish on the team and to try to develop considerable reserve material to back up the first eleven men in case of injuries.

SPORT SPARKS

By LES CONKLIN.

Attending games will seem natural to Congressman, who will pry themselves loose from the pork barrel and group themselves around the hot dog stands. Between innings they will make speeches.

If politician craves seat in Congress, voters must have seats in ball park. And that is why world's series slice of Washington team will be thinner than a flea's eyelash.

New Way Eczema Goes In 48 Hours

Many people who suffer from itching skin and Eczema like to use salves and ointments and some of them are very good.

The one way, however, and the new way to get rid of Eczema in 48 hours or less, is to use Kojene, the most powerful non-poisonous, non-alcholic antispetic known.

It's a liquid and a six ounce bottle costs but 60 cents at Carnahan's Drug Store, Jesse D. Holloway or any progressive druggist and if it doesn't relieve in 48 hours—money back. Directions on each bottle. Cautions, pimples, blackheads, sores, boils, etc., are quickly overcome by Kojene. Get it today.

EMBARGO ON FOOD IS LIFTED; IMPORTANT PROBLEMS SETTLED

The dyspeptic's food problem is settled at last. World's Tonic has lifted the embargo on meats, vegetables and pastries. Hundreds are now eating whatever their appetites crave, and there is no come-back, either—no indigestion, headache, heartburn, or bloated feeling.

Among those who have told an interesting experience with World's Tonic is Mr. Harry Shaw, 320 Third street, East Liverpool. Mr. Shaw is employed at Western Pottery. He says:

"For several years I suffered with stomach trouble. I had a bloated feeling after eating and my stomach was often so sore that I could hardly stand my clothes fastened around me. I was often afraid to eat a mouthful of food.

"Finally my entire system became run down and I felt tired and weak. Even the slightest tasks tired me out.

"I read about World's Tonic in the newspapers. So many recommended World's Tonic that I decided to try it. I am now here to tell how it relieved me. I am feeling fine. I am stronger and feel more cheery. My work is a pleasure instead of a burden."

Get World's Tonic at Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth street, East End, and C. N. Brannan's Willsville, and all other reliable druggists. $1.00 a bottle.

DEFIANCE, O.—Because of unusually high prices of feeds, particularly corn, poultrymen of Defiance county have begun marketing their chickens about three weeks earlier this fall than last, a survey of the Gary and White, and Swift and Co., plants here disclosed. During the last few days both plants have been humming and the forces increased to care for the growing marketing. Managers of the plants say the trend now should obviate the customary peak load near Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

During the last few days both plants have been humming and the forces increased to care for the growing marketing. Managers of the plants say the trend now should obviate the customary peak load near Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

OBERLIN. — Authorities are looking for a college student who is believed responsible for numerous petty robberies since Oberlin college opened this fall.

EMBARGO ON FOOD IS LIFTED; IMPORTANT PROBLEMS SETTLED

The dyspeptic's food problem is settled at last. World's Tonic has lifted the embargo on meats, vegetables and pastries. Hundreds are now eating whatever their appetites crave, and there is no come-back, either—no indigestion, headache, heartburn, or bloated feeling.

Among those who have told an interesting experience with World's Tonic is Mr. Harry Shaw, 320 Third street, East Liverpool. Mr. Shaw is employed at Western Pottery. He says:

"For several years I suffered with stomach trouble. I had a bloated feeling after eating and my stomach was often so sore that I could hardly stand my clothes fastened around me. I was often afraid to eat a mouthful of food.

"Finally my entire system became run down and I felt tired and weak. Even the slightest tasks tired me out.

"I read about World's Tonic in the newspapers. So many recommended World's Tonic that I decided to try it. I am now here to tell how it relieved me. I am feeling fine. I am stronger and feel more cheery. My work is a pleasure instead of a burden."

Get World's Tonic at Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth street, East End, and C. N. Brannan's Willsville, and all other reliable druggists. $1.00 a bottle.

GRABBING CHANCES

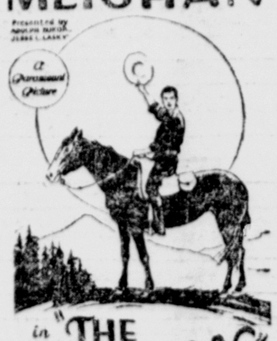

DOWN in Texas, there are men contented to manage one section of land and are seemingly unable to acquire more. Other men who began with one section have accumulated forty or fifty sections or even more.

Count it luck if you will, they seized the opportunities that offered—they excelled in some phase of ranching. Several states have tried to counteract this inequality by restrictions on land holdings. But it has never worked and never will. We [illegible] initiative.
